

ANP Scribe Interviews Israel Leader, Ben-Gurion, in Tel Aviv

By ALICE A. DUNNIGAN

TEL AVIV — Israel is a little worried at attempts made to unite a number of Arab States, admitted Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, in a recent press conference with foreign correspondents, the Prime Minister charged each of the governments in this area, except Turkey and Israel, with being undemocratic.

"If these were free, peace-loving, democratic states, we would be happy to welcome that union and we would be glad to cooperate with them, politically, economically and culturally," declared Ben-Gurion.

DEFIED UN CHARTER FOR 10 YEARS

But, these governments, he continued, have defied the Charter of the United Nations for the past 10 years. They have refused to settle their disputes in peaceful ways. They organized boycotts against a member state of the United Nations, he declared. And "they openly threaten our existence."

"So it is but natural that Israel sees this unity with some worry, especially as at the head of this unity stand military dictatorships, 'who by nature are bound to expand, to attack, and rather than do things for their own people, to try to win public favor by acts of enmity against other peoples,'" Ben-Gurion claimed that Syria and Egypt had both declared their aim to destroy Israel, as well as the Federation between Iraq and Jordan, Iraq, he said did not even conclude an Armistice Treaty with Israel, although they participated 10 years ago in the invasion of Israel.

NO COMMENT ON U. S.

The Prime Minister declined to comment on whether he thought the United States had done all she could to compose the difficulties between Israel and the Arab countries. "I don't think it is my job to estimate the actions or the lack of actions of other powers," said Ben-Gurion in reply to a reporter's question regarding the action of the U. S.

Participants included Lee Smith of the John Avery Boys' Club; Dr. Charles D. Watts, director of N.C.'s Health Center; Dr. E. P. Norrie; William A. Marsh, president of the Durham chapter of the NCC Alumni Association; and James T. Taylor, executive secretary of the J. E. Shepard Memorial Foundation.

Dr. Mills is a native of Richlands in Onslow County. His early education was obtained at Kirtrell Normal and Industrial Institute.

Several generations of NCC athletes, particularly, remember Dr. Mills as the kindly man who threw out oranges at sports events for a quarter of a century.

Durham Honors Noted Medic

He's a veteran staff member at Durham's Lincoln Hospital and one of the pillars in the Old North State Medical Society.

Shaw alumni's citation of the physician followed an earlier celebration sponsored by NCC and anticipated a special program planned by Lincoln Hospital soon.

At the Shaw program, Dr. W. H. Fuller, chapter president, presented Dr. and Mrs. Mills to dinner guests.

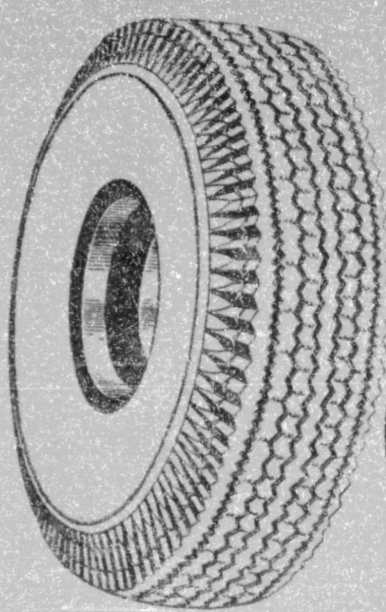

Officers of the Shaw chapter in Durham are, in addition to Dr. Fuller, J. E. Cronmarte, vice president; Miss Eva L. Merritt, secretary; Mrs. Andolia Eaton, assistant secretary; and J. E. Peele, treasurer.

Charles A. Ray served as toastmaster.

At the NCC program earlier, Charles A. Alston was chairman of a program planning committee that included H. A. Hudson; C. A. Ray; Mrs. H. Dillahunt; Mrs. L. Z. Williams; W. M. Rich; J. Butts; J. H. Taylor; E. M. Strayhorn; L. R. Swift; and I. R. Holmes.
