

GOV. LUTHER HODGES speaks in Georgia

Gov. Hodges In Spotlight At Meeting

SEA ISLAND, Ga. — North Carolina's governor, Luther Hodges, told his fellow southern governors Monday that the basic feelings of the average non-southern on race relations are "not a great deal different from that of the southern citizen."

NORRIS HOLDEN, a white man

Heroic Man Saves Life Of Autoist

"I think I did my best don't you?" This question was asked by Norris Holden of Route 3, Raleigh, and it was directed at a small crowd that had gathered at the Beaver Dam Creek shortly after Holden had pulled Charles H. Stephenson, III, a white man, from the jaws of death by drowning.

Stephenson, 24, of 925 Holt Drive, Raleigh, who has been in motor trouble with the law since he was 16-years-old, was (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

Bull City Woman Arrested In Mate's Stabbing Death

(Special To Carolinian) DURHAM — Mrs. Essie Fuller of this city was arrested Monday on investigation of murder following the death Sunday of Dewey Thompson, her common-law husband.

Mrs. Fuller has reportedly admitted inflicting the fatal wounds on Thompson with a beer can opener during a fight September 15 in the back yard of their 905 Wilkerson Avenue home.

Thompson, 32, died Sunday night at Duke Hospital of what was described by physicians as bronchial pneumonia. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

18 Rioters Arrested In Charlotte

Can't Have Mob Rule: Ike

Mob Attacks White Couple With Bricks

CHARLOTTE — Eighteen persons were cited Sunday for throwing rocks and bricks at a white couple in a car.

The defendants, including a woman, were cited after a complaint by Billie Ray Catron of Charlotte. Catron said he and his female companion, Pat Love, stopped for a red traffic light in a Negro district. He said several Negroes standing on the street corner began yelling at them.

He said one of them hit him on the arm with a brick and the others began throwing rocks. Catron reported the incident to police.

Catron stated, without incident, 14 of the Negroes, citing them for assault. The other four were juveniles and were summoned to juvenile court.

Racial tension has been at a high pitch in this city since the integration of several schools.

One Negro girl, Dorothy Geraldine Combs, was forced to withdraw because of harassment received inside the Harding High School.

PROTECTED BY FEDERAL TROOPS NOW—The nine students who were prevented from entering the Little Rock (Ark.) Central High School until President Eisenhower called out federal troops this week, are showing "booming up" on their studies last week. All returned to the previously all-white school Wednesday morning as members of the famed 101st Airborne Division stood ready to subdue any person who got out of order. The students are (seated on floor): Thelma Mothershead, Elizabeth Eckford and Melba Pattillo, Seated: Jefferson Thomas, Ernest Green, Minnie Brown, Carlotta Walls, Terrence Roberts and Gloria Ray. Chief Executives Of Five States "Deplore" Use Of Federal Troops SEA ISLAND, Ga. — Five southern Democratic governors Tuesday declared President Eisenhower's threat to use federal troops in the Little Rock integration dispute.

Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee, usually regarded as a moderate on the racial issue, said "I hope we will never see the day when Federal Troops will march against the law-abiding citizens of any state."

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, who called in a speech yesterday for a progressive approach to the race issue, said he "could not believe that the President would call out the troops but if he did it would be a grave and grievous mistake."

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina said if the troops report is true, "That would be bad." He said he hoped it was not true.

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia said flatly the Eisenhower action means that "the second reconstruction of the South his now under way."

Bishop Walls Compares Ike To Abe Lincoln In Actions

(Special To Carolinian) SALISBURY — Bishop W. J. Walls, titular head of the AME Zion Church, whose membership is reported to be one half million, acclaimed President Eisenhower's sending federal troops to Little Rock as the action that would save America's face in the eyes of a troubled world.

He likened Eisenhower to Lincoln who when he saw that he could not save a situation without taking drastic action proceeded to do it. Bishop Walls said that the President had resorted to this action after using every available means possible, but definitely would not permit mob rule to prevail in this democratic country.

Nation Hears President In T. V. Address

By ALEXANDER BARNES WASHINGTON D. C. — Shades of Lincoln, echoes of Jackson and predictions of Jefferson poured forth from the White House here Tuesday night when Dwight David Eisenhower took to the airwaves to tell the American people and the world that the laws of the land not only must be respected but would be kept and that every means available to him as President of the United States would be used against those who would by word, deed or action attempt to disregard them.

