Oberlin Bus Issue Brings New Demand

RALEIGH — A movement to force the resignation of Jesse O. Sanderson as superintendent of Raleigh schools developed this week as a result of the raging controversy over the barring of Negro children from schools in the Oberlin section.

A resolution to that effect is to be presented at next Tuesday's meeting of the Raleigh Citizens' Association, according to the Rev. G. A. Fisher, association president.

Basis for the resolution was made public at a meeting of the school board on Tuesday, when the Rev. Mr. Fisher openly accused Superintendent Sanderson of displaying "lack of integrity" in the manner in which he sought to evade the U. S. Supreme Court's desegregation ruling by providing free bus transportation to Ligon High School for the Oberlin students.

"I don't think we need that sort of lawlessness in the Ra-

Man, 60, Killed By Train

Struck by Train No. 13 near the Southern Railroad underpass, Herbert Stephenson, 60-year-old garage employee, was killed about 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Earl Duke, the train's engineer, J. B. McClentock, of Greensboro, said that the man was sitting on the track "in an intoxicated condition."

McClentock was quoted as saying that he saw the man when the train was 100 feet from where he was sitting. He said that he blew his whistle but that the man did not move.

The body was dragged about 50 feet. Death was termed accidental.

Ike Nearly 2-1 Favorite Over Stevenson

Voters in Raleigh's two predominantly Negro precincts Tuesday gave President Dwight D. Eisenhower almost a 2-1 lead over Adlai Stevenson for President of the United States.

A check with the two precincts showed the following results: Precinct 20, located at Crosby-Garfield School, gave Eisenhower 526 votes to 253 for Stevenson. Precinct 26, Lucille Hunter School, gave Eisenhower 459 votes to 285 for Stevenson.

The city's three other precincts, which have only a few Negro voters, showed these results: Pre-

4 Children Saved From Lead Poison

SOUTHERN PINES — Quick action by members of the staff at St. Joseph of the Pines Hospital is credited with saving the lives of four youngsters who gulped handfuls of sweetish-tasting pink powder that they found in a bag in a garage.

Hospitalized on Wednesday night, the children on Monday were believed out of danger from arsenic-lead poisoning. They are Johnnie Harrington, 5, his sister, Brenda, 3, and Anita, 2, and their cousin, Robin Ann Jacob.

The Harrington children's mother came home from work to find all four covered with a pinkish dust which she found had come from a bag on the top shelf in the garage. She rushed them all to Dr. C. H. Daugherty who took them to the hospital where their stomachs were washed out and medication applied.

Suicide Threat Charged To Noted DC Woman Educator

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — Dr. Margaret Just Butcher, a professor at Howard University and former member of the District Board of Education, was admitted to D. C. General hospital last week for mental observation.

Mrs. Butcher was booked by Metropolitan police who had been summoned to her home after she had threatened to jump from the window of her seventh-floor apartment.

The 45-year-old educator, author and lecturer, is reported as having been under tremendous nervous strain due to overwork. She had been advised by physicians to take a rest and had entered a hospital at Philadelphia two weeks ago. She returned to Washington last week on personal business.

Early Sunday she had been arrested at the Washington National airport and charged with drunkenness, disorderly conduct and assaulting an officer. She was released under a $250 bond pending a hearing on Nov. 20, before a United States Commissioner in Alexandria.

Airport police reported that Mrs. Butcher slapped an officer after he and another policeman had warned her to talk less loudly.
