The fifty accused seamen during the course of the trial were allowed to testify in their behalf and they uenied the charges of "mutiny, conspiracy, and concerted action with an intent to usurp, subvert, or override superior military authority."

The alleged mutiny followed the tragic explosion at Port Chicago on July 17th in which 322 men were killed, the majority of whom were Negroes. The fifty seamen who were sentenced to the long terms were survivors of this explosion. The record shows that twelve of thom had been hospitalized as a result of the holocausat, and several others had received first aid treatment for bruises, burns, and shock, in his summary Chief Defense and the standard of the control of
