This trio is known over the country as the New Concert Sensation.

FRANKIE ENTERS "BE-BOP" CIRCLE

NEW YORK — With Frank Sinatra's record of "Boh-De-My Heart," bebop has finally arrived on the commercial musical horizon. Written by Walter Bishop and Cole Porter, the tune was recently released by Columbia records and has struck the public's fancy. Many music experts had long predicted that the newest innovation in sounds, bebop, wouldn't become an art until it had been reduced from a complex cacophony to a melodic line that could easily be hummed by the public. With this tough tin mind, Bishop and Porter have turned out a tune that meets this qualification.

One of the top young tune-miters in the Phil Alley, Bishop in the past has turned out such songs as "Surprise Party," waxed by John Mercer, who also did his "Baby Likes to Bobop" with the King Cole trio; "Mad About You" and "Devil Sat Down and Cried." Styne has written "It's Magic" and the score for the current Broadway musical hit "High Button Shoes."

ED. MATTHEWS WINS ACCLAIM IN SHAW CONCERT

Edward Matthews, whose fame as one of America's most accomplished pianists is steadily growing, was given a warm response Friday night in Greenleaf Auditorium of Shaw University. He was presented at that time as the featured artist in Shaw University's annual Faculty Concert.

A near-capacity audience of concert patrons and faculty and students of Shaw, vigorously applauded every number of the personable singer. Prior to the intermission and after the concluding program item, the audience by prolonged and insistent calls virtually demanded encores of the gracious artist.
