

VISITORS FROM THE UNITED STATES ARMED FORCES

PFC. JAMES W. HILL: Pfc. Hill paid us a visit November 8, 1943. James makes a fine looking soldier. His furlough started at the close of maneuvers, 150 miles in the desert. Imagine living three months without seeing the sun. It rained, sleeted, and hailed every day. James feels that he has the best job in the army--Field Artillery Gunner. There are 250 North Carolinians in his outfit. He likes the army much better than he did at first. He has travelled in nearly all of the states except six now. Good luck to you Pfc. Hill. Hope you can visit us again soon.

CPL. ITA AYSCUE: Cpl. Ayscue came home recently to get his wife. He and wife have returned to Camp Abbot where he is now stationed. Ayscue has a busy day. His work consists of building camps, training troops, building roads, and buildings. He likes Camp Abbot fine. He has been there since May 14th. Don't forget your friends and fellow workers back at Caromount. Write us often.

PVT. FLOYD HEDGEPEETH: After three weeks at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Floyd was given a furlough. His wife wasn't the only one who was glad to see him. Floyd has completed his basic training and has taken a complete course in wheel vehicle mechanics. He seems to be very well satisfied with his work in the army. Even though you can make brief visits, we hope you can make them often. Lots of luck to you Floyd.

SGT. JOSEPH D. McCORKLE: Sgt. McCorkle is a laboratory technician at Camp White, Oregon and likes it swell. Lab. technicians are known as "Blood Suckers". McCorkle's training has consisted of the following; two weeks in ward work-(did not like it), two weeks in Dental School-(did not like it as well as Lab. Tech.), four months in hospital training as Lab. Technician. He has spent three days in projectionist school learning how to operate nine types of projectors but has operated a projector only one time. Sgt. McCorkle says there is too much rain at Camp White. He hopes to have an opportunity of getting more army technical training after the war. Now he wants to go "over" and do his part. We all are looking forward to seeing you again very soon.

SGT. DAVID FREDERICK EDWARDS: Sgt. Edwards entered the Marines August, 1940. He has been to San Francisco, New Zealand, Guadalcanal, New Calidonia, Australia, and San Francisco. He has been in four battles in the Southwest Pacific and was an battle for which Presidential Citation was awarded. He is now at the U. S. Naval Convalescent Hospital, Ashville, N. C.----Serial Number 294464.
