

Couple Asks 40 G's From Jackie, Bums

Star Says Action To Hurt Team

MILWAUKEE — SANFORD Robinson and the Brooklyn Dodgers were saved with complaints in a $10,000 case against the Federal Council of a Milwaukee husband and wife who claim they were hit by a ball thrown by the Brooklyn star, June 2, 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wellinski charged they were both struck on the head when Robinson, on his way back to the bench after being put out of a ball game, tossed his bat over the top of the Brooklyn dugout. The Wellinskis claimed both suffered brain concussions, severe headaches and cuts and bruises. Mrs. Wellinski said she was confined to bed for several weeks and Wellinski was unable to work.

The complaint charged Robinson "in an excited, angered and ill-tempered mood" carelessly and recklessly threw the bat over the dugout into the box seats.

Reports of the incident however, have varied. Some say that Robinson threw the bat to the ground and that it then bounded into the stands.

Robinson asserted that he thought the action might be an attempt to upset him and hurt the Dodgers' performance.

"I don't understand it," he said.

Their first lawyer, James Stern, called them aside and said the only thing I had to do was drop them a note. He said they weren't hurt."

'Newk' Pays 354 Bucks For Scene

NEW YORK — (AP) — It cost Don Newcombe $347.70 for blowing his top last week. By now, everybody knows the story of how Don walked out — or was thumbed out — by his manager after he refused to pitch better than he was ordered.

But it didn't take Big Don long to realize he had goofed. And he hot-footed it to the phone to make peace with everybody, from the President of the club down to the bat boy — of course, Manager Alston was sandwiched somewhere in that list. And Friday night, right after he smoked the pipe of peace with the big wigs, Don was given the chance to show what he meant when he said he was ready to pitch. And the big fellow really was never more ready. He went into a fight game and literally blew down the Philadelphia team.

For two innings all he had to pitch, Don was throwing bullets. Next day, Roy Campanella's left hand was red and swollen — but he liked the way Newcombe was.

Manager Alston, who was one of the first to congratulate Don on his exhibition, said he had never seen the fellow throw so fast. And since Don's win kept the Dodgers' streak going, his teammates said they were at last glad somebody had made Don mad and gotten the lead out of his pants. But Don felt neglected and wanted to get into the act. It sure cost him plenty, but maybe it was worth it.

Doped Orange Procurer Is Still Sought

BY MALCOLM PONDexter

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Light Heavyweight boxer Harold Johnson has been confined to Hahnemann Hospital here for a thorough "checkup" following his technical knockout loss to Juan Mederos, Havana Husky, at the Philadelphia Arena.

Johnson, who "acted queerly" in the ring several times before State Athletic Commission doctor Wilbur Strickland ordered the referee to stop the match, was at first thought to have been doped. Johnson told Commissioner Alfred Klein after the fight that he had eaten a bitter orange that same day and suddenly developed a headache.

Although newsmen and state athletic deputies who talked to the Manayunk section boxer before the bout said he seemed to be "allright," Johnson's handlers claimed he didn't look at all well before going into the ring. Skippy Davidson, his chief trainer, said Harold complained of feeling sick.

Pirates Cop Championship In 23rd Net Tournament

PIRATES — Hampton Institute won the singles and doubles contests in the finals of championship play at the end of the 23rd annual CIAA tournament held here at North Carolina College Saturday.

The Pirates Eric Blake, a senior from St. Thomas Virgin Islands, won the singles and teamed with his college partner from Charlotteville, Va., to take the doubles.

The Pirates scored 13 points to finish ahead of Morgan with 12, NCC, 8, J.C. Smith, 5; West Virginia, 4; Union, 2; Bluefield, 2; St. Augustine, 2; and St. Paul's, 0.

Minnie' Minosa Hit Home Run With Her Girl Says In Magazine Article

CHICAGO — Barbara Swader writes in TAN of her romance with baseball star Minnie Minoso, her having his baby out of wedlock. Five months after they began going together Barbara says she learned that she was pregnant but Minnie was in Cuba and she did not hear from him until the next spring.

When she finally saw Minoso he flourished her with the news that he had already married a girl who had borne a son for him. He excused, however, to take care of their love child.

Barbara writes that after their baby girl was born the White Sox fielding star was very fond of the child and posed for pictures with her. But despite his apparent devotion to the baby, he was negligent in contributing to her support.

