

RECEIVES ART AWARDS

Congratulations are in order for James Weaver, Jimmy Craig, Charles Lyons, and Fred Baldwin. Some of their art work were selected and shown in the Regional Scholastic Art Awards Exhibit WFMV-TV held in Greensboro and the region on the campus of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro from February 14-28, 1965.

James Weaver received a certificate of awards for WFMV-TV Scholastic Art Awards Contest, State Competition. His work is being exhibited in Elliott Hall, U. N. C. in Greensboro.

Jimmy Craig received first place honors in Orange County in the Hallmark Contest for Seniors, sponsored locally by the Woman's Club of Chapel Hill. Charles Lyons received third place honors in the same contest.

This was the 8th consecutive year that WFMV-TV has been regional sponsor of Scholastic Art Awards, which is sponsored nationally by Scholastic Magazines, Inc. and is designed to encourage student achievement in creative art.

NEW FACES ON CAMPUS

As a result of an interview with Miss Dianne Sampson and Miss Idyquin Anthony, two student teachers, from North Carolina College, this reporter learned some of the plans that these students have made and some of the opinions that they have formed regarding the students at Lincoln High School.

Miss Sampson, a native of Clinton, N. C., is performing her student teaching in the Home Economics Department, under the supervision of Miss R. P. Pope.

Commenting on Lincoln, Miss Sampson said, "the faculty and student body have shown their kindness and helpfulness in many ways, and that she finds student teaching quite an experience." After graduation, she plans to attend New York School of Interior Designs in July.

Miss Anthony, a native of Roper, N. C., with special interest in Library Science, is under the supervision of Mrs. M. W. Laster. She commented on Lincoln by saying, "I am very impressed with the friendliness of the faculty members and students. I am sure that my stay at Lincoln will be a helpful and educational experience." Her plans are to be a high school librarian for awhile and then attend graduate school to receive a master's degree.

Past Attraction!

The Famous Rhythm Kids from the State School for the deaf and dumb in Raleigh appeared in concert Friday, March 9, 1965 at 8:00 P.M. in the Auditorium of the Lincoln High School, Chapel Hill. Admission: adults, $1.00, Students, 50 cents. Benefit of the Lincoln High School Senior Class. The program proved to be a fine evening of entertainment for the entire community.

Negro History Week At Lincoln

The week of February 7-14 was Negro History Week. Negro History Week is a week set aside annually to arouse interest in the study and observation of the roles the Negro played in American history. Negro History Week falls in the week that Abraham Lincoln's birthday is celebrated. This is, because Lincoln has been called, the "Liberator of the American Negro."

Lincoln High School also observed Negro History Week. From the beginning of the week, many signs referring to the Negro were in the building. Pictures, pamphlets, articles, and books were featured on classroom bulletin boards, on the hall bulletin boards, walls, on the library bulletin boards, on the shelves, and on the table displays.

On Thursday, February 11, 1965, the Negro History Week Committee of Lincoln sponsored an extraordinarily entertaining, as well as, educational program. The theme was "Basis for the New Negro." Platform guests were Mayor Sandy McCamrock of Chapel Hill, Mr. James Peace, Principal of Jarvis Elementary School, Mr. Adebisi O. Otudeko, Instructor of Frank Porter Graham Elementary School, Dr. Howard W. Duhart, Pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church.

Rev. Duhart led the assembly in prayer, the Lincoln High School Faculty Chorus sang beautifully, the truth in life "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen." Mrs. M. H. Harry read an interesting poem from Paul L. Dunbar. Next, Mrs. Otudeko sang beautifully a solo. Mr. R. D. Smith introduced the speaker, the Rev. Alex A. Chambers, Pastor of St. Joseph Methodist Church in Chapel Hill.

After Rev. Chambers gave an interesting and inspiring speech, the Faculty Chorus sang beautifully "Amen." With sincerity we are grateful to the faculty for the fine presentation to the audience and platform guests.

Following the introduction of guests and the remarks and announcements, the audience sang the Negro National Anthem—"Lift Every Voice and Sing."

The ushers were Mattie Edwards, Brenda Francis, Douglas Mason, Stella Farrar, Barbara Burnette, Fred Baldwin and Yvonne Alston, who contributed to making the program successful. Jewel Francis, Reporter

Band To Attend District Festival

For many weeks, the band members have been practicing during regular school hours and after school to attain their aspirations of the District Band Festival which will be at N. C. College in Durham, with all of the bands in the Central Piedmont from Raleigh to Winton. Lincoln will enter as Division (Grade 3) and will play "The Plainsman" by Frederick McKay. The date of the Festival is April 9, 1965. Good luck to the members on their endeavor this year.

MABLE MINOR

Mable Minor Named Lincoln's Betty Crocker Homemaker Of Tomorrow

Mable Ann Minor has been named Lincoln's 1965 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. She scored highest in a written homemaking examination taken by senior girls in December, and is now eligible for state and national honors.

Test papers of all school Homemakers of Tomorrow in the state are currently being judged. The state's highest-ranking girl will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, Inc., sponsor of the annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow, with the state runner-up to be awarded a $500 educational grant. In addition, the school of the State Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive a complete set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica from Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

Later this spring, the State Homemaker of Tomorrow, together with a school advisor will join first-place winners and advisors from each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia in a tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C., and New York City. Climax of the week-long tour will be the naming of the Betty Crocker

All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. To be chosen on the basis of original test papers and observations. During the tour, she will receive an increase in her scholarship to $5,000. Second- and fourth-place winners in the national will have their grants raised to $4,000 $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow was initiated by General Mills in 1954, to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. Including this year's record enrollment of more than half a million senior girls in more than 1,400 high schools, the total number of participants during the program's 11-years history stands at four million. Scholarship grants exceed $1 million.

NCC Announce Sixth Summer Science Program

North Carolina College at Durham and the National Science Foundation announced the Sixth Summer Science Program in Biology, Mathematics and Chemistry for high ability eleventh grade students for June 7 - July 17, 1965.

The program for 6 weeks is designed to stimulate interest and enthusiasm in the areas of their growing interest by providing the students with opportunities for independent study and investigation in one of the areas of their interest.

The national Science Foundation, through a grant to North Carolina College at Durham, will underwrite the major portion of the cost of this program. Students who are unable to pay the full cost of their travel and fees, may make application for financial assistance in order to attend this program. Admission to the program will be based up-

Students Work Hard For Trip To United Nations

Students of the 12th grade are at work, reading to gain a background for writing essays in the annual contest to earn a trip to the United Nations.

Although the annual tour to the U. N., sponsored by the American Freedom Association, was publicized early in the year, the students became earnest about the matter only as they became conscious of the deadline for turning in the finished essay on March 10.

The title of the essay is the United Nations and the Maintenance of World Peace. The students participating are Mary Webb, Charles Lyons, Larry Foushee, Fredia Laney, Willie Mae Fikes, Warren Harris, Lenora Farrington, Julia Alston, Joseph Edwards, Emily Carlton, Laura Burnette, Devon Bynum, Barbara Burnette, Edna Lloyd, Douglas Mason, Clyde Durham, Bettye Farrington, and Jacqueline Gore. They will meet in Greensboro, North Carolina.
