Hair beauty secrets... by Toni

Looking for a new hair style? Here's one that combines the easy-to-keep practicality of short hair with the feminine flattery of soft curls. Carol Douglas, Home Beauty Consultant, has worked out the "home-do" instructions pictured here. The hair is approximately 2 inches in length and tapered to a V in back. In setting, make large pin curls, bringing the strands of hair up and away from the face on the sides and straight up in back. The secret of the "springy" curls is a natural-looking home permanent which gives body to the hair and holds the set between shampoos.

Scallops make an excellent Friday night supper dish. Use either the small bay scallops or the large sea scallops. The small bay scallops are available in the "R" months, the sea scallops may be had all year round. Broil the scallops in

Liberia Seeking Trained Settlers

MONROVIA (ANP) — An official announcement by the Department of State of Liberia, issued last week, makes crystal clear a question which has interested people in many lands, especially the United States and the West Indies.

Liberia offers a fervent welcome to people who understand that the African Republic is no paradise but a country just struggling to her feet especially if those immigrants are willing to come over and join in the national effort to aid and perpetuate a great African state of political, economic and social freedom.

But Liberia has no room for drones, those who think they can live by their wits alone or who wish to exploit those with less understanding. It welcomes people who wish to do their share of constructive work in whatever field their talent and training lies.

President Tubman points out as he did in his inaugural address, "The purpose of the founding of this Republic was to offer a home for all the sons and daughters of Africa — those who were originally here, those who came and those who shall come hereafter."

arranged by K. O. Mbwadie, director of the academy. Well known among the many African leaders because of the large number of African students who have attended Lincoln University, Dr. Bond expects to make a tour of the interior before returning to the United States.

Special grants are available to immigrants from the West Indies, under laws passed in 1863.

Secretary of State Gabriel L. Dennis points out:

"Not only have we received with open hands of welcome immigrants of recent times but wherever it has been found practicable, employment has been given to those of them who showed ability in various fields. Engineers have been placed in prominent positions in our Public Works and Utilities departments and some in the Radio service. Those interested in education have been employed in the Education department. Those inclined toward farming have been given every opportunity and encouragement to cultivate their land grants. Others who were able have taken up employment in various commercial and industrial enterprises."
