DOUBLE TALK: Judging press reports, the Hon. Harold D. Cooley enjoyed himself in some rather loose and fancy double talk before the N. C. Student Legislature last week. According to news reports, Congressman Cooley who had been invited to make the closing address to the assemsembly members, throats for bly, "jumped" down the aspassing a resolution condemning the law of several states that makes interracial marriages unlawful. In chastising the youthful law makers the Nashville, N. C., solon is quoted as saying "I am shocked by the action taken. "You have shocked the sensibilities of our

Mr. Cooley is reported as taksembly as a personal insult. "I a lot of things. am certain my position on racial matters is well known." Well, Mr. Cooley had the unquestioned right to say any thing he was big enough to say in stating his opposition to the interracial marriage resolution but in expressing this right by condemning the free expression of others he put himself in the indefensible position of wanting to deny to others the right he so vehemently used himself. Because these young people had the courrage to throw off the yoke of bonddage posing as racial superiority of it should they be addressed as criminals, devoid of the privilege of free speech? After upbraiding these free thinking youthful legislators, Mr. Cooley went on to make some statements that intreated he felt these young people should and must think for themselves.

"Those of us who have lived in my day and generation have made an awful mess of the world in Burton, which you must live -- "You have no choice but to live in this unhappiness," continued the Congress-Cooley's bewildered listeners, was a statement made after he had "dressed them down" for their show of tolerance, was con- Mimmie Wade, tained in these words, "the survival of the United States and democracy are dependent upon the men and women of America who can lift themselves above the bondage

We do know however, that when his position as 4th N. C. Congressman was sorely threatened several months ago by a white supremist candidate Mr. Cooley openly welcomed all the "racial" support he could get.
