GIRL FROM NICE PEOPLE FINDS SELF IN MESS

I know that I have made mistakes and am doing wrong to go with this fellow but I didn't intend for it to get as serious as it did. I want to know what to do? My mother as well as the rest of the family are really nice people and I don't want my mess to start June 3, 1927.

Ans: The mess has done started. His wife already suspects something as she has seen you together. If you continue seeing this man, she will make a scene and embarrass you. Drop him like a hot cake — and don't date any more married men under any circumstances — it only leads to trouble. SHOULD MOTHER BREAK UP?

HOUSEKEEPING AND MOVE IN WITH MARRIED SONS

I have been a widow since July. I have three of the best boys any mother ever had. There isn't anything that either of them wouldn't do for me. They love me and show it. All three of them want me to break up housekeeping and come and live with them. I know I could be happy with any one of my boys. Give me some advice. March 6, 1927.

Ans: Plan to visit your sons at various intervals throughout the year but don't go as a permanent guest. You've had your own home for a long, long time and you wouldn't be altogether satisfied living away from home. Maintain your independence so that you can live and enjoy life in the manner in which you are accustomed.

LED GIRL ALONG SIX YEARS NOW HIS SMILES ARE FOR OTHERS

I have been going with this fellow for six years. I am about to get disgusted with him. He led me to believe that we would marry. Now he never mentions it. I want to get married some day but when I do I want a man that is loving with me and not one that smiles at everyone but me. Am I wasting my time? Jan. 2, 1919.

Ans: You're getting nowhere with him. You'd better clean house and let him find another resting place. He's perfectly content to string along and let you wait on him, hand and foot, but he very definitely is not going to get married. Get back in circulation and you'll find the kind of husband you want.

FAMILY PICKS POULTRY OVER TOBACCO CROP

While many Person County farmers depend on tobacco as their main source of income, Mr. and Mrs. Asper Clay of Woodsdale Route 1, decided to rely on poultry, says C. J. Ford, Negro county agent for the State College Extension Service.

When the Clays moved to their farm in the spring of 1944 following the death of Mr. Clay's father, they started their poultry enterprise with 12 pullets and a rooster. Income from the small flock paid for 2 1-2 barrels of flour and 100 pounds of sugar plus other little items during the year. In the fall of the same year, they added 100 baby chicks. The roosters from this flock were eaten and sold and the pullets culled for layers. The remarkable thing about the 100 chicks, Mr. Ford said, was that Clays did not lose a single one of them.

By following good managerial practices, the 40 hens kept from the 100 original chicks, paid for their feed, the dairy feed for the cows, and the food and other items needed by the Clay family. They have continued their poultry project each year and today they have 175 hens. In addition to paying for practically all of the family expenses, Mr. and Mrs. Clay say they usually have a savings of about $8.50 left over each week.

RIVERS, Nov. 12 GAL THREE

Wheat stocks in all positions in North Carolina as of October 1 totaled 3,532,000 bushels, as compared to holdings on the same date last year of 3,220,000 bushels.

Barley stocks in all off-farm positions in the State totaled 91,000 bushels on October 1, 1949, as compared with stocks of 22,000 bushels on the same date a year ago.

MOTHER OF THREE WANTS TO DIVORCE SOLDIER HUSBAND

"My husband is a soldier. I love him with all my heart but he drinks and never wants to help with the children and never wants to carry me any place unless he's drunk and I can't take that. I came home to have my third child and I am thinking that I may as well get a divorce so tell me if this is the thing to do? Jan. 11, 1927."

Ans: A divorce is not the solution. True, your husband's constant drinking is annoying but you are miserable without him. Your children need their father too. When you return — exert more effort in pleasing him and don't expect too much of him in regards to helping with the kids. He loves you and the children. Be more demonstrative in your affection for him and less critical of his weaknesses and you'll get along better.

MEMBERS OF AMERICA'S DEFENSE TEAM

1. THE COLORADO NATIONAL GUARD

Organized in 1880 as the Denver Scouts, the Colorado National Guard has a proud history of service in defense of the Nation that includes the Spanish-American War, the Mexican border campaign, and World Wars I and II. Colorado National Guard Army and Air units saw active service overseas in both world wars, in France, North Africa, Italy, Germany, New Guinea, Luzon, the Southern Philippines. Battle honors, unit citations and medals of honor are no novelty to the Colorado Guardsmen. Two members of Colorado's 157th Infantry Regiment won the Medal of Honor in the last war. The 157th also won two distinguished unit citations, a meritorious unit commendation and the Croix de Guerre with Palm.

