RALEIGH — A photographer should have been present last Thursday night to give you a more graphic picture of the unique shower given by Mrs. W. T. Stroud for her bride-elect cousin, Miss Lillian Perry of Chapel Hill. All guests brought kitchen articles and the unique part was that they all fashioned their gifts into hats and modeled them so that the honoree might choose the most unique and award a prize from the hostess to the wearer.

Prize winner was a creation by Mrs. Johnnie M. Jones of Chapel Hill who somehow fashioned two salad bowls together with a plastic apron, clothes pins, place mats, pot cleaners, artificial fruit, and maybe something else into a really attractive headgear, believe it or not.

Mrs. Clarence Lightner's also drew many compliments; it had a high pointed crown made of several plastic tumblers, and was decorated with artificial cherries. (Sears Roebuck personnel) have wondered quite a bit at three local teachers, one acting supervisor just now, who took advantage of the late hours Monday of last week to go out there and try on pots and pans for heads in the usual way.

The parade of hats came as a climax to an enjoyable evening after a pinocle session and a lovely meal. Hostess Stroud awarded high score prizes to Mrs. F. Turner and to Mrs. A. M. Livingston.

Guests present were Mesdames Marguerite Lightner, Alberta Livingston, Roberta Lightner, Merce L. Yarbrough, Alma Williams, Rosalie Williams, Martha Wheeler, Floreiss Turner, all of Raleigh; Mesdames Ruth Jones, Zelle Thompson, Johnnie Mae Jones, Mabel Weaver and Lillian Perry, honoree all of Chapel Hill. Sister of the groom, Gwen Atkinson of Wilson was also present.

The wedding ceremony took place Saturday, May 10, in Chapel Hill.

TWELVE MELTS

Mrs. D. Henry Harris was hostess to the Twelve Melts Pinocle Club last Tuesday night at her home on S. Blount Street. Two non-club members present as guests of Mrs. Harris were Mrs. Phyllis Haywood and Mrs. M. Flagg, who won guest prize for high score. Receiving first, second, and third club prizes were Mesdames Janet Marchena, Floreiss Turner and Victoria Moore.

Others present were Mesdames Louise F. Perrin, Ethel Lytle, Rosalie Williams, Catherine Winters, Gila Harris, Minnie Freeman, and Victoria Moore. Mrs. Louise McLennan was scorekeeper.

Tarboro St. Since this was the last meeting of the year, there were sad thoughts of parting. However, members will have the entire summer to make plans for a mammoth anniversary celebration this fall.

The hostess first served a delightful meal and afterwards guests enjoyed several rounds of canasta and pinocle. Guests of Mrs. Vaughn were Miss Annette Reid and Mrs. Frank Brower. Assisting her as hostess was Mrs. Carrie Drake.

ABOUT TOWN

BY SARAH VIRGO

Hi there. Here we are again with a bit more chatter 'about town', only not give us a listen? Okay, let's start.

I imagine the topic still under discussion is the many and exciting proms held around this vicinity.

Friday evening, May 9, the Juniors entertained the Senior Class at the annual prom held at Washington's Scholastic Gym.

The theme was "On Moonlight Bay" and was quite beautifully decorated, complete with a lighthouse and everything.

The young ladies' gowns were very pretty, and the young men looked quite dashing in their tux.

After hours of dancing, the majority of the fun lovers continued to look for fun. Where?

Well, Miss Marguerite Mann gave an after party at her home on East Jones Street. Why it seemed that every one in Raleigh was present, well nearly everyone. So if you don't see your name, please forgive me, but I tried. Here's who were present either in the parlor, dining room or kitchen: Charlene Whaley, Julia Roberts, Celestine Rogers and Barry Jones, Swayze Harris, Robert McNeill, Ruth Carter, J. B.
