*'Live as Bravely
As They Die'*

General Bradley Paces the Caisson

By Omar N. Bradley
Chief of Staff, U. S. Army

This is the text of an address delivered by General Bradley at Longmeadow, Mass., at the reburial service for Corporal Edward K. Wilkin, Company C, 157th Infantry, Forty-fifth Division, Medal of Honor winner, who was killed in action April 18, 1945. Because General Bradley's words are worth repeating whenever and wherever Americans may honor their soldier dead, they are republished here on the anniversary of the reverent service held by Corporal Wilkin's friends and neighbors at Longmeadow.

HERE ON THE long green meadows of this tranquil New England town, we have come to do honor—not alone to one brave soldier—but to the generations of earnest young men who left their homes to defend them at Concord, Antietam, San Juan, the Argonne—and in the snows of the Ardennes.

For as long as free men have lived, worked, worshipped and reared their families under these elms, so long have their sons been summoned to arms against those who would covet or destroy them. In generation after generation they have been forced to quit these quiet homes in your peaceful valley to fight—and sometimes to die—in conflicts visited upon them by issues that seemed remote from their everyday lives.

From the chancelleries of London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Tokyo and Moscow, those bitter struggles that have scarred the progress of all mankind eventually spanned the seas to invade the snug parlors and warm kitchens of these colonial homes. And as these world struggles have wasted the youth and resources of nations, they have also left behind them sorrowing women and empty chairs in the houses on this green.

It is easy for us who are living to honor the sacrifices of those who are dead. For it helps us to assume the spirit we should feel in their presence. Wars can be prevented just as surely as they are provoked and therefore we who fail to prevent them must share in guilt for the dead.

I have not come here today to consecrate war and its evils for the sacrifices war has produced. For every man whom war has inspired sacrifice, courage and love, there are many more whom it has degraded with brutality, callousness and greed.

RATHER we are gathered here to take comfort and strength from those of our dead who have already given this Nation so much. We have come to learn—if we can—how men might live as charitably together in peace as they died for each other in war.

We have come to ask why it is that our young men must spend their bodies against the Siegfried Line—why it is men cannot live as bravely as they die.

In our hatred and renunciation of war, we must not forget that the roots of conflict flourish in the faults and failures of those who seek peace just as surely as they take shape from the diseases and designs of aggressors.

While the American people have within themselves the moral strength, the power, and wisdom to marshal their forces against aggression in whatever form it affects—we cannot feign innocence through indifference or neglect of struggles that bring on wars. We have suffered enough in two world wars to know that non-involvement in peace means certain involvement in war.

Either we shall employ our strength, power, and conscience boldly and righteously in defense of human dignity and freedom or we shall waste those reserves for peace and default to the forces that lived new wars.

This lad we buried today is partly the victim of your folly. He is the victim of your folly and the folly of all the peace-loving peoples who turned their backs on the ills of the world. For at the very time those aggressors at whose hands he met his death conspired against the peace of the world, we blinded ourselves to their threats and by our shameful inaction countenanced their starting attack.

Secure in distant and peaceful towns like these, clinging to comforts, refusing risks, seeking safety in refuge and refuge in words, we recounted power and conscience to side with those who sought peace at any price. Too late we discovered the price was too high and to keep our freedom we paid in the bodies of our young sons.

IF THE United States ever again stoops to expedients to avoid the difficult decisions that come with leadership, the heavy burdens that come with defense, we shall once more run the dangers of all half-way measures and waste our strength and conscience as a weather-vane rather than a force.

If we shrink from the necessity of meeting issues boldly with principle, resolution and strength, then we shall simply hurdle along from crisis to crisis, improvising with expedients, seeking inoffensive solutions, dragging the Nation with an illusion of security which under those conditions cannot exist. If we are to scanner from crisis to crisis, fixing principles and policies to the change of each day, we shall place ourselves supinely and helplessly at the mercy of any aggressor who might play on our public opinion and decimate our forces at will.

To live bravely by convictions from which the free peoples of this world can take heart, the American people must put their faith in stable, long-range policies—political, economic and military—programs that will not be headed and cooled with the brightening and waning of tension.

The United States has mated to world leadership; it is time we steered by the stars, not by the lights of each passing ship. On this Memorial Day, as we take leave of this brave soldier—Corporal Edward Wilkin, Army of the United States, Medal of Honor winner—we pay homage as he would have done, to all his fallen comrades—to the strong, the weak; the leaders, the led; the brave, the fearful; to all who perished where only God could witness their charity to their fellow men.

Proudly—but reverently, sadly—we honor them. We pray they will ever rest in peace.

SHORT JOURNEY

BY MRS. DOLIE M. SANDERS

practices planned are a continuation of our activity period. The calendar of events is as follows: Tuesday, May 26, at 4:00 P. M. will be Primary Girls Club, Board Education Group II, Elementary Grade, Glee Club. On Tuesday, June 2, will be Four-H Club, Creative Arts, Vocal Music and Physical Education Group I or Sunday, June 5, at 4:00 P. M. The Rev. S. M. McGuire, our beloved pastor of Wilmington, will deliver an address. All pupils are invited to the school for commencement exercises. The public is invited to attend all the programs.

On May 27, an exhibit will be held at the school. This exhibit will display articles made by the handcraft, 4-H Club, Arts, sewing and writing society groups. The 4-H Club members plan to exhibit articles made from feed bags. Christmas cards and card board. The theme "Make the Best Better" is in keeping with their club motto.

The Short Journey Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Osteen Elliott at her home at 2:30 P. M. last week. The meeting opened business was discussed. Members presented garments and articles that they made from old clothes. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Vern McCannan and Little Rose Elliott in serving ham sandwiches, deviled eggs and raisins. The meeting was very interesting and enjoyable for everyone.

Mrs. and Mrs. Reuben Sanders in Four Oaks, Route 3, are the proud parents of a baby boy, Reuben Jr. The baby weighed in pounds and 4 ounces at birth. Mother and son are doing nicely. Among our visitors include Mrs. Nancy Hood, Mrs. Bertie Sanders, Mrs. Minnie Watson, Mrs. Arlene Thomas. We pray for them a speedy recovery.

CZECHS RIDICULE DEMOCRACY IN U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A mock parades of American life was depicted in a May Day parade held last week in Prague by the Czech Communists for the purpose of ridiculing democracy as it is practiced in the United States.

An AP wirephoto of the parade, appearing in a local paper showed two blacked-up persons portraying the American Negro, tied with ropes and being driven ahead of a group of hooded figures dressed in what resembled Ku Klux Klan garb.

Behind them marched a group of men dressed in American army uniforms, but giving a Nazi salute. This is assumed to have been a representation of the white American citizen who preaches democracy but practices for some time as directed by the German Gestapo.
