Lucille Griswold as hostess. Plans were discussed relative to the national convention to be held in Hot Springs, Ark. soon. Shown seated is Miss Gris-

VOCAL UNION MEETS RALEIGH—The South Park Vocal Union met at the Union Grove Church in Wendell Sunday, September 8. After several selections the offering was taken. $61 was donated at the church for the benefit of the Union. Dinner was served on the church grounds after the services.

"EDUCATE, AGITATE, ACTIVATE" GREENSBORO—A Burlington minister, who labeled himself "an ordained minister and a full-blooded segregationist," proposed Saturday that the local White Citizens' Council adopt the slogan "Educate, Agitate, Activate." The Rev. N. M. Perkins of Burlington told about 90 persons at the Guilford County Courthouse for the meeting that "God is the author of segregation." He spoke for about an hour and a half, reading passages from the Bible and several letters which he said supported his views on segregation.

YOUTH SHOT

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) was "set" for the would-be lover. Sheriff W. Raymond Rawls and his deputies reportedly had been attempting to "solve" the case for some time. Saturday night a trap was set with the sheriff and a deputy, both hiding in the woman's car by lying down and making it appear that she was alone, when she drove to an alleged pre-arranged rendezvous.

Sheriff Rawls and Deputy Dallas G. Holiday of Jamesville were the officers on the scene along with A. B. C. Officer Cecil Bullock, when Joseph Cross is alleged to have "blinked his lights three times" and passed the woman's car and parked ahead of her. The sheriff stated that Deputy Holiday accosted Cross and grappled with him as he (Cross) allegedly started towards the woman's car.

The sheriff said Cross reentered his car after the shooting and drove a short distance before the car wrecked. Officers, according to Deputy Johnson, "brought the body back up the hill and dispatched it to a hospital" where it was announced as being "dead on arrival."

Deputy Walves Hearing The coroner's jury hearing held at 2:30 Monday afternoon was a mere formality as it was evident from the beginning that no evidence would be introduced before Coroner Biggs although he swore in a six-man jury as customary. The woman whose complaining brought on the killing was not even present and the coroner and Deputy Johnson, both of whom this reporter questioned at length, seemed quite hazy as to the name of the woman, said to be a resident here.

or go to the 'pokes.' Many of the veteran newsmen covering the convention likened Dr. Jackson's coup to the steam-roller tactics at Elk Conventions a generation or so ago, when the grand exalted ruler J. Finley Wilson, with the aid of picket supporters, would stampede the convention during election of officers, and thus perpetuate himself in office, always by "unanimous vote."

The first three men arrested were identified as William J. Miller, 28, J. N. Griffin, 38, both clerks in a suburban grocery store, and Joe Prichett, 31, a construction worker. All are of Birmingham.

Modaska Simpkins, secretary, both of Columbia, S. C., will hold sessions in Rock Hill, S. C., October 18-20, it is announced. It was in this NAACP conference—Clarendon County—where the principal case of the school desegregation cases which led to the famous May 17th, 1954, decision by the U. S. Supreme Court.

It is believed that the National Guardsmen stationed in front of the school and around the executive mansion will remain on duty until the hearing is over. Although areas around Little Rock and North Little Rock, another trouble spot in integration, remained quiet Tuesday, violence and threats of violence came thick in some other Southern states.

At Birmingham's Phillips High School, 1,850 white pupils were evacuated after police and school officials reported receiving an anonymous phone call from a woman that a bomb planted in the building would explode at 10:59 a.m. There was no explosion.

SCHOOL BLAST

The school is several miles from the Fehr school, where rock-throwing and noisy picketing continued through the day and into the night. Some 25 parents remained at Fehr until Tuesday night, and police kept an overnight watch at this and other schools affected by this first step in grade-by-grade integration. Police said they could not link the explosion at Hattie Cotton with other activities of segregationists, but one officer said he felt sure the blast was "malicious." Cause of the explosion was not immediately discovered.

