"Open Door" Policy For Publishers' Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — The City of Brotherly Love is awaiting the annual meeting of the National Newspaper Publishers Association scheduled here in its 20th annual convention, June 19-21, and its come one, come all.

In a statement issued here this week, E. Washington Rhodes, NNPA vice president and publisher of The Philadelphia Tribune, host newspaper for the convention, urged that "all papers eligible for membership in NNPA, or any paper interested in the program of the association" come to Philadelphia for the convention which is expected to be the biggest and most important in the 20-year history of the newspaper group.

A highpoint of the convention will be reports and follow-through planning coming out of the recent Summit Conference of Negro Leadership promoted by NNPA in Washington, D. C., under the chairmanship of William O. Walker, editor and publisher, The Cleveland (Ohio) Call and Post, and association president.

"This is the time for all Negro owned and operated Negro newspapers to answer the call," said Mr. Rhodes, "and we hope that we will have a one hundred per cent answer when the roll is called." All sessions of the three-day convention will be held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in downtown Philadelphia.

76 Livingstone College Grads Hear Bishop Joseph Cauthen

SALISBURY—A Challenge from Bishop Joseph D. Cauthen, presiding prelate of the 11th episcopal district of the A. M. E. Zion Church, to give "Symmetry of Life" was issued to the Livingstone College 1958 graduating class in the baccalaureate address on Sunday.

Bishop Cauthen assured the 76 graduates that "There is no mistake or confusion of ideas when one calls the end the beginning and the closing of school the commencement. Every end should mark and her beginning, every success, the setting of a new goal, every defeat, an opportunity for a new start."

"Your education began when the State said "You Must". Those words gradually gave way to "May". Within the spread of these words lie all of life. They bridge the difference between compulsion and initiative, between autocracy and democracy, between the Old Testament and the new, between law and love. Your training has not been primarily designed to give you the facts of life, but rather to fit you to pilot your destiny, to train you to think, decide and act.

"You are in much of the same position in which Abraham found himself. He went out not knowing whither he went. You are going out and you do not know where you are going. You have ideals, hopes and ambitions. Whether they will materialize is another question. You have no doubt considered the three questions that we will ask. What will you do with your life? Why will you do it? How will you do it?"

Bishop Walls used as a subject "The Likeness of One to Christ" He warned the audience that what you do speak so loud until you cannot hear what one says.

Bishops, R. L. Jones and H. B. Shaw assisted Bishop Walls, along with many other church members. Rev. L. J. Houston delivered the second prayer.

The Rev. C. E. Norment presented Bishop Jones, who then presented Bishop Walls. R. E. Carter, chairman of the Trustee Board, made the gift of the pews to the church and Bishop Walls received them, hoping that they would serve to enhance the usefulness of the church and the people.

"Law A Natural Profession For Negroes:" Atty. Howard

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — Negro attorneys have long since proved their worth. Perry Howard, long-time District lawyer, said in a speech before the Washington Bar association last week.

Howard termed law a "natural profession for Negroes because Negroes need lawyers so badly."

He credited Negro lawyers with enlarging the use of the ballot, and assuring jury services for Negroes.

"There was a time when it was argued that the white lawyer could do more for the Negro because of the white lawyer's social advantages."

"That theory has long since been exploded. Negro attorneys have given force and vitality to the 13th, 14th, 15th amendments to the Constitution," Howard declared.

He spoke at Bible Way church on the conclusion of National Bar week.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS IN THE HOME — Be careful where you use scatter rugs. Never use them at the top or bottom of stairways unless they are firmly anchored on all corners and in the center. Take precaution to make such scatter rugs as you do use in your rooms slip-proof. There are products available in most rug department stores today to make such rugs hold still. Good slip-proof underlays can be inexpensive treated sheets, trimmed to small rug size or laid side by side under the larger rugs.

Anti-skid rubberized fire padding, and moisture, dust and moth-proof rubber or composition rubber paddings are also available, though more expensive.

Tack stairway and hall coverings down securely or use a non-skid material recommended by your floor covering dealer. Also, install a small light at baseboard level to expose danger spots and warn the walker to be careful.

In the basement the floors around washubs and machines should be kept dry.

Basement stairs: Paint the bottom step or patch of floor shiny white or some bright color. A surprising number of persons fall in the basement because, with a dim light and often no light at all, they think the lowest step is floor level.

Front and Back Doors: Provide mats outside your front and back doors for family and visitors to wipe their feet on. This will dry their shoes of mud or slick substances, reduce possibility of their falling on your floors or tracking and making floor slippery. The mat also helps to keep your indoor floors and carpets clean.

You will find them all the while if you bring a smiling visage to the glass.
