Fahmbulleh (left), supervisor of schooling in Grand Cape Mount County and Robertspport, Liberia. An interested listener during the interview was Miss Rose Ryal of 1212 Lyon Street, Columbia, S. C. Miss Ryal is a graduate student in education in the summer and a teacher in elementary schools in South Carolina during the winter. Prof. Fahmbulleh is in the country on a Foreign Operation Ad-

Residents Warned Not To Rush To Canada Search Of Work In Tobacco Fields

The Employment Security Commission has received correspondence from the National Employment Service in Canada informing them that primers, loopers and handers should be discouraged from traveling to the Canadian border for entry in the tobacco harvest this fall. While there will be a demand for curers, workers in other occupations should not leave for Canada unless they have in their possession the necessary border-crossing permits.

The Canadian officials pointed out that while in the past, consideration was given to workers who had traveled great distances, without proper clearance, strict enforcement of procedure may be expected this year. This is due to the fact that certain sections of Canada are experiencing increased unemployment and a number of men, already, have entered the tobacco area in search of employment. There is indication of a greater than usual influx of Canadian workers in the tobacco harvest.

Manager Lee Craven of the Raleigh Local Employment Office advises all persons interested in going to Canada to first contact their office at Raleigh, North Carolina.

Every consideration possible will be given tobacco growers in Wake, Franklin and Johnston counties whose crops have been destroyed or seriously damaged by the recent hail storms, who are interested in going to Canada.

$2 Million Improvements Asked

DURHAM—President Alfonso Elder of North Carolina College today recommended some $2 million in permanent improvements for the 1955-57 biennium and an additional $245,000 in renovations and improvements of present facilities.

The recommendation was made to the State Advisory Budget Commission which visited Durham Wednesday on its biennial tour of local state plants.

The college's total budget request will be submitted on August 20, and the college will also be given an opportunity to discuss its total budget request before the Advisory Budget Commission in Raleigh on September 10. Salaries, library facilities, and other parts of the college's operation will be submitted as part of the total budget.

Dr. Elder's emphasis Wednesday was upon a permanent improvement program that sought two new buildings and a modern underground electric system for the college's rapidly growing plant. The two buildings requested were for a dormitory for senior and graduate women to be constructed for an estimated cost of $1,016,363 and student union building estimated at $521,268.

The cost of the underground electric system was estimated at $1,761,000. A total sum of $1,713,700 was requested in permanent improvements.

The North Carolina College president listed 11 items under his $245,000 request for renovations and improvements of present facilities. These included: parking areas, $24,707.50; renovations for women's gymnasium, $17,399.27; bedroom furniture for women, $17,731.35; pipe organ for Duke Auditorium, $35,000; Chidley Hall (men's dormitory) wardrobes $76,000; renovation of basement in senior dormitory, $10,237.23; athletic field improvements, $27,789.00; paving in front of coal bin, $3,000; electric connection in Arnie Day Shepard Dormitory, $1,600; extension of clock system, $7,000; and additional land, $24,128.29.

The NCC president's recommendations today were presented against a background showing a spiraling enrollment at the college which consists predominantly of North Carolina students and teachers.