ODD & ENDS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) cations. On no occasion has it been accepted. It is a wholesome sign of racial progress and racial determination to stay in this fight until victory has been won, to notice that no Negroes, leaders or others, have answered this latest appeal of the governor that they volunteer for second-hand citizenship, for the back door and the back seat, for second-class education, lack of economic opportunities and ghetto housing, all of which spelled out means segregation. No, Mr. Governor, fortunately, and at long last, there are no Negro leaders in this state who are willing to even try to lead their people backwards.

WELCOME NEW TEACHERS

Odds and Ends extends a hearty welcome to the many teachers who have come to Raleigh to teach for the first time. You will find congenial people, pleasant surroundings and many opportunities to use your special talents in a mutually profitable manner. The entire Raleigh community looks forward to the many cultural benefits it will receive from the contributions you will make during your stay here. We extend to you every good wish for your success and happiness.

TRIBUTE TO A PIONEER

This column wishes to join the countless others who will be paying humble tribute to the memory of one of this county's pioneer teachers, Mrs. Estelle Margaret Smith, who passed at Saint Agnes Hospital early this week, after over 30 years of her adult life to the tremendous task of instructing the youth of this county. This pioneer teacher knew the discriminations and disadvantages of the old one-room school houses. During many years of her long teaching career her jobs were manifold: principal, teacher, community leader and even custodian of her school, but Mrs. Smith never wavered, never complained but with a God-directed determination she persisted in carrying the light of knowledge until her retirement several years ago. Many loving tributes were paid to this "grand old woman" during her funeral services at the Oberlin Baptist Church, a church where she had labored and worked as a faithful member for many years. Doubtless, however, the greatest tribute that will be paid to the memory of Mrs. Smith is the love, respect and devotion of the hundreds of her former students who will always remember her as a guiding light in their lives.

WELCOME SIGN: For many years the Raleigh Public Schools (Negro) have been losing several of its teachers each year. The greatest number of these teachers gave up their positions here for teaching jobs in the North and Midwest. This year the exodus of Raleigh Negro teachers to jobs in those areas has been greatest in the history of the local schools. All of these departing teachers have given many years of service here. Their contributions have been many and varied. Their departure from our midst is a matter of both regret and joy. It is only natural that we would feel sorrow over the severing of such pleasant and valuable associations. It is, however, a most welcome sign of racial progress that the services of these well-qualified Negro teachers are so sought after in other areas. Because of that fact we can see them leave with joy and rejoicing. And, we might add, these teachers are not leaving Raleigh to teach in segregated schools. Our best wishes follow them to their new fields of service.

A NEEDED EXPANSION

At a recent meeting of the Raleigh City Council, the matter of expanding the present city limits so as to include some other adjacent areas was discussed. After discussing an application, presented to the Council in the form of a petition from an area south of the city, the Mayor made the statement that he hoped other adjoining areas would apply for admission to the city. As we view the matter, the area known as Joe Louis Park, lying directly east of the city, should be annexed.

N. C. SCHOOL SCENE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) A few white students watched as she passed them outside, but said little. Negroes also attended Charlotte's Central High, Alexander Junior High and Piedmont Junior High almost unnoticed. This was also the case at Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem, and at the Gillespie Park Elementary and Junior High in Greensboro.

It was known that the school would be overcrowded before the end of the school year and the Board had to make some arrangement to relieve the situation or the opening of this school term. A quarter of a million dollar program was laid out for expansion, but it was found that it could not be completed in time. The principal, the patrons and the Board were still having trouble trying to find space for the overcrowded condition.

All available space, except the auditorium had been taken. After much consultation, involving the principal, teachers and the Board, two proposals were offered. One was to partition off the auditorium and make four classrooms and the other was to repair or remodel the 13-year old Odd Fellows building. It was learned from reliable sources that there were those who objected to the use of the old building, terming it a menace to the health of the children and a
