Clint Long, former eastside manager of the Hillsboro All-Stars is now back in New York City. He receives $4.25 per hour but is required to roll a full suit of clothes every hour and not forty-five of fifty as per usual on jobs down here—taking time out to smoke or to shop with yellow paper in his hand. It's strictly picking 'em up and laying 'em down for eight full hours. Clint tired and worn at the close of a day's work began to yearn for his family. He wrote Miss Lillian Long, his wife, telling her how much he missed her and wished that she would come up for a couple of weeks.

She packed and went to visit her dear husband, only to find that Clint didn't miss or need her company at all. He slept the whole time that she was there, too tired to even go out. He had to rest in order to roll eight full hours the next day. He sent her back home.

Rumors are out that quite a number of new faces will replace a number of old faces on the AWT faculty come September.

Dr. William Hamilton, a member of the Greensboro Board of Education told me six weeks ago that Greensboro, Charlotte and Winston-Salem would integrate at the same time for the 1937-1938 school term.

Dr. Murry Davis of High Point made the statement that the stand taken by the Board of Medical Examiners against foreign doctors in state institutions was based on prejudice, personal opinions, and bias attitudes. He went further by saying that the charges against them could not be proved and that the foreign doctors had done a good job at their post.

Dr. Davis made this statement three weeks before the daily papers carried the same criticisms against the board on the front page and in editorials.

Officials of the Old North State Medical Association (colored) have issued no statement on the matter. Guess they figure it best nothing, see nothing, say nothing.

A Durham society mission playing a low quiet numbers with her husband hit 404 for $2,000. Not wanting word to leak out that she was number playing she asked her husband not to mention her hit. Finding out that she was a criminal of her social standing he blew the dough on the "nova" temporarily she blew up and accidentally placed a six inch spike in his head with the electric iron. He pleaded with him not to loud mouth her. Friends might get the impression that he was the number playing. Estimating kind. He is in the hospital. Report ready for admission.

Respective fields in school but have proven to be All-Americans in family life.

My family life. All-American team will grow from week to week as the candidates prove themselves worthy of a position.

The qualifications for first string assignments are rigid.

No. 1—Those guys that started to read a family after passing the ole fertile twenties. Or who got married and waited a decade or so then doubled back and added a second or third dependent to their family expense account are bona fide first stringers.

No. 2—Adoptees are cute, but are only qualified for the squad. For the way things have turned out. Rules, irrespective of age may become regular members.

My first nomination is Albert, Leon Stanback for right guard. He is the husband of Mrs. Catherine Stanback of Hillsboro. Principal of Central High School father of two children. The first born is Al Jr. 14 yrs. old. He makes the team on sheer "perseverance". His second born is 7 months old.

My choice for quarterback is Weeks Thurber Armstrong, the capable Rocky Mount medic, the husband of Mrs. Marguerite Armstrong. He qualifies on "tenacity". After years of waiting and beyond the tender age. He hangs up with three oldest 8 next 6 and then another 16 months.

Charles Rudolph Stanback of Durham will cover right end. He is the husband of Mrs. Geneva Stanback. His work in photography has attracted national attention. He qualifies on "patience". His first born, Barry Stanback is 10. His second is two.

I'll take fullback on "endurance". My wife Terrance will go along with me on that. Over the hill, I came up with Skink, Jr. near five then Terr 16 months.

Will add to the team positions next week.

Coach Jimmie is wasting no time in molding Memorial Recreational Park in Thomasville into one of the foremost recreation centers in North Carolina. He is a "Champion Builder" at Church St. High School and even on the playground he is the champion coach to the kids.
