

Chapel Committee Continues Series Students Select 24 May Court Attendants

College Hears Spagh On Moravian Faith

Series Includes Lutheran, Episcopal Other Speakers.

Analyzing the Moravian faith, the Reverend Herbert Spagh gave in chapel Friday morning the third talk in the current series based on different religions. Rev. Spagh is a daily contributor to the Charlotte News.

Father Baran Discusses Catholicism

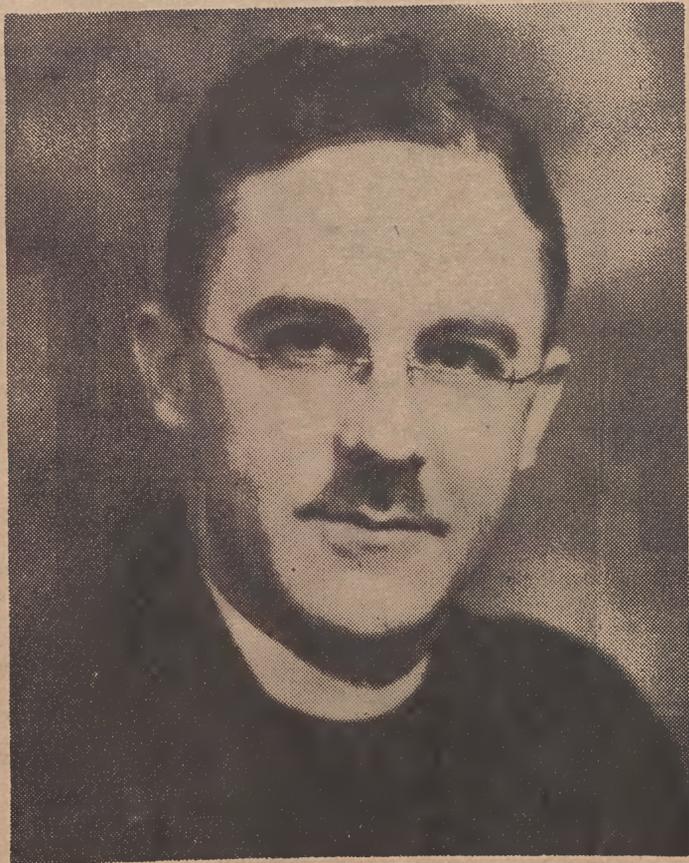

At the last Friday chapel, Father Baran spoke to the student body on the main foundation and tenets of the Catholic church. He discussed the founding of the church with Christ as the cornerstone and the present authoritative and sacramental beliefs of Catholicism. The main value of his talk was in helping his hearers to understand the seemingly positive and intolerant views of Catholics.

Rabbi Greenburg Clarifies Judaism

The first in the series was a talk on the Jewish faith by Rabbi Greenburg, who explained the main practices and beliefs of Judaism. His principal point was that both the Jews and the Protestants are striving for world peace and worshipping the same God, even though they differ in that the Protestant religion is founded upon belief in Jesus Christ and Judaism is founded only on that portion of the Scripture written before Christ.

Five Other Ministers Will Speak

The remaining speakers in the series, which was instigated to help us develop a deeper understanding of many different faiths in order that we might live in closer harmony and co-operation with their adherents, are from the various branches of the Protestant Church: Dr. J. F. Creigler, Lutheran; Rev. Alfred Cole, Episcopal; Rev. H. P. Powell, Methodist; Dr. Holmer Rolston, Presbyterian; and Dr. W. H. Williams, Baptist.

Three Students Numbers Organizes All-Girl Band

The following is the program that was presented Sunday afternoon, March 1, at 4:00:

- La Traviata—Ah, fors'è lui che (Verdi).
- The Musical Snuff-Box (A. Liadoff) by Margaret Daniels.
- Allerseelen (Strauss)
- Secrecy (Wolf).
- Sea Moods (Tyson) by Esther Love Hillhouse.
- Life (Ronald).
- A Nochturme (Curran) by Margaret Harden.

This was one of a series given by the music department for the day students and their parents. The series will continue through March, the next program being presented by the string section.

Alumnae Plan Journal

Miss Virginia Smith, secretary of the Alumnae Association, has announced that the Association is now working on an alumnae publication, the first edition of which will come out in May. This will be a regular alumnae journal and is the first of its kind that Queens has published in several years. The first edition will contain news about the faculty and students of Queens and many personals about former class members.

DEFENSE IN CLASS

The general consensus of opinion seems to be that the classes in which defense and their relation to defense was discussed several weeks ago were both interesting and profitable. The teachers devoted at least one class period to the discussion of defense.

