U. S. Charge D'Affaires Presents His Credentials To Ghana Premier

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Peter Butler, a former first secretary of the American Embassy in London acting on instructions from American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, recently presented his credentials to the Prime Minister, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, as Charge d'Affaires for the Government of the United States in Ghana. The ceremony took place in the Prime Minister's office. The new Ambassador stated:

"In facing the challenges which our times and our environment impose upon us, I can foresee no difference to disturb of war the present fine harmony between Ghana and the United States. To the contrary I see every prospect that the bonds between our countries will grow and prosper to the mutual advantage of the Ghanaian and American peoples."

In reply the Prime Minister, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, declared that within the foreseeable future interesting developments were going to take place in the relations of Ghana with America. He added that he had had a wonderful personal relationship with America which he hoped would continue.

Present at the ceremony were

Mr. Eugene Sawyer, public affairs officer of the United States Information service, Mr. William Berry, secretary to the Embassy and R. A. Quarshio, senior assistant secretary, Ministry of External Affairs.

What's beneath the new bare back and plunging neckline fashions? Formfit's new "Holiday" bra of nylon lace, which does the trick with cleverly placed elastic straps and padded wire. It comes in white or black. There is a contoured version in white only.

With the many bare-backed fashions and plunging necklines being shown for Spring and Summer wear, the cry went up for a bra that could be worn under these exceptionally low cut styles.

Formfit, one of the world's largest foundationwear manufacturers, has just provided the answer to what seemed, at first, an insoluble problem. Their designers have succeeded in creating a bra which is completely backless, has a low plunging neckline and still accomplishes its basic task of fitting and molding a lovely rounded contour.

The bare-backed effect is achieved with narrow elastic shoulder straps, lined with soft Helanca plush for comfort, which crisscross low in back and fasten at the waist in front.

The secret of the low-carved neckline is a U-shaped, padded wire, separating the cups, which plunges to the bottom edge of the bandeau to define the deep cut and keep the bra in place securely and comfortably.

