Jackson Players Hear President J. R. Buck

JACKSON, Miss. - Jackson State College athletes heard President J. R. Buck of Natchez Junior College label "the sin of ingratitude as the greatest of all sins" as he urged the athletes to always be grateful for those things which are done for their benefit.

The athletes, members of the Board of Control, and other guests heard the speaker say: "You can have a great tomorrow if you will understand there are no independent people in this world today. During the past season you might have scored a touchdown or you might have sent your basketball team on to victory by making an all-important basket, but you should never forget that before that touchdown was made someone probably threw an all-important block to send you on your way."

A Nursery Wall Cabinet Helps With Baby's Bath And Diaper Change

If bathroom medicine cabinets were stretchable there would be no over-crowding problem. Unfortunately, they are not so when a new baby arrives, with all his special needs, nine times out of ten the only practical solution is a second cabinet.

This has its advantages, quite aside from providing more shelf space. If the second cabinet is hung on the nursery wall, near where baby is bathed and changed, mother will always have within her easy reach the baby lotion, powder, soap, cotton balls and other articles needed for the bath and the care of baby's tender skin.

In the midst of bathing baby or changing his diaper, mother won't discover that she has forgotten to collect the baby lotion that protects his skin against chafing and diaper rash. Because everything will be where she can put her hands on it without leaving his side, she won't have to carry a squirming baby with her while she scurries after a sterile cotton ball that is so helpful in patting the creamy white lotion into every crease and fold.

A two-shelf cabinet should be adequate. The cost can be kept down by choosing one with plain, unvarnished doors. In fact, a perfectly satisfactory cabinet can be made at home out of a wooden box. A couple of the top boards can be used for the shelf. Two coats of enamel paint will give an attractive finish.