Suddenly his attention toward the baby changed. Barbara writes in TAN that the change began when White Sox pitcher Connie Johnson told Minnie in her presence that, You're simple if you think that's your baby. Nobody's color could have a baby that light.

Minoso stopped promising to take care of the baby. Barbara says that she demanded a showdown. He admitted that he did not believe that he was the child's father and it was not until then that the young mother consulted a lawyer and filed a $25,000 paternity suit.

Rocky Marciano Flooring May Aid Some Turnstiles

CALISTOGA, Calif. — (AP) — Sparsmate Toile Hall last week exploded a "properly nailed" left hook to the jaw of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano to floor the family-jawed title for the second time in his career.

Hall's knockdown of Marciano stirred excitement among British boxing writers covering the Marciano-Cecil fight. Wrote Peter Wilson of the London Daily Mirror:

"Marciano was down for three seconds, maybe four. Then he was back on his feet.

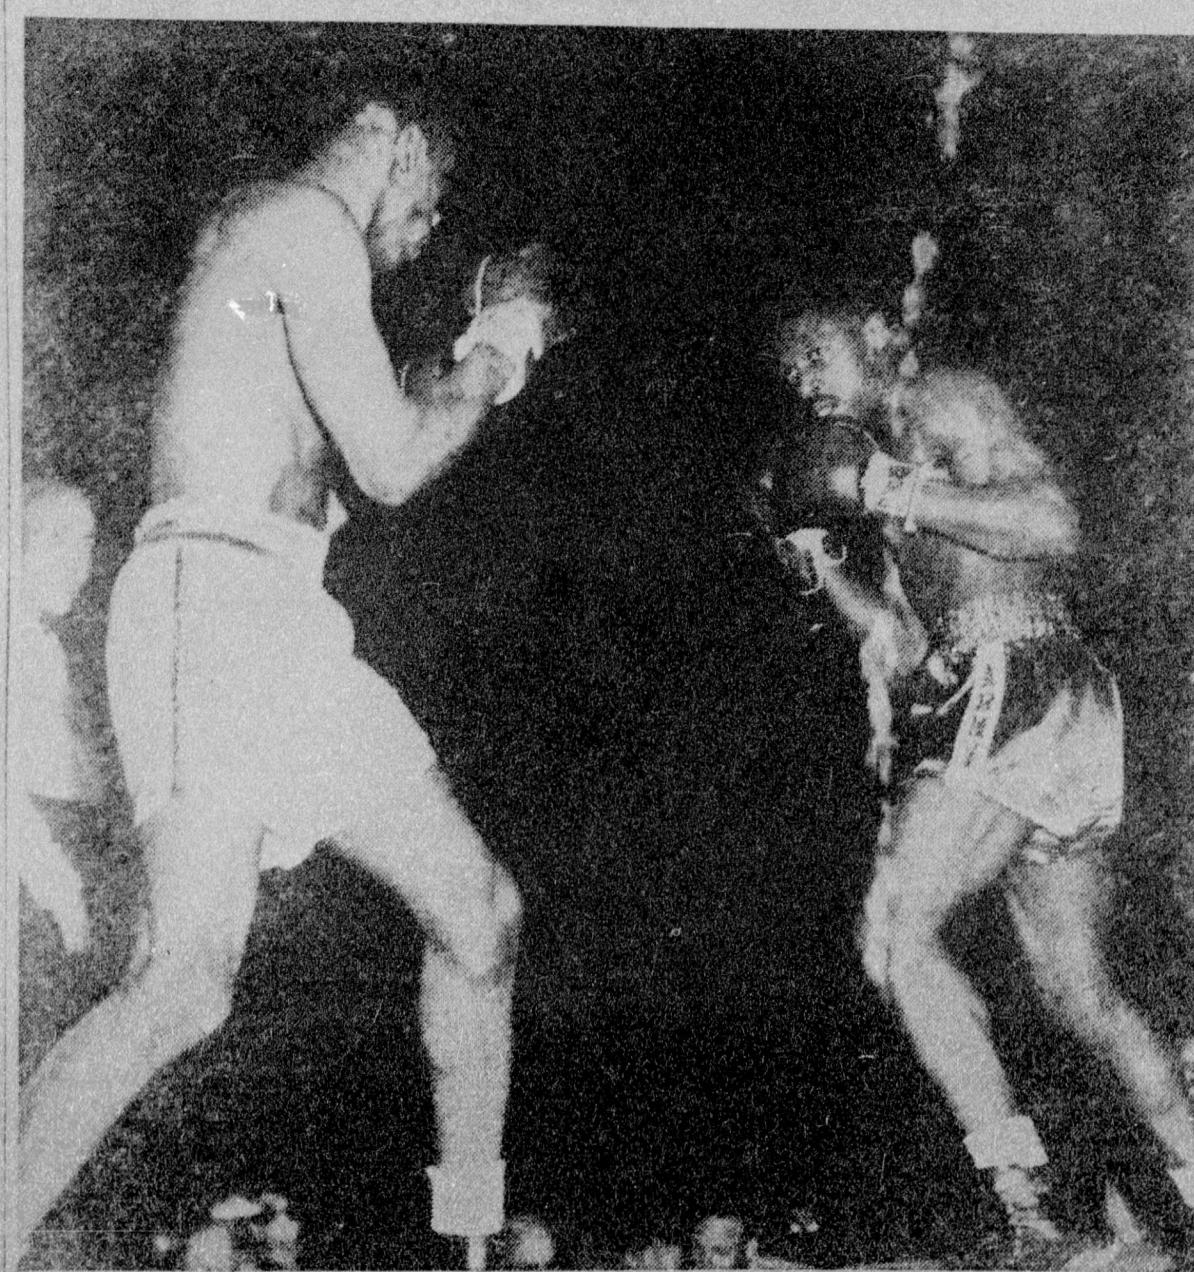

"Marciano is always open to beat you know. The problem is to make him stay hit.

Cecil also had something to say about the knockdown. In cockney English, he said:

"Blimey! It looks as if he's easy to hit as they tell me. I think if I knock him down I can keep him down."

The London, England, papers

TAR HEEL PUG REACHES FINALS

AHOOKIE BOXER LOST — Sgt. George K. Harrell (right), of Ahookie, moves in to mix it up with Floyd McCollum of New York City in their recent quarter-finals bout in the All-National AAC boxing championship's 165-pound division at Kansas City. Mr. Sergeant Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Harrell, Ahookie, lost on a technical knockout loss to Fort Sam Houston, Tex. Harrell entered the Army in June 1952 and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C. — U. S. Army Photo.

HITTING HIS TARGET — Overtime middleweight and welterweight King Sugar Ray Robinson (left), stopped very few of Earth Panter's hard rights during their recent 10-rounders at Detroit, and went on to win an easy decision. The win was the fourth for the New York dancer-boxer on his current comeback trail. Many still insist that the Sugar Boy was "spotted" for the ring when he took a terrible beating from Ralph "Tiger" Jones two months ago. (Newspress Photo)

"Sad" Sam Jones To Hall Of Fame

Eagle Sports Figures Awards Day Honorees

High Point
Honor Roll

The Carolina Cup was awarded to Sam Jones, Princeton, N.J., and Charles E. Jones, Greenville, S.C., received the Carolina Cup athlete of the year award. Other awards were given to the Carolina Cup sportsmen and women.

The athletes who received awards and their spots were: BASEBALL — Lemuel Charles Barnes, New York, N.Y.; Charles Burket, Roswell, Ga.; George Kelly Bell, Durham, N.C.; Ralph Dudley, Washington, D.C.; Clayton Fields, Corpus Christi, Texas; Walter H. Jones, Charlotte, N.C.; Curtis Wilson, manager, Portsmouth, Va.

FOOTBALL — Artie Lewis, Atlanta, Georgia; Jack Long, Charlotte, North Carolina; Eddie Sherry, John B. Edwards, Matthews, N.C.; Eddie Williams, Birmingham, Ala.; Jim Williams, Burlington, N.C.; James Franklin, Charlotte; James Davis, Durham; Cornelius, N.C.; John F. Walker, Va.

Jones Almost Had To Give Up Baseball

CHARLOTTE — Sam Jones, 21, of the University of North Carolina, was a minor league baseball player for two years.

He got to the major leagues in 1953, but was traded to the Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland Indians manager Eddie Lopat, who was the Indians' manager in 1953, signed him to the Indians' farm club, the Toledo Mud Hens, in 1954.

After a series of operations, Jones had to miss most of the 1954 season.

Jones' manager was asked if he expected Jones to be available again this year. "I don't know," he said. "He's been a good player, but he's been away from baseball for a long time."

He walks with a limp and cannot run. Jones' manager said he had to give up baseball because of his condition.

After a series of operations, Jones had to miss most of the 1954 season.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.

He is now back in baseball, but he is not expected to play again this year.