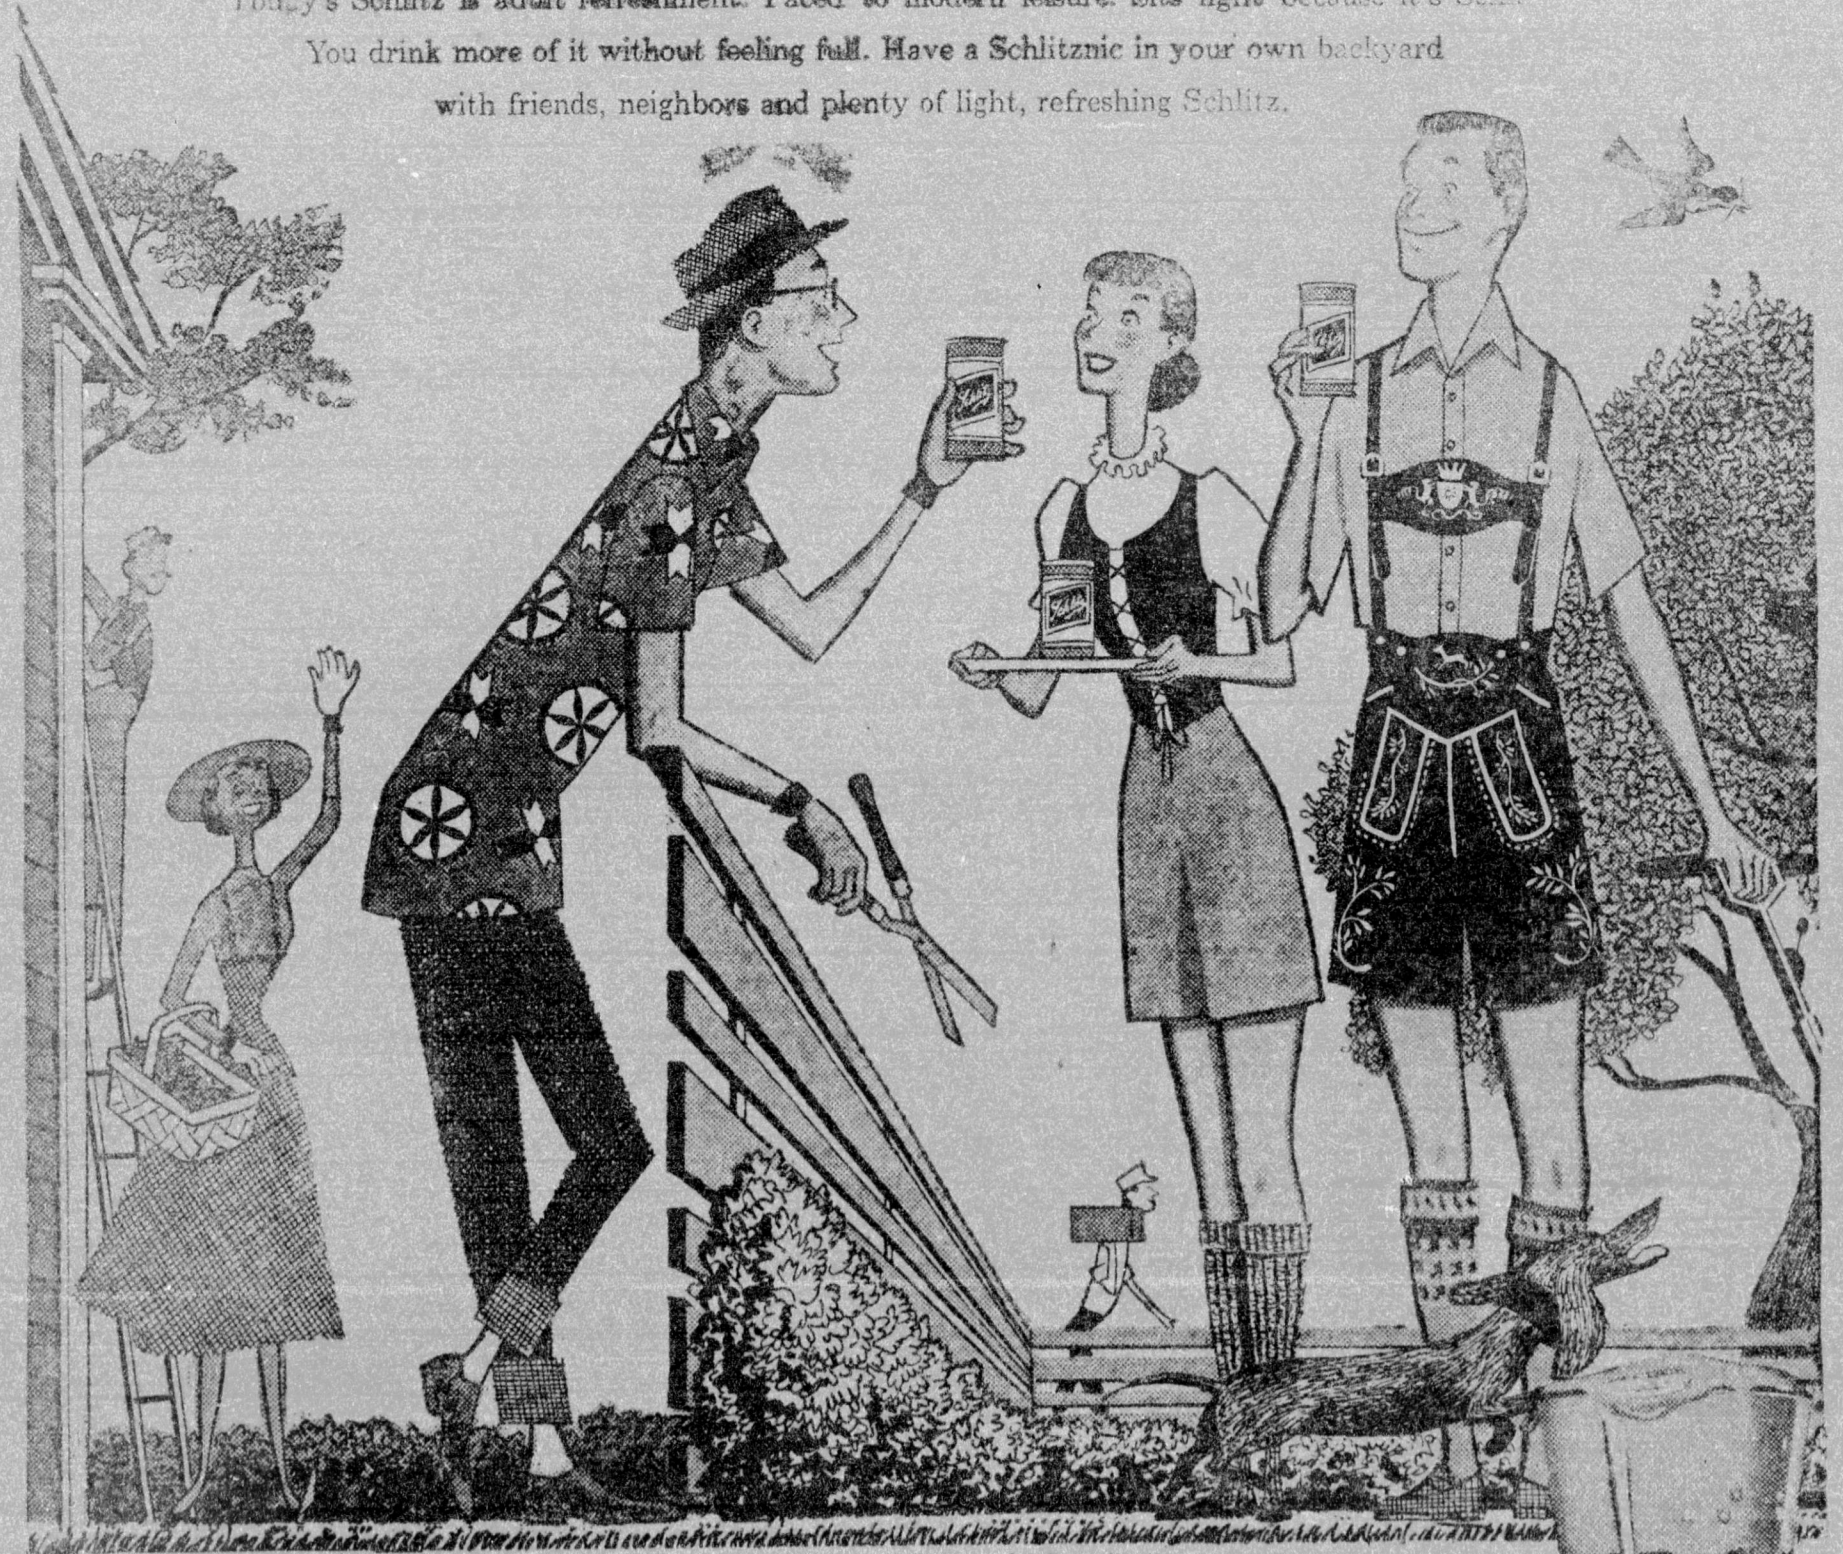

The cups are of a dainty, delicate nylon lace, lined with nylon marquisette for firmer shaping. Available in white or black, "Holiday" comes in sizes 32A to 36C. There is also a contoured version in white with a thin lining of foam rubber for extra figure flattery.

Both "Holiday" styles are based upon a new bra in Formfit's Designers' Collection which was created especially for couture designer Gail Chapman's glamorous new evening gowns with deep plunging necklines.
