RALEIGH PUPILS ATTEND BAND CLINIC-Judging from the reaction of the above group al Raleigh school pupils, the time-honored practice of lamenting the end of vacation and the coming of back-to-school days is a thing of the past. The youngsters shown in the pictures are among those who bade goodbye to the playgrounds, swimming nools and other vacation haunts a week early to attend a band clinic conducted at the Bloodworth Street YMCA by Leon Thompson, director of instrumental music in the city schools. At the upper left some of the members of the brass section get tegether to work out their own problems Left to right are: : William Watson, Charles Hunter, Alphonzo Wallace and Boykin Gartrell. Upper center-A group of the youngsters learn that disearded phonograph records may be molded into other shapes which permits their use as vases, flower pot holders and other useful items. In the group are: Mr. Thompson, Samuel Faucette. Harold L. Prince, Nancy Giles, Paul Freeman and Lennon Hartis. Upper right Charles Hunter receives individual instruction on the trembone from Mr. Thompson who is coaching him for a solo which he is to deliver at a later program.

Lower left: During a rehearsal of the clarinet section other members of the group pause while Nancy Giles receives help on a particularly difficult passage. On the front row are Harry Payne, Paul Freeman, T. Lily. Back row, Nancy Giles, Mr. Thompson, Norris Cannady, Thurman Davis and Mabel Mitchell.
