Delta Jabberwock Aclaimed; Miss P. Street Crowned Queen

By MARCUS H. BOULWARE
The Caribbean Islands' intriguing call, "when evening is nigh," fascinated patrons and spectators who assembled in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium Saturday night to hear and see the Massie Patterson Carib Singers.

Following the presentation of the Jabberwock Queen and her attendants, the Massie Patterson Carib Singers, professional artists, gave an evening of delightful entertainment sprinkled generously with humor and comedy not to mention the breathfulness of the Voodoo rituals.

Appealing scenes included a Victoria Market (Jamaica), B. W. I., authentic Trinidad prison scene, and a medley of street vendors and cryers, honeyeater, female singers, shimmy boys and girls, stick fighters, drummers, voluptuous sirens, Boo Boo men, and what-have-you.
