Definition of $a$ Soldier

We like thit definition of a moldier, printed by The Caribbeain Brewe:
 been toned by unimiormed withere ef the reon fin the araed lorces.

Soldien todery are finformad parsonal They are mintelligent groap with a keve evase of huocr. The trpe of "bueh rah" honded eat during the zure decode concerning the qualding roolde, the hourd-bolled engeom, beoms for chow, revelle of $4: 30 \mathrm{a}$. I.. delifices joy or derpondent gloapi at mail coll, cigar coupons uned for maney, and all the other jumik thot is supponed to mirror the cvercige moldier, leaves us with a bad taste in our month. To poil it mildily, our reaction fe "Rarnefoadherrl"

The sookfe, as wind him, is a fillow who might be any age from 18 to 50 . If he is 18, the chonces are that he has had a mufficient cmount of schooling to give hiva stable atilook on life-whether it is a life cas civilian or a soldier. He is not the etupid fool coricotured by cortoomists, nor is be the wise guy portrered by memeationed writ ers. He in probably a likeable chap tully eapable of amo willing to adapt himeelf an readily as posalble to Army life. He has no teed of the "hard-boiled" sergeont . . . If the rookie is of the mare odvanced age, he has probably apent a number of years in some industry and hie recocticns are matore. He, too, ham no need for the "hard-boiled sergeomt.

It cem reodily be seen that the "horrd-boiled" sergeant it also a mith. The sergeant, as a mula, lives with the men be aither trains or leads. A ruthlems leoder wonid soon alienate the spirit of cooperation anoong his underitnge the les he were in a praition to dietate even their thoughts, ench af in evident toder in Nari Germany. The sergeant does not have thin complete control of his man. There are loopholes through fhich a dissatistied group can eicope. The loopholes in the case of the "hard-boiled" eergeant are gold bricining tripe to the ditpensary, transtor to another orgoni sation and many other excuses. The very fact that a number of men in a group mary seek these coillels indicutes improper trainfing and poor morale. The sergeant realises this. To get the mont out of his men he must be monevhot of a pry chologist. He must leam to get the mont out of his men through cooperation, for it is a cortainty that he will not IUST PEOPI