On a whole, the program was informative and the students are agreed that the time devoted to these discussions were well spent.

Beauties Of Campus Selected In Chapel

From a group of thirty-six nominees, the student body elected on February 18 the twenty-four attendants who will appear in May Court. The May Day celebration is traditionally held on the first Friday of the month.

Defense Body Sees Need For Unified Aid

The first of a new series of chapel programs given by the Defense Council was held Wednesday morning. Since Edna Adams, chairman of the committee, was unable to be present because of illness, Ann Kerr Brown led in the devotional. Other members of the council are: Jane King, Jane Norton, Ann Wiley, Maurine Latta, Marguerite Gillespie, Sarah Prevatte, and Lib Lael. Each girl gave a report on what definite things girls could do to help in the campaign.

Ann Wiley introduced the chairmen of the various groups, and gave a talk on the duty to work hard as college students.

Jane King, collection chairman, encouraged everyone to save stamps, empty tooth paste tubes, and books.

Jane Norton, knitting chairman, asked all to join her knitting circle which will be started as soon as wool can be gotten from the Red Cross. She ended her talk with "Remember Pearl Harbor and when the wool comes in, purl harder."

Lib Lael, social activities chairman, presented a plan for the entertainment of a troupe of soldiers every Friday night. It has been suggested that each organization on the campus be in charge of this entertainment at least once. The freshman class will entertain Friday night.

Sarah Prevatte told of the plans of the discussion committee. Groups are to meet to discuss such helpful subjects as child care and home nursing. Interesting outside speakers will appear before the groups. They will not merely give lectures, for the girls will have a chance to express their opinions and ask questions. A Red Cross First Aid class has already been organized on the campus.

The program was closed by Ann Kerr Brown, who charged each of us to do her best to co-operate with our Defense Council, and in that way with the defense program of the whole country.

These girls will compose the May Court over which Doris Raley, Ruby, S. C., will reign as Queen, attended by Mary Catherine Martin, Forest City, as Maid-of-Honor.

Plans for the festival are under the direction of Miss Cordelia Henderson, physical education instructor, assisted by Winnie Shealey, May Day Chairman.

Dramatic Dept. Names Cast For Spring Play

Plans have been completed for the major production of the spring to be presented by the Dramatics Department on the night of Thursday, March 12. The play, a three-act mystery entitled "Ladies in Waiting," will be shown in the college auditorium.

The cast has been chosen and characters will be played by the following dramatic students: Mary Catherine Martin, Mary Heilig McDow, Margaret Powell, Mary Boykin Moore, Mary Palmer Lazenby, Margaret Davis, Alice Ross, Hildah Foreman, and Adelaide Henry.

The following girls were initiated into Alpha Eta Sigma on Saturday, February 21: Jean Pyle, Eloise Alexander, Wilda Dellinger, Ruth Favell, Elsa Turner, Ruth Hough, Julia Keys, Kathleen Hardee, Irene Hardee, Nan Ratliff, Emmy Wood, Laura Smith, Aurelia Myers, and Jean Alexander.

Snow Delays Tuberculin Tests

Because of the weather, the tuberculin tests scheduled for last Wednesday, Feb. 25, have been postponed until Wednesday, March 4. These tests, free to the students and faculty, are to be made by several doctors of Charlotte.

GIRL OF THE WEEK

As the girl of the week we have chosen Patsy Scoggin of Conway, South Carolina. She has been prominent on the campus since her arrival at Queens in the Fall, and last week Patsy was elected president of the freshman class. This, however, will not be her first experience in an office, for she was president of the student body at Conway High school. Besides this honor she was voted the most popular girl in senior statistics; she was in the National Honor Society, worked on the paper, and was a cheerleader.

Cheerleading is one thing Patsy loves to do, for on a list of things she loves, cheering the home team to victory comes first. Other things she loves are scrap books, photo books, diaries, and old letters. She revels, so she says, in sweet, sentimental, "appropriate" music, especially when played on an organ. Besides bull sessions she loves to see a young couple really in love. I wonder why?

At first Patsy could think of nothing she hated, but finally she said that she really hated to get up in the dark or miss a meal and, hoping Dr. Graham would not hear her, she whispered that she hated Chemistry problems; as a matter of fact she admitted that she had no favorite subjects but understands French and English best.

Patsy is planning to stay at Queens and graduate—if only she could get hamburgers and potato salad! She is going to try and get all she can out of her education but in the meantime, she is aiding America by saving Defense Stamps.