He was high in his praise of those in the south and even in Arkansas who are intent on observing the laws of the federal courts. He was sure that there were many such persons and hastened to assure them that he had great confidence in their courage and fortitude.

Didn't See Child, Dad Declares

DUNN — Stephen McCoy, 23, of this rural tobacco town, apparently unknowingly ran over his 13-month-old daughter Monday morning, drove all the way to his job and then learned that the child had been crushed to death by his automobile.

Coroner R. L. Pate, Sr., said the Harnett farmer admitted it must have been he who ran over the child, Naomi Jean McCoy, because there were no other cars in the yard.

The infant died of a crushed lung and broken neck, the coroner said. The death has been ruled accidental by Pate.

McCoy was quoted as saying that he last saw the child alive when he took some groceries.

Va. Porter Held For NC Authorities

NORFOLK, Va. — A tavern porter, who was arrested here Tuesday for stealing 58-cents worth of ham, is being held as a convicted murderer who escaped from a North Carolina prison 21 years ago.

Police said a routine comparison of fingerprints led to the identification of Johnnie Cooke, 47, as escaper Lewis Allan who died an Edgecombe County, N. C., prison Jan. 23, 1936.

A flyer issued at the time of the escape said Allan had served six years of a 2025 year sentence for second degree murder.

Police Lt. O. L. Murden said Cooke refused to admit he was Allan, but police booked him on a fugitive charge. Murden said (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)

CAUGHT WITH PANTS DOWN WINTON — An escaped fugitive was caught with his pants down Sunday. Ernest Brown, 31, was placed in jail because he was not prepared for a visit from the law.

A Herford County deputy sheriff knocked on the door of a house Brown was occupying early Friday morning while waiting for someone to answer the door, the deputy heard a commotion at the side of the house and soon saw a figure disappear into the darkness. Brown was apprehended some distance away, in a briar patch, clad only in underwear. He admitted being a fugitive from the state of Pennsylvania.

LAURENS, S. C. — Ten jurymen were selected Tuesday morning as the trial of a prominent Laurens countian and two Negroes got underway in General Sessions Court here, but court was forced to recess temporarily to bring in another panel to finish the jury selection.

Ten white males were picked (CONTINUED ON PAGE TWO)

SATCH SAYS 'NO MORE TALK'—Glasses on his brow, Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong took time off from a late breakfast last week to tell reporters that he doesn't care to talk any more about his recent blast at the U. S. government on its integration policy. Louis said he wasn't retracting his statement, but that was all. His band is now appearing in Sioux Falls, S. D. (UNITED PRESS PHOTO.)

Top Sepia Entertainers Take Stands On "Mixing"

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of what Negro America thinks of the Little Rock debacle and the subsequent Eisenhower-Faubus gag-together, was contained in some outspoken comment from several points in this country and Canada by a group of leading Negro entertainers.

Leading the outspoken criticism of the Central High School dispute was a warring blast from jazz composer Louis Armstrong.

ALTON JAMES UMPHREY slain in street

'Eternal Triangle' Figures In Raleigh Pistol Slaying

(BY STAFF WRITER) The "eternal triangle" sprung up again this week as a housewife pumped three bullets into the body of her husband after catching him in the apartment of another woman shortly after midnight Monday.

Mrs. Ada Lee Umphrey, 40, of 19 Railroad Street, in the "Fayetteville Crossing" section of the city, faces a murder charge in the fatal shooting of her husband, Alton James Umphrey, 46. She is being held without bond.

She reportedly admitted firing three bullets into her husband's body. Umphrey died at Saint Agnes Hospital Tuesday afternoon where he was treated for one stomach wound and two wounds in the head.

WHICH ONE? Governors from the Southern states met in Georgia this week. The main topic of discussion was, "Can a Southerner Become President?" We are giving you newspaper excerpts from the speeches of two of these men.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina and Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida. Both men have been accused of vice-presidential ambitions.

In his speech, Governor Collins is quoted as saying, "Yes, a Southerner can win the presidency; but to do so, he must be a man of competence and achievement, whose allegiance to the national interest and welfare must be forceful, absolute and unquestioned." Continuing, the Governor made the challenging prediction (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2)