GEN. SCHAEFER

As part of the famous 45th "Thunderbolt" Division in the last war, the 157th went through four D-days: Sicily, Anzio, Salerno and Southern France. With the 45th it made the first major amphibious landing on Europe in Sicily. It fought at Salerno, crossed the Volturno, took everything the Germans had to offer at Anzio. Then came Rome, Southern France, the Moselle River, a smash through the Maginot Line, across the Rhine and Danube and into Munich. Five hundred and eleven days of combat and glory!

The 168th Field Artillery Battalion, with the 157th Infantry now a part of Colorado's 157th Regimental Combat Team, fought in the Southwest Pacific. Its campaigns include New Guinea, Luzon, the Southern Philippines. Organized as the 120th Aero Squadron in 1917 Colorado Air Guard's 120th Fighter Squadron also saw action in both world wars.

The postwar Colorado National Guard is an important and vital member of the M-Day force that constitutes the National Guard of the United States. Like the National Guard as a whole, Colorado Army and Air Guard units are training diligently and enthusiastically in preparation for their assigned mission of instant action against an attacking aggressor. Their training is under the direct supervision of the United States Army and Air Force. The equipment and training methods used are the most modern and embody all the lessons learned in combat during the war. Forty-five army units and 16 air units have won Federal recognition and the final unit may be Federally recognized by the time this is printed.

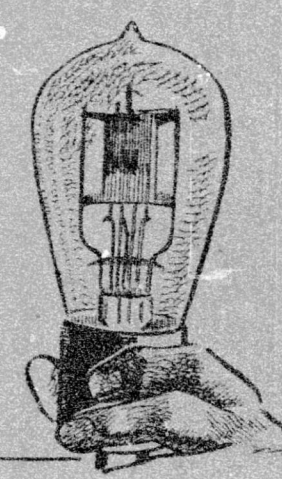

Major units of the Colorado Guard include the 157th Regimental Combat Team, one of the 20 in the nation, with its three component units, the 157th Infantry Regiment, the 168th Field Artillery Battalion and the 192nd Engineer Combat Company; the 193rd Heavy Tank Battalion, the 86th Wing Headquarters, the 140th Fighter Group headquarters, the 120th Fighter Squadron and supporting units.

Adjutant General of Colorado is Brigadier General Irving O. Schaefer, who enlisted as a private in the 157th Regiment in 1924 and fought with the outfit during the invasion of Sicily and Italy. Practically all of the officers of the Colorado National Guard, with the exception of a few specialists, and almost one third of the men are veterans of World War II.

INVENTIONS that SERVE YOU

Lee de Forest

It was but a step from what was called the "Edison effect" in Edison's lamp bulb to the radio tube. That step was discovered and invented by a young American scientist, Lee de Forest, who introduced the grid to capture speeding electrons and cause them to build up from a feeble to a strong volume of sound in the first radio tube. From this single invention were evolved many variations to be used for amplifying sound transmission.

"NO JOB EQUALITY WITH SEGREGATION"

ATLANTA, Ga. — "Fair and Effective Employment cannot be secured under segregation," said Dean B. X. Brazeal of Morehouse College to the Hungry Club. "Segregation must be abolished, not in the distant future, but now," shouted Attorney Z. Alexander Looby, of Nashville, Tenn. to Morehouse College students.

ry T. Penn of that city, and H. Carl Moultrie, Washington, D. C., National Executive Secretary, including visits to chapters in Raleigh, N. C., Atlanta, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., Talladega, Ala., Tuskegee, Ala., Mobile, Ala., New Orleans, La., Baton Rouge, La., Jackson, Miss., and Nashville, Tenn.

"Yes, we are restless, even more restless than were the four good men and true who founded Omega 38 years ago," declared J. H. Cahoun, Director of the Fraternity's National Achievement Project.

A number of Achievement Week addresses were made by these officers en route, to be followed by similar speeches of these other officers and outstanding citizens during the remainder of the month.

These statements, all made in Atlanta, Georgia last week, are examples of expressions made around the country as the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity observed National Achievement Week. As essays poured into the office, and 200 chapters presented radio broadcasts, chapel and public programs, forums, recitals and dances in 35 states and the District of Columbia, Americans were asked to focus this attention upon one of the basic problems of minority groups.

Strawberry weevils spend the winter hibernating in woods or thickets near the places where they were plentiful the previous spring. With the first warm days, about the last of March or early April, they start feeding on flowers or young leaves of wild plants and migrate to fields of strawberries or dewberries.

"Fair and Effective Employment: the Economic Objective of a Restless Minority," was the theme of the annual project, and senior high school students were invited to compete for prizes in a National Essay Contest on the subject: "An Experience in Job-Making."
