

New View Book Is Presented

This year, Queens has decided to send a "brand new" view book to all prospective students instead of the usual folder containing old pictures of the school.

This view book was created by student and faculty committees which included Henrietta McIver, Judith Killian, and Mildred Thomas, who planned the writing of it; Lib Brammer, who helped plan the form in which it was written; Eugenia Neu, who, assisted by Mary Payne and Lib Greene, had charge of the snapshots.

Miss Connie Burwell headed the faculty committee which included Dr. Howe, who had charge of taking many of the pictures; Miss Tillett, who corrected the grammar; Dr. Godard, who put it in the correct form; and Dr. Blakely, who supervised the whole project and put his approval on it. The new view book was published by the Charlotte Observer Printing House.

An idea of the contents is this: It begins with a letter to the new students from the president of the student body; next, comes a tour of the campus with Burwell Hall as the center. Included in this tour are pictures of the different offices, the library, the "Y" store, the science building, the chemistry lab, the biology lab, the art lab, the music building, the exterior of Morrison dormitory, the auditorium, the dining hall with students seated at a meal, the dining room at the practice house with Mrs. Booker and the home economics girls, back campus with the day student building, the sorority houses, and the hut.

Other featured snapshots are of May Day, Stunt Night, Christmas choral program, some of Miss Robinson's pupils, and some of Miss Wharton's pupils. Also included in the view book are some of the many things which Charlotte has to offer to the students of Queens.

We should feel proud of our college and all those who have worked to make this a well-organized view

JUST A SPLATTER

... gosh, we feel like marching into March... But before leaving D. C. may we ask what became of Nancy's Jack? Has he "G. W. T. W."... pardon, we were thinking of Mimi... and, boy, but we are proud to have such an outstanding "figger" among us. We're a hit "Moody" on the "figger" subject... but Nina Brown figures right in. What's this? You say that they're taking the 'phone out of Watkins... wonder why?... guess Tommie Thomas will have to change her calls to Lily Long.

book, which will in turn help prospective students to make up their minds to come to Queens College and further its ideals.

(Get the point? West.) Angelina, Caroline, Bill, and the Red Suede Jacket had a beeg time this weekend.

"The Rains Came?" the rains have gone away, this has been "Just a Splatter," so now we'll dry up.
