

I've Been Thinking

BY CAB CALLOWAY

Lady, you were that hot. I've been thinking about you ever since you left. You were the girl who made me feel like a king. You were the girl who made me feel like a man. You were the girl who made me feel like a hero.

My wife has a beautiful complexion. One of them looks like a blue plate special. I've been thinking about you ever since you left. You were the girl who made me feel like a king.

It's often by that women can wear anything on. I've been thinking about you ever since you left. You were the girl who made me feel like a king. You were the girl who made me feel like a man.

From my perch on the balcony and stages across the land I've probably seen more hats at close range than most guys see in a lifetime.

FAMED SINGERS IN GREENSBORO

GREENSBORO, N. C. — Music lovers here received a rare experience last week when the "spiritual singing" Hall Johnson choir appeared in Annie Merner Pfeiffer chapel at Bennett College.

Under the magnificent direction of their renowned conductor and arranger, Hall Johnson, the group sang songs like "Lord, I Don't Feel No Ways Tired," "Go Down Moses," and "Deep River" which brought enthusiastic applause from a capacity audience.

The superbly trained thirty-voice choir lived up to their reputation of singing spirituals like they have seldom been sung. They rendered buoyant songs like "Way Over in Yonah-Land," "Corny Lord," and "Who Built de Ark." Their interpretation of Handel's "St. Louis Blues" was touched with riotous ecstasy and gave full sweep to the natural harmony of their beautifully blended voices.

Among the encore numbers offered were the spectacular, spiritual, "Water Boy," "Confidant," "Nobody Fray," and "Fare Thee Well."

Following the concert the group was honored with a reception in Merner Hall by the college choir.

HORACE HEIDT

HEIDT'S SHOW SET FOR LOCAL DATE

Thanksgiving night will be a big work he did on his first trip. Other night in Raleigh this year. The starmaker of America, Horace Heidt, is coming to the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium on that night and with him will be his famous troupe, the Heidt-Stoppers and all Musical Knights, plus the Philip Morris Parade of Stars. This year, Heidt is presenting an all new 1950 edition. It is a vaudeville variety extravaganza with a cast of 60 as compared to the 40 stars presented last time here.

The first set of auditions for this year will be held Tuesday and Wednesday evening, November 15 and 16, at 7 p. m. at radio station WNAO. The auditions are open to professional or amateur talent with minimum age set at 14 years old. Stage or radio acts Southern tour because of the fine

OPENS CONCERT SEASON — Attractive Miss Patricia Rae Marshall opened the concert season at Tennessee State College in Nashville, Tenn., with a brilliant recital recently. A graduate of Oberlin College, Miss Marshall teaches piano at the college. Included on her program were works of Beethoven, Chopin, Charles Griffes, and Liszt. (ANP)
