

Westminster Choir Sings At Jackson College February 26

JACKSON, Miss.—America's top ranked concert choir will be presented by the Jackson State College Lyceum Association February 26. The Westminster Choir, appearing here at that time, has earned fame far beyond its native shores. Traveling under the guidance and direction of its indefatigable conductor, Dr. John Finley Williamson, this organization has appeared in most of the key cities of Europe, Asia, the Orient, Canada and Cuba, as well as the United States.

Accounts of the varied fascinating experiences which the choir has encountered in its travels could fill something out of the Thousand and One Nights Tales.

Three times Westminster Choir has been commissioned to fulfill the function of goodwill ambassadors. Former President Herbert Hoover and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt each bestowed this honor. More recently, Westminster Choir completed a five-month, globe-circling tour sponsored jointly by ANTA (American National Theatre and Academy) and the Department of State.

On the eve of their departure, Dr. Williamson received the following telegram: "To the young men and women of the Westminster Choir celebrating the beginning of their world concert tour, I send greetings. You have been chosen to represent America. As cultural ambassadors, you are showing the countries of the world how Americans can sing, and also how Americans can listen and learn."

State College Answers

QUESTION: I've been hearing quite a lot about egg production lately. How is North Carolina progressing in this direction?

ANSWER: Quite well. Farmers in this state have increased the sale of eggs at a faster rate since 1949 than farmers in the Southeastern area of the United States as a whole. There was a 234 per cent increase in North Carolina from 1930 to 1955.

QUESTION: How can I tell if my honeybees are getting enough food?

ANSWER: You can tell if your bees are getting enough food by checking the combs. It's harder to tell if they're getting adequate pollen, but if there's no pollen around the brood and the young larvae look watery or dry instead of glistening and milky white, there's a good chance the bees are being starved for pollen. Two parts sugar in one part hot water makes good bee food. A soybean flour/yeast mixture is a good substitute for pollen.

QUESTION: When should I prune my rose bushes?

ANSWER: It's best to prune bush roses in the early spring before growth starts. Prune climbing roses that bloom only in the early spring by removing some of the old canes level with the ground immediately after flowering. Also, prune climbers that bloom off and on throughout the growing season early in the spring.

GARDEN TIME

Jonquils are blooming in Raleigh. This hardly seems possible with the wet, cold weather we have experienced all winter. While we have had bad weather, we have much to be thankful for when we read about one crop disaster after another in Florida. If we look around us we can always find some one in worse condition than we are. I wonder why we grudge so much.

The days are getting longer which means that "Old Sol" is climbing higher in the heavens and asserting his authority, minute by minute, each day. Don't let him catch you napping. Your vegetable, fruit and flower gardens will call for careful planning and your lawn, trees and shrubs will need attention.

I have already given some suggestions about pruning and spraying apples, peaches, raspberries and grapes, and starting certain early vegetables for transplanting. Hope these additional suggestions might help.

Farmers should build their farms for future needs.

Talladega Prexy Deplores Tendency Of Western Man At Bennett College

GREENSBORO — The tendency of Western man to want nothing that is not utilitarian was deplored by Dr. Arthur D. Gray, of Talladega, Alabama, in his vesper message at Bennett College recently.

Dr. Gray, who before assuming the presidency of Talladega College some six years ago had served pastorates in two of the nation's largest Congregational churches, said that "practicality" had become the measuring rod of the real, but saw some good in thisasmuch as this stimulates a constant search for the real.

Answering the question "What Are the Real Things in Life?" Dr. Gray said:

"There is nothing so real as a dream, nothing so solid as an idea; nothing so tangible as the human spirit, and nothing so powerful as truth.

"Don't be afraid to day dream," he declared. "Build your castles in the air and then put some foundations under them. The Empire State Building, radio and earth satellites are all the products of men who dreamed."

One of the miracles of the universe, the speaker stated is the persistence of ideas and another is the indestructibility of the human spirit. "Nothing can displace an idea but a better idea," he concluded.

Yes, We All Talk

A FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE

One of the fundamental principles of parliamentary law states that the will of the majority must be carried out, but the rights of the minority must be preserved.

If then, at least one more than one half of the total number of members casting their votes for or against a motion or candidate, the motion is carried, or the candidate is elected to office.

Not matter how much a member talks against the motion, and even if he votes against it, carried he should be loyal and help carry out the wishes of the club as implied in the motion.

passes laws and motions is no reason for saying that the majority is right. The majority can be definitely wrong. An example of this is well illustrated in the passage of new segregation laws so that southern states may circumvent the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW CHART

Readers desiring one of my parliamentary chart of motions should send 20 cents and a self-addressed long business envelope. The chart arranges the motions into five classes and answers the six things we want to know about each motion.
