Yes, We All Talk
By Marcus H. Boulware
A Panel Discussion
A panel discussion is a form of public speaking in which a group of people engage in conversation on some topic under the guidance of a moderator.
The procedure should not be a series of public speeches on a topic, but rather a conversation in which as many people say as much as they can in as short a time as they can.
If the audience is invited to participate in the discussion, it becomes a panel-forum. The word forum suggests that people in the audience have an opportunity to express their opinions.
Whatever the panel discusses, it should make known its purpose. For example, the purpose of discussion include:
(1) To inform, or gather information;
(2) To exchange ideas and opinions; and
(3) To offer a solution to some problem.
The moderator says something like this: "The purpose of our discussion is to exchange ideas

Brice Trio Appears At Shaw Univ. Thurs.

The BRICE TRIO, a widely acclaimed family of distinguished musicians will appear at Shaw University in concert on Thursday, February 13, at 8:00 p. m. in Greenleaf Auditorium.
CAROL BRICE stands out in her generation for enriching the tradition of the great contraltos. It was the late, great Serge Koussevitzky who elevated Miss Brice to stardom, and she sang no less than 10 times for him as a soloist with the Boston Symphony.
The New York Herald Tribune acclaimed her recital as "one of the most distinguished" and the New York Times reported it as an extraordinary pleasurable concert of high artistry.
EUGENE BRICE, a graduate of the Juillard School of Music, is the only man of his race to travel on a 21-country tour of the Near East and Europe with the Robert Shaw Chorus. He has appeared with the Naumburg Symphony in Central Park, the Symphony of the Air at Carnegie Hall, on Broadway in "Showboat" and "Carmen Jones" and on numerous television performances.
JONATHAN BRICE is also a brother of CAROL and EUGENE BRICE and he is considered one of the most distinguished pianist-accompanists in the field.

Interracial Group Hears T. Henderson

ROANOKE, Va. - The fight against integration is a "tragic waste" of manpower and money, a Negro educator told an interracial brotherhood meeting Sunday.
Dr. Thomas Howard Henderson, dean of Virginia Union University at Richmond, said the state legislature is "wandering countless teams as it goes down a road it knows it can't long follow."
"In trying to hamstring the NAACP, they're also making it difficult for white people to become voters," Henderson said, referring to a proposal to tighten up the state's registration laws.
He said the number of Negro children who want to attend white schools and the number of parents who want them to go is "small compared with the number who want the right to attend."
In Portsmouth, Miss Sarah Patton Boyde, a Charlottesville author, said the South's problems are "fear and mis-information" rather than racial hostility.
Mrs. Boyde told a Negro college fraternity group "unprincipled politicians" profit by maintaining segregation.

Spends $7,500 On Day's Film Work

NEW YORK - Sitting in the moving and watching a one-minute commercial extolling the merits of a breakfast food, beer or soft drink unless before your eyes did you ever stop to realize how much money, time and effort went into making the picture?
One man who can tell you of the problems involved in such a project is Bill Alexander, the only Negro newsreel (byline) and commercial film producer in the nation. Last week at Charter Oak studios here he completed his 20th such project for one of the nation's largest soft drink companies.
There are more than 100 companies that specialize in turning out films for industry. Since Alexander is considered an expert in the Negro market he's the only one that caters to this field and each year he takes on new clients until today he has more than 80 firms that make use of his unique services.
No newcomer to the film business, Alexander has made musicals since 1947 that featured Billy Eckstine and Dixie Gillespie, plus making "The Fight Never Ends" that starred Joe Louis. When Ghana became a full-fledged nation last year he was on the scene filming the historic event. The film is being built on Ghana is much in demand and has been shown before various civic groups.

SPEEDY SPICE CAKE

Freshly baked cakes and glasses of cold milk are a time-honored snack for after-school appetites. Speedy Spice Cake will be a welcome treat.

"What can we eat, Mom?" is a phrase that's been heard as long as children have been coming home from school. When you have several youngsters, it's no small job keeping up with their appetites.
Try them out on Speedy Spice Cake. It's a very compatible partner for milk. Spread it with frosting flavored with brown sugar, and decorate each piece simply but invitingly with a whole pecan.
The cake goes together by the quick-mix method, so it is easy to make. Self-rising flour is a special ingredient in Speedy Spice Cake. Baking powder and salt are already in the flour, and provide the "self-rising" quality. This saves time, so learn to use self-rising flour in all your recipes that call for baking powder. Just omit the baking powder and salt when you're measuring ingredients.
Sift together flour, cinnamon, and allspice. Add shortening, brown sugar and 1/4 cup milk. Mix to blend, then beat 2 minutes at medium speed on electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Add remaining milk and eggs.
Combine butter or margarine, brown sugar and milk in saucepan. Bring to boiling and cook 1 minute, stirring several times.
Cool slightly. Add confetti, sugar gradually, beating until smooth and of spreading consistency.
Frosting
2 1/2 cups sifted self-rising flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 can milk
2 eggs
Frosting
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
2 1/2 cups sifted self-rising flour (about)
sugar (about)
Move mixer on of 500 strokes by hand. Turn into greased 9-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 30 minutes. Cool, and frost. Makes 18 slices cake.

Artificial breeding of dairy cows produces more milk.

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God... (Romans 8:28.)
It is wonderful to meet, on memorable occasions that are all too infrequent, a person who truly loves God and obeys His commandments every hour of every day. Such a one radiates love and joy, peace and harmony, strength and goodness, and is really blessed and fulfilled. We can all be like that - why aren't we?
