SMITHFIELD HIGH TIMES

they're fire-resistant and non-washable. For night time wear there's even a knitted paper with vinyl straps and daisies.

Here's a new way to steal a party spotlight: dresses with lovely lines, perky sleeves that call attention to your tanned arms. Butterfly sleeves, puff sleeves, and the cut-out sleeveless are new.

Let's face it--for sheer glamour, nothing beats an extra helping of lashes. But if you've balked at the bother, or shied away from the showiness, we can't blame you until now. Revlon's invested mistake-proof 'private eyelashes', which are pre-shaped, pre-trimmed, pre-feathered, and so easy to put on.

Max Factor has invested shiny eyeliner which stays shiny even after it dries and is water proof. Someone has come up with counter-shine pressed powder. It soaks up excess facial oils and keeps you looking neat and fresh.

Guerlain describes his new L'Heure

Bleue as a finely balanced perfome, subtly

blended with fragrances from the far corners of the earth.

In the jewelry department, there's also something new. Identification bracelet watches. Slim and stylish for the girls, they're rugged and manly for the boys.

When summer makes the scene, dull colors exit. Boys' fashions have made tremendous strides in the last year and should be better than ever this summer. Pastel pants with contrasting stripes are seen in the palest yellows, greens, and blues. Pants are somewhat more conservative now than their madras and paisley counterparts of a few months ago. Boys look much neater in these new, fresh, perma-pressed fashions.

Alligator is still with us in the form of belts, wallets, and shoes. Tasseled wing tips seem to be going popularity in the footwear department, along with the old standard-tennis shoes! (Old basketball shoes, really.)

Beachwear is loudly Hawaiian this year, but for some reason boys around SHS prefer those lovely cut-off jeans. Oh well, we love them anyway.

Margy Hinnant

Gail Evans