The following quotation adorns the wall in Frank Burnett's Durham den: "In our little home, in spite of its smallness, we are always happiest when it is filled with our friends."—Bea and Frank. A. W. Jones, agriculture director at Person County High School, Roxboro, has the following quotations hanging on his office walls: "A man's knowledge is no greater than his information" and "A man cannot be a howling success by just howling." Mencher (Banker's Fire of Durham) Harris, has hanging over his desk: "Be nice to your friends on your way up the ladder, for you may need them on your way down."

Negro baseball owners seem to think that this is the big year for Negro baseball. . . . Already such teams as the Franklinton Red Caps, the Roxboro Colts, the Hillsboro All-Stars and the Durham Rams have held meetings and are in the process of building their spring schedules. . . . The Baltimore Elite Giants are being back into baseball. In fact, this will be their second season. Reports have it that they are headed for a big season and are beginning to look like the Baltimore Elite Giants of old when Campanella "Cool Papa" Bell and Eddie Mearcle were holding down hearths on the team.

Reports are that "Lamb" Barbee, manager of the Durham Rams, and Douglas Gordon, owner, are feuding. . . . Reports are the "Lamb" will operate his own team this year, and Gordon will continue with the Rams. Central High School in Hillsboro will play basketball in its new gymnasium before the season is over. . . . then every school in the Durham-Raleigh area will have its own gymnasium.

Sel Dodger, the Raleigh cafe operator, sells the best fried fish plate in North Carolina. W. T. Armstrong, the Rocky Mount medic, and a graduate of Shaw University, is the greatest four-letter athlete to be produced in a North Carolina Negro College—football, baseball, basketball, baseball and tennis.

"Unk" Campbell, coach at Lincoln High School in Laurinburg, is credited with being the greatest natural athlete to ever attend Morgan College in Baltimore, according to Coach "Big House" Gaines of Winslow-Salem Teachers, who also was a Morgan great.

Haggle Smith of Raleigh's old Washington High School, is the greatest all-round performer that the Capital City has ever had. The late "Blub" Bluford of Salisbury (Price High and Livingstone) was Salisbury's greatest athletic production. . . . At Hillside (Durham) it is not Tom Wilson (Los Angeles Rams), Wesley Covington (Milwaukee Braves), nor Holly Paige (Durham baseball official), but "Wig" Springfield, the present Wichita, Kansas outfielder, that is credited with being Durham's greatest all-round athlete.

At Dudley High School in Greensboro it could be easily Charlie DeBerry the present principal of Bladen County Training School in Elizabethtown that tops the Gate City Athletic greats. Basketball at North Carolina College has been going slowly downhill ever since Johnny McElendon left. This year it hit rock bottom. Ditto for Hillside since the era of Nelson Higgins. Dalton Whitted has been promoted to assistant principal at Little High School in Bahama, N. C.

John Larkins Speaker For FSTC Affair

FAYETTEVILLE—John R. Larkins, Consultant in the North Carolina State Department of Public Welfare, recently addressed the students at the Fayetteville State Teachers College from the topic, "1953: Year of Crisis or Opportunity?" He pointed out some of the problems we as a nation are taking over into the new year where they will continue to haunt us at home and to minimize our influence abroad. We live in an industrial civilization and there is constantly the task of keeping our spiritual values in line with our impulse for the "things" about us. "Democracy as a way of life," he insisted, "is a virile thing and must be extended to the whole people if it is to be a democracy at all." It is ours to see that our practices square with the democratic ideal.

Garden Time

For several columns I have been reporting on a few varieties of vegetable and flower crops. So far, the reports have dealt with varieties which have won awards in the All-America selection trials. There are some other new developments which you should know about. These have resulted from breeding programs conducted by research personnel in the agricultural experiment stations and seed companies. Watch for these varieties which develop reddish overtones as it matures, and is the "finest" in its color range. Matador petunia—a medium-large ruffled bloom of the popular mahogany red, which makes a classy bedding show when planted with white or other blending colors. Tetra Shades of Rose—a beautiful new zinnia.

ment Contracts to assure equal job opportunity in Government contract work. "It is incorrect to assume from the article that the hiring policies of the Federal Government or its contractors are dictated by agencies outside the Federal Government. Rather, the hiring policies are determined exclusively by the well established policy of the U. S. Government that all qualified persons are entitled to fair and equitable treatment in employment paid from Federal funds. "Representatives of Government contracting agencies, however, often consult officials of social agencies and educational institutions concerned with the elimination of discriminatory employment practices. In this way they obtain information about local conditions, including the availability of qualified workers of minority groups, which is made available to employers upon request.
