Seven Boys Arrested For "Promoting" Dog Fights

TOLEDO, O. (ANP) — Seven boys, ranging in age from 10 to 13, appeared in Juvenile Court here last week for promoting dog fights.

The boys were accused of adopting a boxer named Champ. For five weeks—much to the annoyance of neighborhood residents and to the delight of playmates—the boys had Champ taken on all comers.

The dog's owner, Mrs. Alberto Terrell, told police that she was oblivious to what had been happening.

Four of the boys received suspended fines, two were released pending further investigation, and was given probation.

"O God, we are grateful that Thou art not far off from any of us, at any time or in any place. Help us to turn to Thee for guidance and strength, unite us in the fellowship of Thy church, in the name of Christ.

'Can't Stop Peaceful Klan Meets,' Georgia's Governor Griffin Says

ATLANTA (ANP) — In answer to a fellow Georgian's warning that "something should be done about" the Klan, Gov. Marvin Griffin last week stated that there is nothing he can do about the hooded group's activities "so long as they are peaceful." He added: "I can't revoke their state charter or anything like that."

James Balkcom, a Gray, Ga., theater owner, had visited the governor's mansion and left word urging action against the Ku Klux Klan. He stated that KKK objected to seating of Negroes in the balcony of his theater. Earlier, he had threatened to shoot the robe off any klansman who bothered him.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

In all American history, there has probably been no effort to pass a piece of legislation as characterized drive to rope U. S. into Organization for Trade Cooperation, or OTC.

The administration has made at least five pleas to Congress, but Congress still turns a deaf ear toward abandoning what little is left of the protective tariff structure to the tender mercies of an international debating society.

On several occasions, the C. W. Harder nation's independent businessmen, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, have opposed any further scuttling of protective tariffs.

And the other day, when debating a proposal to establish import quotas, in order to protect some vital American industries and their employees from total destruction, several Congressmen had very pointed remarks to make on the subject.

The State Dept. sent a letter to the House Ways and Means Committee proposing right of Congress to establish import quotas. Rep. Bailey (W. Va.) waded into fray with both fists.

State Dept. made this statement, "the bills would permit the imposition of quotas notwithstanding any international agreement relating to tariffs or trade entered into by the United States, or to be entered into hereafter."

On this, Rep. Bailey took off. He pointed out that the U. S. Constitution clearly gives Congress the power to impose import quotas. In that case, he wanted to know, by what authority did the State Dept. enter into agreements on its own hook.

"The State Dept.," he continued, "is completely out of line and if they have anyone in their legal department worth his salt they must know it. Unquestionably State Dept. hopes it can cow and intimidate Congress. And it will not hesitate to ride roughshod across lines of legislative power if we let it do so."

Veteran Representative Van Zandt (Penn.) joined in the fray pointing out that the State Dept. was setting forth a set of conditions that no one could understand how they came about. He also stated under the doctrine set up by the State Dept., if permitted to continue, that department could become supreme in the U. S. government, even exercising control over immigration, civil rights, or taxation.

Thus, there are more and more indications that Congress is preparing to cut down on the almost unlimited license that the State Dept. has taken unto itself.

Protection of American industry, labor, and farmers from cheap imports has given special concern to the founders of the nation to Congress. For over 20 years, this power has been applied to give internationalists means with which to carry on foreign adventures.

And at every world-wide bargaining session, the U. S. economic system has lost. This is largely due to the fact that while foreign nations send their businessmen to negotiate, the U. S. is represented by State Dept. functionaries who have never met a payroll, who know little, if anything, about business except the little gleaned from an academic perusal of books on subject in led halls. Thus, responsible elements in Congress are seeking to put a stop to this bartering away of American independent enterprise by a government bureau.
