In his own league, the All American conference, Motley was also picked all-league fullback. He received the largest number of votes of any member of the all-league team with 57. This is his third straight year as all-league fullback. His teammate, Bill Willis, former Obio state great, for the third year in row was voted all league guard. The powerful linesmen, however, were relegated to the second team in the all-pro selections.
