(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) President Eisenhower has shown to the world that we in America will not permit the evil forces, motivated by a rabble, intent upon flouting the law, to operate to the extent that the liberties of any citizen are encroached upon, he said. He ended by saying that this type of action certainly would not be any solace to the promoters of communism.

STATE BRIEFS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) FOUND DEAD ON PORCH STATESVILLE—Mrs. Lou Annie Woods, 45, of Statesville, was found dead on a neighbor's porch Sunday afternoon. Sheriff Charlie Rummel and Coroner Marvin Raymer investigated the death and had the woman transferred to the Fredell Memorial Hospital, where a doctor said she had been dead from four to six hours. Raymer called for an autopsy on the body. Dr. W. M. Summerville of Charlotte ruled Monday that Mrs. Woods died of coronary occlusion.

RALEIGH MARINE FACING TRIAL

NAHA, Okinawa—A court-martial on murder charges was ordered Friday for six Negro U. S. Marines accused of attacking two white American servicemen, killing one and injuring the second. Hospitalman Adrien R. Nockleby, 19, Wells County, N. D., died of injuries after being beaten. Killed and stomped in the assault at 1:15 a. m. August 4, in the Sukiran area of Okinawa, according to the Marines. A second victim, Sgt. A. H. Carrillo, 22, El Paso, Tex., was hospitalized with minor injuries. The six held are: Pfc. Wilbur L. Jones, 23, Raleigh; Pfc. Henry Moyer, Jr., 20, Oak City; Pfc. Jim Williams, Jr., 19, Dayton; Onlo Cpl. Eddie Chestnut, 21, Wallerboro, S. C.; Pfc. Willie Brown, Jr., 24, Savorata, Ky.; and Pfc. Robert Allen, Jr., 22, Nashville.

PROBE VANCE SHOOTING HENDERSON

A. Cottrell of Vance County and deputies are continuing an investigation of a Saturday night shooting in which one youth lost an eye. The incident occurred between 11 p. m. and midnight at a building which was formerly a Negro school house on NC Highway 39 at Williamsboro. Carlton Jones, 18, who lives on the C. T. Robbitt farm, was wounded. Jones is a patient at the Jubilee Hospital for treatment of the wound, which required removal of the eye, according to Cottrell. Jones allegedly was shot as he and another youth, Haywood Wright, Jr. drove past the building.

Murden said North Carolina authorities had confirmed they still wanted the convict and would extradite him if necessary. Youth Bureau Officer H. T. Tucker said a grocery store manager called him on the street to say that a man was stealing some meat. Tucker said he found two slices of ham under Cooke's shirt.

Thomas D. Jacobs, 59, and two Negroes, Jobis Shelton, 28, and William T. Hill, 60, all of Clinton, were indicted yesterday by the Laurens County Grand Jury. All three pleaded innocent as the trial got underway this morning.

The three defendants are charged with conspiracy in a plot to kidnap the 4-year-old son of Clinton banker Robert M. Vance for $450,000 ransom.

Jacobs is the grandson of the founder of Presbyterian College and the brother of William P. Jacobs, the late president of the institution.

Laurens County Sheriff C. W. Weir said Jacobs was arrested last June 10 when he went to a spot to pick up a box containing instructions in a ransom note.

Officers had intercepted the note when they arrested Shelton and the box contained only paper.

GOV. HODGES

Hodges, who is chairman of the group, explained that he believes the attitude of the average person throughout the country is changing. He said attitudes are changing, "not only about the school segregation problem, but about other things on which the U. S. Supreme Court has recently ruled."

"I think that there is a deepening concern on the part of the average man. He is concerned as to where we are going, and he is concerned that in our seeming desire to protect individual liberties we are often throwing to the wind individual responsibility."

The Tar Heel state governor urged the nation's political leaders to work for the "majority in America" instead of persisting in an unstably scramble to appease minorities.

"It is not in the national interest for minority groups to be used as political pawns by either of our major political parties," Hodges said.

Governor Hodges spoke on the "Southern Point of View." He said it means the preservation of the individual and personality of the individual, of the local governmental unit, and of the state.

He concluded, "The southern point of view is well illustrated by the recent civil rights debate in the Senate, led by Senator Russell of Georgia, Senator Ervin of North Carolina and other outstanding southern senators."

WOMAN STABS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) Thompson had been "hale and hearty" before his common-law wife "worked him over." The man was stabbed repeatedly with an ice pick rather than a can opener, as the woman claimed.

Duke Hospital physicians hesitate to say whether Thompson died of wounds in his head, back, neck and legs. They reported an autopsy would have to be made before cause of death could be determined.

The medical explanation, meanwhile, is that Thompson died of "respiratory arrest due to an injury to the spinal cord." Whether the ice pick wounds were the cause of the spinal injury has not been answered.

Mrs. Fuller, according to the detective, has steadfastly denied using an ice pick, but she did admit that they were drinking.

"The investigation should be complete this week," the detective said. As soon as it is completed, Mrs. Fuller will be given a hearing in the local Recorder's Court.

Episcopal Rectors

Wilkins used as his text the same Bible reference used by Egger the previous Sunday, Galatians 3:28.

The passage reads: "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

Egger had said racial integration would lead to amalgamation of the races and said the fact that School Integration is being accomplished does not mean it is right.

Rev. Wilkins said "The good news of the apostolic age is the gospel of Christ, which takes in all races, kindreds and tongues, bond and free... making one body of men, women and children."

Wilkins also said there are some persons who insist on a unity typified in what is called "The southern way of life."

He said "Whatever heroism in the lost cause of the Confederacy, whatever glamor in the plantation aristocracy, however worthy the ancestors, 'The View from Pompey's Head' is not to be compared with the view from the Mount of Transfiguration."

Another Episcopal rector Sunday outlined for his church the Episcopal Church's official stand against racial segregation.

He read the statement during the announcement period and did not include it in his sermon.

"DEPLORES" IKE

Militant States rights leader in Augusta, Ga., former U. S. Ambassador Hugh Grant, telegraphed Griffin urging him to hold the Southern Governors Conference now in its third day here, in session continuously until some firm stand is taken on the intensifying crisis over state versus federal sovereignty.

Griffin lacked any such authority but the 23rd annual meeting of Southern Governors was nevertheless having a difficult time sticking to its traditional policy of avoiding explosive subjects such as integration.

The racial question came up in speeches, come talks, discussions and Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas held forth as the dominant figure at the conference, commanding almost constant attention because of his role as staunch defender of state rights.

Faubus received a rousing ovation from several hundred guests when he was presented Monday night during the formal introductions of governors at a banquet. Griffin, who as host Governor handled introductions, termed Faubus a "strong advocate of Constitutional Government."

"I like the way this man talks and acts," said the Georgia Governor, a strong and outspoken segregationist.

Until early Tuesday, Faubus apparently was standing firm on his contention that President Eisenhower lacked constitutional authority to use federal troops at Little Rock without a request for help from the Arkansas Governor.

Faubus declined comment on the President's "cease and desist" order, a preliminary step to the use of force.

Sepia Entertainers

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) cancelling plans for a government-sponsored trip to Russia because of the dispute. In a press interview, Satch accused Gov. Faubus of "trying to run the federal government." He then turned on President Eisenhower for "failing to take a firm stand" in forcing Faubus to comply with the federal court order for integration.

"It's getting so bad a colored man hasn't got any country," said Satch caustically. It's the lower class people who make all the noise."

Faubus' use of troops to ban Negroes from Central High School was labeled a "publicity stunt" by the musician, who also said that such things have an adverse effect on U. S. relations with other countries.

"The people over there ask me what's wrong with my country. What am I supposed to say?" he asked.

"If I ever go to Russia, I'll go on my own. They know Louis Armstrong and they'll come to hear me. In Berlin, people risked their lives to hear me."

He added that his "hot trumpet" could melt the Iron Curtain.

Later at Montevideo, Minn., Satch reiterated his stand that he was not going through with plans for the State Department-sponsored tour.

"PRESSURED TO SAY HE WAS MISQUOTED" He said: "I don't want to go over this mess anymore. I said what somebody should have said a long time ago. It's over and done with. Everything I said is in there (the papers) and I'm not going to say anymore."

In Washington, the State department said it hoped that Satch would change his mind, despite his feeling about the handling of racial problems in the south. Press Officer Lincoln White said the State department and Armstrong's managers had not come to any definite terms, but that the possibility of the tour had been discussed.

Back at Sioux Falls, S. D., the trumpeter let it be known that he was being subjected to "terrific pressure" from advisors to say he was misquoted in the original outburst, several Negro entertainers lent their voices in support of their fellow-musician's views.

"LENA FEARS EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS" From Philadelphia, singer Lena Horne commented.

"Personally, I think people of all colors should be concerned about what's happening in the south. I, too, would decline to appear in Russia if I were asked by the Government, because I would fear embarrassing questions by the press, especially the Soviet press."

Miss Horne would not sanction Satch's remark that the "had no guts," because she said she was a Democrat, and "would feel much set free to criticize a president of my own party."

Miss Marian Anderson, from Honolulu, where she is on a State Department sponsored tour of Asia, said simply:

"One has feelings... but now is not the time for me to say something. He (Armstrong) is a great artist. I would say something."

"EARTHA FEELS SHE'S NOT 'HUMAN'" Fiery Eartha Kitt, at a motel in Windsor, Ont., just before her appearance in a supper club, had a caustic comment to give. Pulling no punches, Miss Kitt said:

"Armstrong is absolutely right. We shouldn't go to Russia preaching things we are not.

Labelling the President as "a man without a soul," she continued: "How can he possibly sit and not have any emotion for what is happening right under his nose? He is not even two-faced. He has not even shown us one side of his face."

"I don't see how President Eisenhower can have any pride or any respect for his position when he lets somebody like Faubus get away with this. All the purpose of the whole country is being lost. We don't have any principles or honor. We don't have anything to stand for anymore."

"I have become a very discouraged person myself. I certainly feel as though I'm not human."

"ROBBIE SAYS IKE LACKS 'LEADERSHIP'" Another outspoken Negro personality in the entertainment field, retired baseball player Jackie Robinson, congratulated Satch for expressing "a feeling that is becoming rampant among Negroes."

Said Robbie: "It is spreading very rapidly. Now the Negroes are beginning to stand up, and be counted. I am very pleased. It shows a unity that has been lacking in the past. I can't say President Eisenhower is letting Gov. Faubus run the country. I do say he 'has been lacking in leadership."

MAN SAVES LIFE

Stephenson, according to a State Trooper, would most likely have drowned had not Holden heard the crash and rushed to the scene.

"I saw the man in the car and the car in the water when I got to the bridge," Holden declared.

"I ran into the water to the left and ripped open the door. He was lying over the steering wheel almost completely under the water. I got him out, pulled him onto the creek bank and went for help."

Wake County Coroner M. W. Bennett is said to have phoned for an ambulance for the injured man. "Unconscious when pulled from the car, Stephenson regained consciousness on the bank, but was rushed to Mary Elizabeth Hospital for treatment. The hospital listed his condition as 'minor injuries and shock.'"

Holden said the water was very cold and aside from rescuing Stephenson, the only other thought in his mind was the chilly temperature of the creek waters.

Stephenson has been charged with driving on the wrong side of the road and speeding under the prevailing conditions. He is slated to be tried Thursday of this week in the Wendell Recorder's Court.

Striking Poultry Workers Fail To Reach Settlement

By STAFF WRITER

WINSTON-SALEM—When 300 Amalgamated workers, employed in three plants owned by the Holly Farms Poultry Company, laid down their tools and left their machines to strike on June 6, they hardly expected the firm opposition shown by company officials who after three months have not agreed to a settlement.

Company plants are located at Winston-Salem, Wilkesboro, and Hiddenite, North Carolina where the employees, members of Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, have sought to improve working conditions.

As of this date, the strike against Holly Farms Poultry Company is still in progress. "We have hopes for a settlement in the near future," says John Russell, International Representative.

According to union reports, Fred Lovette, owner of the company, has shown a complete disregard for his workers both before and after the strike began.

REPORTS SHOW that the employees had good reason to strike. The average wage in the Winston-Salem plant was $1.05 per hour, while the highest wage paid amounted to $1.15 an hour. The wages were ten cents below those paid by other organized companies in the area.

Chief complaints of the employees included no fringe benefits, no vacation with pay, no holidays with pay, and no overtime payments 14 weeks during the year.

Workers report that one hour was docked from the week's pay check when an employee reported one minute late to work. Wages were cut to minimum rate if a worker was absent one day from work. During the first week of the strike, John Russell, International Representative, came on the scene and organized the workers who responded favorably.

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING union organization, workers were called into offices of supervisors and warned that they would be fired if they didn't resign from the union.

When 85 to 90 workers were laid off the Amalgamated Butcher Workmen and Meat Cutters union filed charges with the NLRB.

Because of the strike, the company is operating only a few days a week. Weekly shipments made by the company have been reduced to 10 to 15 es of the two governors. Judging from the trend of thought revealed in the portions of these speeches, would you cast your vote for either of these men if the vice-presidential nominees were narrowed down to them?

SOMETHING TO CONSIDER. We were not there but reliable sources report that the small segregated section reserved for Negroes overflowed last Saturday for the Carolina-State game at the college stadium. It is rumored that many of the Negro spectators never attend games played by Shaw U. and St. Augustine's College.

Being curious we asked one of those "fans" who scorns the arid offering of Negro schools. "Why do you go to games played by Duke, Wake Forest, State and Carolina, but stay away from those played by Shaw and Saint Augustine's?" He replied, "When I pay my money to see a football game, I want my money's worth. It's not because these white schools have bang-up, good teams all the time, but they don't spend half the time arguing, coaches, players and officials, neither do they use the other half of the time stalling around." No comment is necessary, but we would like to know just how many Negroes stay away from our games for this reason.

HIGH COST OF FREE EDUCATION: Something of a thubarb is going on about the "high cost" of supposedly free schooling. Numerous criticisms have been raised about school administrators charging them with assessing students with unreasonable and, in some instances, unnecessary fees. It seems that the most serious allegation is that many of these fees are supposed to be borne by the State and that many students, because of inability to pay these assessments, are denied the benefits of courses and materials most needed and desired by them.
