U.S. Aid Seen Forcing Ark. School Reform

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (ANP)

If a federal aid to education law passes in Congress, schools in the state of Arkansas run through political patronage will have to reform.

An example of how teachers may be selected at both Negro and white schools tells why white schools are poor, and Negro ones even worse. A ruling made by Atty. Gen. Ike Murry last week makes it possible for almost anyone to become a teacher whether he has any qualifications or not.

This ruling says that relatives of members of county school boards may become teachers on the signatures of 50 percent of the qualified voters of the district. On this basis the few people who vote by working in cahoots with the county board can take in all the money from the school whether they went to college or not. Even bus drivers for school buses may be hired upon petition of a simple majority of so-called qualified voters.

Voters in Arkansas as in other states number only a small percentage of the total population.

If federal aid to education comes, Arkansas to qualify will have to employ teachers who have attained certain standards of education and efficiency. Then the state will be forced to improve conditions of do without the lucrative federal money.

CPL INCREASES POWER OUTPUT

LUMBERTON, N. C. — 60,000 additional horsepower will flow into the network of the Carolina Power and Light Company September 30 when Gov. Scott closes a switch to begin production of power at the company's huge new 120,000 horsepower steam electric generating plant here.

Another turbine similar to the one already installed will be added by next year.

Formal opening of the unique "semi-outdoors" plant will take place at 2:30 p. m. and the public has been invited to attend the ceremonies. L. V. Sutton, president of CP&L will share the speaking with Governor Scott, and Rep. F. Eitel Cardyle of the district will preside over the program, which will be broadcast.

After inauguration of production, the CP&L Company will hold open house, with guides to explain to visitors how coal and water are transformed into power.

The new generating station is three miles from Lumberton and is on the Lumber River. Started in May, 1948, it is getting into production about three months ahead of schedule. It is part of a multi-million dollar post-war building program of the Company, to serve the thousands of rural customers added since the war, as well as the program of rural expansion now underway.

H. U. ANNOUNCES TUITION BOOST

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Following the trend in most American universities and colleges, Howard University has found it necessary in its post-war readjustment to inaugurate small increases in tuition fees in its several schools and colleges, and to reorganize its administrative set-up to the extent of creating three new important positions.

Two of the new positions, dean of the university and business manager, have been filled by Dr. William Stuart Nelson, former Dean of the School of Religion, and George L. Washington, former administrative assistant to the president of Tuskegee Institute, respectively. The third position, director of public relations, is occupied temporarily by Dr. James M. Nabrit, Jr., secretary of the University.

TUITION INCREASES

The increases, which go into effect on September 1, are as follows:

Graduate School: from $141 to $171, or $30 per year; School of Social Work: from $160 to $171, or $21 per year; College of Liberal Arts: from $141 to $171, or $30 per year; School of Engineering and Architecture: from $141 to $171, or $30 per year; College of Pharmacy: from $150 to $171, or $21 per year; School of Law: from $150 to $171, or $21 per year; School of Music: from $180 to $204, or $24 per year; College of Dentistry: from $225 to $260, or $35 per year; and College of Medicine: from $315 to $360, or $45 per year.

These increased fees cover tuition charges for the regular school period of approximately nine and one-half months.

Dr. Nabrit also announced changes in the dates for the opening of the several schools and colleges. He said registration of the School of Law will be held on September 13th, and for new students in all other schools and colleges on September 30th, except the College of Medicine, which will hold its registration on September 27th.
