Cites Possibilities The NCC educator cited the possibilities that teachers and students in these times are likely to be involved in "crisis situations" that make "academic learning seem unimportant."

Assessing that today's teachers will meet today's challenges, Dr. Elder said, "We will meet the challenge that is ours. In doing so, however, we must do three things: We must make certain that what we are trying to do is understood not only by ourselves but also by those whom we teach."

Must Have Enthusiasm "We must develop the quality of enthusiasm and devotion for the subject that we teach. We must inject ourselves with courage which comes from knowing that we are doing that which is right, democratic, and Christian."

Rep. Richard Bolling (D Mo.), a member of the committee, immediately went in search of the parliamentarian to find out whether the committee would be forced to reconvene for the purpose of voting on the bill as had been previously ruled.

Up To Parliamentarian

Chairman Smith retired to his private office and was relaxing comfortably in his swivel chair, putting peacefully on his pipe when a bevy of newspaper men swarmed in.

"What do you plan to do now, Judge?" asked one reporter. "I don't know," replied the Virginia Congressman nonchalantly. "I'll have to do what the parliamentarian says. If he says I'll have to call the committee together again and take a vote on this bill before six o'clock, I'll do so."

Money For Africa

There will be banks at all funerals where those who attend will be permitted to deposit money, in lieu of flowers, which will be used to further freedom and Christianity in Africa.

Religion Solves Problem

In introducing the two African delegates, who attended the Conference, Rev. C. L. Acolata and P. D. Ofohense, the prelate said, "The solution to all the evils that attend races is the Christian religion. Christian brotherhood, not segregation, is the one element that will bring about racial understanding."

Bishop H. T. Medford, chairman of the Foreign Mission Board, Washington, hailed the liberality of the conference toward Africa. Other prelates who attended the conference were: C. C. Coleman, Mobile, Ala.; W. C. Brown, Brooklyn, N. Y. and D. C. Pope, who has charge of the African work.

Leave On Honeymoon

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) The Alston's honeymoon trip will carry them into the states of Virginia, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Michigan and Canada. In Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, the couple will be the guests of their son, Charles Alston, Jr., and in Detroit, Michigan, they will be hosted by James P. Alston, another son. The Alston's other children are Mrs. Marie Alston, and Matthew Alston, both of Raleigh, Mrs. Alston, when asked her reaction to a post-nuptial trip after so many years, replied, "I think it's about time we had a honeymoon."

Among the spots of interest which the couple plans to visit are the graves of Elder and Mrs. James G. White in Battle Creek, Michigan. They pioneered in the work of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The Elder says they will try to attend Adventist services in every city that they visit. Mrs. Alston is quite anxious to see an uncle in New Jersey, who is now quite ill.

Born in Augusta, Georgia, Elder Alston came to this city at the age of six. When he reached his early teens he got a job as night watchman on a farm in Watson's Field, which later became Bragg Street.

The Elder recalls that he met his future wife, the former Miss Laura Hinton, while boarding with her parents near the place of his employment. After a courtship of moderate duration the couple spoke their nuptial vows before the Rev. W. H. Works at the Martin Street Baptist Church here.

When it was decided in 1926 that a Seventh Day Adventist Church would be built here, Elder Alston, sensing his preference for this denomination over the Baptist faith, was one of the first persons to volunteer his services. He was soon made an elder in the church, a post which he has held for 36 years. Mrs. Alston soon joined her husband in his new religious pursuits. They are now stalwarts in the Gethsemane Seventh Day Adventist Church, corner Cabarrus and Person Streets.

Elder and Mrs. Alston returned just last week from a Camp Meeting in Hawthorne, Florida, sponsored by their church. The hundreds of delegates attending slept in tents and camped in the woods.

As the only surviving male charter member of the local Adventist Church, Elder Alston takes great pride in his position, which includes supervision of all the local church's activities. Elder J. J. Johnson is pastor and District Elder of the denomination.

STRAY SHOT

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) returned in a few minutes and learned from reliable sources that Utley left the house, but upon entering the kitchen, aimed his weapon at Dover. Mrs. Dover is said to have grabbed her child and to have sought safety in places other than the house. Utley is said to have fired several shots, but none of them reached the intended mark.

Dover is said to have been on furlough from the Navy and was at his wife's home. The wife, Mrs. Lena Dover, was one of the principals in another shooting, at the same address, May 9th. At this time she was the victim of two bullets fired by one Ernest Hinton. Hinton seems to have been paying some attention to Mrs. Dover while her husband was serving his country. On the night of the shooting, from information received, Hinton's love came down and he made futile efforts to get into the house, but Mrs. Dover refused him. He is alleged to have banged on the door and the window, but Mrs. Dover heeded not his call.

When Hinton left she is said to have gone across the street to seek protection from the strong arm of the law, via a hasty telephone call. With the call completed she went back home and just as she was unlocking the door a bullet crashed through her left arm. She managed to get the door open, but when she started in, the second bullet hit her in the back.

Utley did not give any reason for his shooting Saturday. Mrs. Dover told the CAROLINIAN that she had reason to believe that Utley was in sympathy with Hinton and took it out on her husband. The result is Hinton awaiting trial for shooting the wife of a member of the armed forces. Utley is serving a 12 months hard sentence. Dover has about 39 more days of leave and Mrs. Dover is recovering from pistol wounds in her arm and back.

ODDS & ENDS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) It is so apparent that it behooves all of us to join in the search for a suitable house or building for it to move into. Any person having such information will please call Mrs. Pearl Freeman at 8839.

To quote the late Will Rogers, "All we know about it is what we read in the papers," but if the newspapers are correct in their quotations of two of our city councilmen, it would appear that these two gentlemen have outlived their usefulness on the council, because of their apparent growing lack of concern for the welfare of their poorer and needy constituents. On several occasions, Councilmen Green and Danielson have been quoted as making some rather loose remarks about the welfare of some of Raleigh's citizens. There latest outbursts came last week when the council was discussing a request for something over $7000.00 to replace a leaky bookmobile.

These bookmobiles have more than proven their worth. They travel over the city and county carrying books to the sick and infirm, the shut-ins, cripples and to people living at a great distance from the libraries. Notwithstanding the proven valuable services these traveling libraries render, Councilman Danielson is quoted to have remarked during the debate over the request that "people who are too lazy to come to the library didn't need to read", while Councilman Green is quoted as jumping at women who work instead of staying home to care for their children and bring them to the library. The statements attributed to both of these Councilmen if true, were out of order, untimely and displayed a shocking lack of concern for those in less fortunate positions than these two Councilmen.

The 1951 North Carolina General Assembly authorized the Governor to convey or lease the old Blind and Deaf School building at the corner of South and Bloodworth Streets to the N. C. chapter, United War Mothers of America. The War Mothers had asked for this old building so that they might renovate it and use it for a home and recreational center for working girls and also a day nursery and kindergarten for small children.

The Governor neither conveyed nor leased this building to the War Mothers but simply allowed them to repair and use it, without any type of commitment on the part of the State. Now, six years later and after the expenditure of over $3000.00 by the War Mothers on the building, the State, through the Council of State, the agency that was authorized by the 1951 Legislature to work with the Governor in carrying out its authorization to convey or lease the building to the War Mothers, is demanding the use of this building on the grounds that the state needs it for storage space and that the War Mothers have not shown good faith because it has never used the building. The building in question is very old, rundown, dilapidated and antiquated.

It would require many thousands of dollars to fit it for the purposes contemplated by the War Mothers. The little money they have raised by their own efforts and have applied to this project, is only a drop in the bucket when compared to the total need. On the other hand, had the Governor and the Council of State exercised the good faith

VFW Begins Drive To Raise 16 Grand

By JOSEPH HARPER

CHARLOTTE—In 1950 Bishop Dale and the late J. S. Bowser aided in the organization of the Mecklenburg Negro Veterans Association.

From this honorable group sprang a desire to build a recreational center, and thus we had the beginning of the Oaklawn Recreational Center.

The total amount to be raised for this direly needed building is 42 thousand dollars—plus the cost of the land.

There remains a balance of 16 thousand dollars to be raised to complete such a deplorable edifice; consequently, the Veterans Association is at present concerned with securing this stipulated amount.

Many plans have been made insofar as the raising of the balance is concerned. The organization intends to ask various social and charitable groups for help, for the facilities and advantages of this center will not only be open to Veterans of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County, but to the general community as well.

Plans have also been formulated for a big July 4th dance at "Club Mona Lisa". Seemingly this promises to be a gala affair, and as an attractive door prize the association will be giving away a 1956 Ford.

Truly, the members of the Mecklenburg County Negro Veterans Association are supporting a project that will prove highly beneficial not only to themselves, but to the entire Charlotte community.

They are giving you a chance compliance with the mandate from the general assembly it was empowered to act with, the building would have been given to this group of faithful women who have lost sons fighting for the protection of this country and the freedom of mankind.

Had this been done as it could have and should have been done, sufficient funds could have been borrowed to complete the worthy project envisioned by the women and the project would have been self liquidating. As the matter now stands, the Governor and the Council of State have practically nullified the intention of the 1951 Legislature and have perpetuated a near fraud upon a group of consecrated and innocent women, another instance of the "equality" of justice shown Negroes in this state.

It is not too late for men of good will to remedy this wrong and prove by deeds rather than words that Negroes can obtain justice in this state.

The suggestion that the Wake Hospital Authority be made a self perpetuating body should be abruptly turned down. No board set up to exercise authority over public facilities should be allowed to name its own members. The present Wake County set up is bad enough with the County Commissioners naming the members of the so called Hospital Authority. At least, under the present set up, the paying public does have the opportunity to elect the Commissioners, making the authority the indirect representation of the people.

Once this is changed and the Authority is given the power to select its own members, the public will be completely shut out and will have nothing to say or do about how their hospital is to be operated. That is, it will be shut out of everything except paying the bills.

to exemplify your civic pride by helping them promulgate activities by which they may raise the remaining 16 thousand dollars necessary to complete this 42 thousand dollar structure. It is left to you as citizens of this great city and county to support them. Help them help themselves, you and the community to obtain the long cherished dream of Oaklawn Recreational Center.

Eisenhower Sends Greetings To The NAACP

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — A hope that Congress will enact Administration-sponsored pending civil rights legislation was expressed by President Eisenhower in a message of greetings to the NAACP's 47th annual convention which opened formally here tonight.

A telegraphed message from the Chief Executive declared that the civil rights measures, if enacted, "will materially assist the government in discharging its responsibilities to safeguard the Constitutional rights of every citizen in this country, including the right to vote."

"But laws on the statute books are not enough," the presidential message continued. "Patience and forbearance and wisdom are required of all of us if we are to solve effectively the perplexing problems of this trying period of adjustment. As you turn your attention to these problems, I wish all of you a most successful meeting."

President Eisenhower's greeting noted that since 1909, NAACP members "both white and Negro, have been striving to secure for all persons regardless of color their full measure of Constitutional rights."

"A badge of honor" A telegraphed greeting from Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the American Jewish Congress, asserted that the "badge of 'extremism' placed on the NAACP is a badge of honor won in the fight against the shameful badge of Jim Crow."

"Generations of Americans to come will benefit from your firmness in refusing to accept any substitutes for full attainment of Constitutional rights," Dr. Goldstein added.
