

'South Not Armed To Resist Integration:' Faulkner

United States Won't Allow Dixie To Resist Or Secede

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (ANP)—Prize-winning author William Faulkner said Monday that the south "is not armed to resist the United States" over the segregation issue, "because the United States is neither going to force the south nor allow the south either to resist or secede."

The Oxford, Miss., writer said the interview was "more a misconception than a misquotation."

Faulkner, who is undergoing a medical checkup at a hospital here, said: "The statement that I or anyone else would choose any one state against the whole remaining union of states down to the ultimate price of shooting other human beings in the street is foolish and dangerous. A hundred years ago, yes, but not in 1956. And dangerous because the idea can further inflame these people in the south who still might believe such a situation possible."

Ward Singers Hit $35,000 Wk. Mark

NEW YORK — Whether it's on the church circuit in Dixie or in a Harlem rock and roll vaudeville house, Clara Ward and the Ward Gospel Singers still break boxoffice records.

Closing out a successful week's stand at the Apollo Theatre here as headliners of an all-religious show, the Ward group drew 22,000 people thru the doors of this popular entertainment house. The week's boxoffice receipts were estimated to be $35,000.

In the manner that has made them household words in the gospel quartet field, the Philadelphia group drew thunderous applause at every show and each time had to beg off stage.

Their singing spread over into the audience and at each show people were observed jumping up from their seats and shouting "praise the Lord," or making some expression of happiness as the spirit moved them.

Publications Confab At NCC

DURHAM—High school students from throughout the State of North Carolina are being invited to a Publications Conference which will take place at North Carolina College at Durham on April 20.

The conference will be designed for faculty advisors and students working on newspapers and yearbooks in the high school. The aim of the conference, according to H. G. Dawson, director, will be to improve the quality of high school publications in North Carolina and to bring together student and faculty members for the purpose of discussing common problems of newspaper and yearbook production.

The day-long meeting will consist of two groups—one devoted to newspapers and the other to yearbooks. In each group, lectures, demonstrations, and panel discussions will be carried on throughout the day. A two-hour social in the women's gymnasium at the college will climax activities of the day.

According to Dawson, the conference will afford instruction in the areas of design, writing, layout, financing, and organizing both newspapers and yearbooks.

Special emphasis will be placed on small budget newspapers and yearbooks with specific instruction being given on promoting and financing high school publications. There will also be a series of panel discussions related to problems high school journalists face in publishing newspapers and yearbooks.

A special course is planned for faculty advisors. Publication specialists from North Carolina College, Duke University, the University of North Carolina and from the ranks of professional journalists are being invited to serve as consultants and instructors for the meeting.

Registration will take place from 8:30 until 10:30 Friday morning, April 20. The sessions will begin immediately afterwards.

Shirley T. James, editor of the Campus Echo, Walter Davis, administrative assistant, C. R. Standback, yearbook representative, and Dawson are on the planning committee.

Mrs. Himes Gets Grant For Study

DURHAM—Mrs. Estelle Jones Himes, instructor in French at North Carolina College, has received a study grant to spend 8 weeks in France at the summer seminar for teachers of French language and literature.

The grant comes from the United States Education Commission in France.

Mrs. Himes was one of several United States teachers selected for this special seminar.

Mrs. Himes, a graduate of East High School, Columbus, Ohio, received the B.S. and M.A. degrees from Ohio State University.

She spent one year summer study at Ecole des Lettres, Paris, in 1938. Mrs. Himes is the daughter of Lloyd Jones, 1339 Mooberly St., Columbus, Ohio. She is married to Dr. Joseph S. Himes, NCC professor of sociology.

In 1943 the NCC French teacher wrote an article on "The Vocabulary Difficulty of Beginning Text-Books in French" for the French Review in collaboration with Dr. James Tharp of Ohio State University.

She is a member of Alpha Zeta Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

Prior to joining NCC's staff Mrs. Himes taught in the Columbus, Ohio, public schools during 1934-47. She also taught at Lash High School in Zanesville, Ohio, during 1952-53. The award is effective for the period June 21-August 16, 1956. Mrs. Himes is scheduled to leave New York City on June 22 on the S. S. United States.
