WHITE AND DU BOIS WRITE ON COLONIAL PROBLEMS AT SAN FRANCISCO PARLEY

And again, inside the same Empire, it is both astonishing and discouraging to find among the leading 'tree nations' battling for democracy...

'To this we may add the fact that before the present war 73,000,000 Japanese ruled 800,000,000 peoples in Manchukuo, Formosa and other territories without giving them any decisive voice in their government...

In France 38,000,000 whites rule 71,000,000 colored peoples in Africa and Asia. Portuguese with 7,000,000 ruled 10,000,000 Africans and the United States of America ruled 19,000,000 colored people in Alaska and the Philippines...

'This does not mean a world racial war, at least within measurable time. It will more likely mean a resumption of bitter struggle between the existing nations for air, land, sea, trade routes, raw materials, manpower and spheres of influence...

San Francisco Conference session is set up under the Economic and Social Council, will work out a bill of rights in specific terms, guaranteeing freedom of speech, freedom of religion, the right of education, the right to protection by law, etc.

Then, this bill of rights would be incorporated into a series of treaties to be recommended by the council to the organization's members. When the several governments confirm these agreements, they would bind themselves to obey all provisions. However, they would be under only moral obligation to eliminate any existing laws discriminating "as to race, language, religion or sex."

The question of whether more incorporation of these ideals and principles into the charter will ensure their implementation in practice can be answered, however, only in terms of the general policies which are agreed upon, and the degree to which these policies are implemented within the member nations.

FIRST NEGRO AWARDED LEGION OF MERIT MAKES PLEA FOR COLLEGE FUND REPORT

press photographers and reporters. Sgt. Davis, whose hometown is Macon, Ga., was wounded by German shrapnel while attempting to bring rations to his gun crew during the battle for Pisa.

He said that his own plans for an education include enrollment at one of the 32 private schools associated with the United Negro College Fund's nation-wide campaign for $1,550,000.

The wounded soldier, an artilleryman with the 92nd Division, told of the exploit which earned him the coveted medal almost at the cost of his life. Last August 30, his artillery battery had been pinned down for eleven hours by intense enemy fire in order to get food for his outfit.

On the subject of education Sgt. Davis expressed the belief that many of the returning Negro servicemen will take advantage of the new laws and regulations. Act, popularly known as the GI Bill of Rights, to continue their education. Sgt. Davis desires to be a writer. At one time he did "some spare time reporting" for the Atlanta Daily World. His family lives at 237 Third Avenue in Macon and he has two brothers and a sister.

During the interview Sgt. Davis read a cable from General Mark Clark to Chairman Morgan which endorsed the United Negro College Fund and praised the record of Negro soldiers in the war. Sgt. Davis' outfit, the 388th Field Artillery Battalion of the 92nd Division, is part of Gen. Clark's 15th Army Group.

Sgt. Davis' Legion of Merit citation reads in part: "For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service. By reason of his inspiring leadership his section soon became the best in the battery and continues to improve until it was generally rated the best in the division. As First Sergeant he held the reputation of being the best non-commissioned officer in the battalion."

ELLINGTON RETURNS FOR VISIT calls his wife "Lollipop", a name which he, because of her, gave to the plane in which he performed so many missions. The Lieutenant leaves here on June 2 for the Rehabilitation Center in Atlantic City, New Jersey. He expressed the hope that he would see further overseas duty.

Two Bound Over In Auto Theft Case

RALEIGH — After probable cause was found in their cases in City Court this week, two men — David N. Jones of 504 West South Street, and James Washington of 520 W. Lenoir Street — were bound over to Wake Superior Court, charged with larceny and receiving of a taxi belonging to L. H. Watkins, white, of the Raleigh Taxi Company.

Because Judge West believed that he has a strong case against Washington, the man was bound over under bond of $500. Jones, on the other hand, presented a weaker case and his bond was set at $100. Neither man testified in court.

According to Watkins' testimony the two men got into his taxi while it was parked at Hall's Service Station, South and Sanders Streets. Watkins was across the streets at the time. Washington, who was identified as the driver of the car, drove down the street a few feet and picked up another man and stared away. They stopped, however, when persons watching the incident yelled at them. When questioned as to their behavior, Washington said that he was going to put air in the car's tires.

George Hall, a witness to the apparent theft, testified that Washington was a former employe of his, but that the man was not in his employ on the day of the theft. Tom Lundson, of Woodard's Service Station, identified Jones as the man who was in the car at the time of the theft.

Judge West commented that Jones might have talked himself out of the charge, but since he failed to defend himself, he must be bound over to Superior Court for trial.

William J. Kennedy, 3rd, of Durham, commissioned a Second Lieutenant at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., on April 18, 1945 and after a brief leave at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kennedy, Jr., 1008 Fayetteville Street, reported to the Medical Department Replacement Pool, Station Hospital, Fort Huachuca, Arizona.
