TEN NEGRO DOUGHBOYS DECORATED FOR HEROISM WITH 14TH DIVISION

The troops were proud themselves when Brigadier General Charles Trueman Lanham, the assistant division commander and a general who spent much of his time up front, told them, "I have never seen any soldiers who have performed better in combat than you."

RECORD SPOKE FOR SELF

Their record spoke for itself. They had taken many a town during the Timberwolf Division's lightning thrust past the Rhine. One of their men had been recommended for the distinguished Service Cross, a decoration ranking only behind the Medal of Honor.

They smiled when the general told of the first Negro soldier he had seen in combat — a youth who had insisted on wiping out an enemy sniper's post although already wounded and exhausted. They remembered how nervous they had been when the first machinegun bullets went over their heads, and how their hatred for the Nazi had overcome that "stage fright" which inevitably comes to all fighting men. They applauded enthusiastically when General Lanham thundered: "I want you with us when we go after those Japanese."

Also present at the ceremony were Brigadier General Richard C. Partridge, chief of staff of the Seventh Corps, and Brigadier General William Woodward, 16th Division artillery commander. Colonel Bartholomew R. DeGraff, chief of staff of the Timberwolves, read the citations, and the 14th Division Band, one of the few bands in the European Theater, played the Merit Service Unit Plaque, playette titled "Star Spangled Banner" on the field where Nazi storm troops had once gone-stopped to the strains of the "Horst Wessell."

BULLET IN BACK SLAYS NEGRO SUSPECT GOLDSBORO

Some witnesses reported that "Matvin was shot again after falling to the ground," but the latter charge was not substantiated by further inquiry.

Coroner Seymour emphasized that there will be no further hearing of the case unless new developments demand such hearing.

When asked by the investigator to state his decision as to the cause of Edmondson's death the coroner, William A. Seymour, replied "accident."

The boys were allegedly riding along the Goldsboro to Wilson highway when the chase began. Seeing that they were being overtaken by the officers' car they immediately stopped their vehicle and began to run to safety, both men running in opposite directions.

To find and clearly inform Carolinian readers of all angles of the officers' barbarous activities, this report questioned Negroes as well as whites in several sections of Goldsboro.

The wife of Edmondson was sick with fear of her own safety, it seemed. Every time a question was addressed to her she simply, but nervously, nodded her head monotonously in one direction for yes or no.

The leading Negroes, along with the boy's wife, and the masses of others, seem to know nothing at all of the killing. That I had the was with him, for his gun. Officer Dickinson at first refused. Later, however, he complied. Sheriff McCall took it and aimed a powerful blow at Mr. Bailey's head. By dodging quickly, Bailey received only a glancing blow which did little damage.

It was Sheriff McCall who, according to the affidavits filed with the governing, fractured the skull of Mack Fragar, another of the workers arrested and fined for vagrancy. Both Mr. Fragar and Mr. Bailey are reported to have left Eustis.

Further evidence of the way in which terrorism is used against workers are the warnings and twice-repeated threats that friends of the sheriff might lynch either the Negroes or the Caucasians involved in the investigations.

WINDSTORM CAUSES DAMAGE IN CITY

Line damage. Trees fell on wires on Beechridge Road, Halifax St., North Wilmington and North Blount St., Polk St., New Bern Avenue, Oberlin Road and the highway leading into Cary.

City Park Department workmen concentrated on removing fallen trees from the sidewalks until late at night, as the city's street lights are off.

At the Raleigh airport, where the winds swept at 50 miles an hour, a cab plane was lifted from the ground and tossed against a hangar in the Army section of the field. The pilot was taking the plane back to Selma when the sudden wind struck, but he returned to the field and landed safely.

All movable objects in the downtown section were blown about and pedestrians had "hang on" with all their strength.

Appearing in the same issue is a timely and enlightening article about the "White Primary and the Supreme Court" by one of Chicago's outstanding young Negro lawyers, Attorney Sidney A. Jones, Jr. This article gives an account of the history and significance of the Texas white primary. The decision given by the supreme court in the case of Smith vs. Allwright, states Mr. Jones, might well go down in history as one of the greatest decisions ever made by the court.

discharge petition No. 4 today so that bill may come to floor of house for debate and vote before June 23 deadline. Please

On June 1st the House Appropriations Committee announced it would not include any funds for the FEPC for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1945 on the ground that legislation is pending and therefore "the only logical course is to await legislative developments before a recommendation." The completion of signatures on the Discharge Petition bringing the bill to the House floor for a vote will prove definite support for Congress for the measure and force the Appropriations Committee to favor FEPC for another year.

Because the situation is so critical, the NAACP urges immediate action of ever organization and individuals concerned with the fate of the FEPC to wire members of the Appropriations Committee and Senators generally, insisting that the Congress vote appropriations for continuance of the present FEPC until legislation for the permanent Fair Employment Practice Committee can be enacted. The only thing that can save FEPC now is a torrential flow of telegrams.

Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee are: Democrats: Carter Glass, Virginia, Chairman; Kenneth McKellar, Tenn.; Carly Haynes, Arizona; Elmer Thomas, Okla.; William E. Tydings, Md.; Richard Russell, Ga.; Pat McCarran, Nevada; John H. Overton, La.; John H. Bankhead, Ala.; Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyo.; Theodore Francis Green, R. I.; Dennis Chavez, New Mexico; James M. Mead, N. Y.; Burton K. Maybank, S. C.

Republicans: Styles Bridges, New Hampshire; Wallace H. White, Jr., Maine; Chan Gurney, South Dakota; C. Wayland Brooks, Ill.; Clyde M. Reed, Kansas; Harold H. Burton, Ohio; Joseph H. Ball, Minn.; Raymond E. Whitis, Ind.; Homer Ferguson, Michigan; Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb.

SOUTHERN HATE REVEALED

The viciousness which certain elements in the South have reached in their attitude toward FEPC is revealed in the magazines Alabama and the Southern Outlook. The Alabama (June 1 issue) demands, "Southern senators, organize your ranks for this vital showdown. The South is squarely behind you. You know all too well that this is one thing we won't take!" In glaring headlines, the Southern Outlook (June 3 issue) yells: "FEPC will Heterize USA." Going to great length the article quotes Rep. Joe Devin (D. North Carolina) in his effort to reveal the "dark forces" which hold the best of all jobs and the edge in employment.

for Father in 1910, I feel almost certain that her thoughts went beyond parenthood (or just being a daddy). I am sure, she was thinking more in terms of St. Matthew 7:20 "By their fruits, ye shall know them" — I am sure, that she was thinking of a day for Fathers of IDEALS, IDEALS, VISION, and CHARACTER, he said.

Sgt. Stewart mentioned several other important considerations which the fathers of the nation must not overlook. Among these are: a. Proper guidance of young people who are starting life; the economic structure of our democracy and the limited and opportunities; and the social and political outlook of the returning Negro G. I. and the growing youth.

"a. Power of the ballot; and its proper use; b. Labor organizations, their place and value; c. Social legislation, general welfare and d. Post War planning."
