'Negroes Must Get Together, Know What They Want & Go After It,' McCray Says

"Negroes must get together, know what they want and go after it," said John H. McCray, editor, South Carolina Edition, Afro-American Newspapers, to Shaw University students and faculty on Monday, April 21. He said that, figuratively speaking, Negroes are caught in a boat on a sand bar in many respects and we don't want to rock the boat and stir things up for fear of making someone angry. "We need to hit on a unity and rock ourselves to freedom and safety," he declared. McCray said that at Montgomery, Alabama, we have demonstrated what can be done when and where we unite and show our hand. "In Tuskegee there is the remarkable illustration of how important Negroes are to the economy and life of a community. In less than one year, by transferring their business to stores operated by themselves, Tuskegee Negroes have closed down half of the stores that were operated by white people. He pointed out that what has happened at Tuskegee, Montgomery and Tallahassee, Florida, is not what ought to be, yet, since there is no excuse for racial exploitation and persecution, it is often justifiable and necessary that we deliver the "shock treatment" to the white south and that we "rock the boat" vigorously. "The white South," he concluded, "is learning that when Negroes get together in union they win every time." The speaker was introduced by Dr. William B. Staessner, president of Shaw University.
