Eleven Members Of St. Paul's Faculty Doing Graduate Study

members of the faculty of Saint Paul's College this summer are doing advanced study at northern and western universities. Dr. Earl H. McClenney, president, announced this week.

One of them, Miss Iris King, has received a fellowship from the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., and has been granted a leave of absence to study at Columbia University, New York City, toward a doctorate in sociology and personnel administration.

Miss King holds a B. S. degree from Saint Paul's and a M. S. degree from Columbia. On Saint Paul's faculty since 1952, she received her diploma from the local college in 1944, the first year that a four-year degree class was graduated.

Dr. McClenney also announced the appointment of Dr. Kermit Dicks to the faculty as associate professor of education. Dr. Dicks holds the B. S. degree from Virginia State College, Petersburg, and the master's and Ph. D. degrees from Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

Dr. Dines and his family will move to their campus home here early next September. At present, he is a member of the faculty at Fort Valley State College in Georgia.

It was also announced that the college's six-weeks summer school will begin June 16th. The fall sessions opens for freshman and transfer students on Sept. 14, with upperclassmen reporting on Sept. 22.

The college will be host to the annual Youth Conference on June 15-21, inclusive, and to the Virginia Presbytery Conference on June 20-23, inclusive. The fall convocation, formally marking the beginning of the 1958-59 session, is scheduled for October 30.

The faculty members in addition to Miss King, who will do graduate study this summer, the college at which they will enroll and the field in which they will study, are: Thomas M. Law, treasurer-business manager, workshop in business management, University of Omaha, Nebraska; Roland L. Allison, music, Harvard University, Boston; Harold W. Witten, science, Harvard University, Boston; Harold W. Witten, science, Harvard; Clyde Vaughan, business education, New York University; Miss Jurgurtha Younger, personnel administration, New York University; Miss Glone White, library science, University of Wisconsin.

Louis Taylor, personnel administration, New York University; Joseph Thompson, director of athletics, health, physical education and recreation, Indiana University; Charles Jones, assistant coach, health, physical education and recreation, Indiana University; Mrs. Madeline J. McClenney, library science, University of Wisconsin, Madison; and Luther J. Chaney, history, Indiana University.

Preliminary to the opening of the fall session, President McClenney said the faculty and staff will meet on Sept. 13 for the annual conference of teaching and administrative personnel.

Saint Paul's, a member of the United Negro College Fund composed of 35 independent and church-related colleges, is accredited by the Virginia State Board of Education and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It was founded in 1858.

For Thou, Lord, art good, and ready to forgive; and plenteous in mercy unto all them that call upon Thee.—(Psalm 86, 5.)

Our Heavenly Father is all-good, all-merciful, all-wisdom, He hears every sincere prayer for forgiveness and help. The gift of His loving-kindness is not measured, but is abundant beyond human conception.

Interracial Peace Pilgrims "Walk For Peace" In Wash.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Boy and Ruskin, executive secretary, the War Resistance League, was among the leaders of the "Walk For Peace" around the White House area, last week.

Some 700 pilgrims leisurely picketed the White House for an hour and a half around noon, after which they retired to Sylvan theater on the Monument grounds to rally against the use of nuclear tests.

The picketers walked to Washington from various sections of the country to demonstrate their disapproval of the use or test of these deadly weapons. They carried signs as they strolled backward and forth before the White House which asked the President to "Stop the Test," and to assure him that "Peace in the World is better than 'A World in Pieces'."

The interracial group consisted mainly of Quakers from the Philadelphia area. Their ages ranged from 10-months to 82 years.

The text of a telegram sent to President Eisenhower was released at the Sylvan theater. It was signed by Albert S. Bigelow, skipper of the yacht Golden Rule, now under court injunction to Honolulu against sailing into the Pacific nuclear test area. The wire informed the President that the group would sail again into the Marshall Islands the following week.

At the close of the rally, the peace strollers returned to their respective homes along the East Coast, leaving behind a small group charged with the responsibility of informing legislators in banning nuclear tests.

known that they were "shocked and dismayed" that the President should ask Negroes for patience and forbearance.

A bit harsher on the President was Gov. Hartman, who accused the chief executive of failing to support the Supreme court decision calling for school integration, when he should be "emphasizing that the Supreme court decision should be obeyed."

At the other end of the question was Hugh G. Grant, the ex-diplomat, accusing not only Ike, but Nixon as well of "using their official position to promote a race mixing conspiracy designed by Communists to create fear, tension, strife and violence among the American people."

"HE SINGS FOR CHARITY AND HE NEEDS IT!"

CONFIDENTIAL FEATURES

Yes, We All Talk

By Marcus H. Boulware

STEPS IN PUTTING THE MOTION

In a club meeting, if a member wishes to propose a motion, he should keep in mind that the following steps are followed:

1. The member rises and addresses the chair.
2. The chair recognizes the member.
3. The member makes his motion.
4. Another member seconds the motion.
5. The chairman asks the motion to the house.
6. The members discuss the motion, giving pro and con arguments and opinions.
7. The chairman takes the vote on the motion.

The chairman announces the result of the vote.

It must be stated here that all motions do not require going through the eight steps. For example, the motion "rise to point of order" does not require a second, nor is it necessary to take a vote on the question.

A vote is not necessary, because the chairman rules on the point of order by saying, "The point of order is well taken, or the point of order is not well taken."

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

In the tricky business of trying to convince a balky husband, the all-important thing is The Approach. Whether you're trying to wheedle theatre tickets, a fur coat, or, as in my case, a new range, The Approach must be developed. The first step is in knowing which method will best apply to your particular brand of husband.

Take the case of the hoped-for range. Approach #1 (recommended in only a few cases where a favorite spouse likes to cook and is half-way convinced to begin with): "This old range is a wreck. Isn't it about time we got a new one?"

Approach #2 (for the man who takes pride in his technical know-how): "Will you explain something to me, dear? You're so clever about these things. Whirlpool has a new electric range with controls that pinpoint the right heat with a sliding light. Can you explain? And it has infinite heat on all four burners plus the pig-in-griddle. How can they possibly, etc., etc.?"

Approach #3 (promisely guaranteed for the gourmet). Some night after a dinner of soups and beans draw mouth-watering word pictures of a standing rib, roasted to perfection, duck, capons, barbecued ribs, shish-kabob, foods you never dared to try. Then deftly slip in the fact that the new electric range you have your eye on features an automatic rotisserie, an automatic bar-b-queer, even an automatic basket which combine to produce unheard-of delicacies.

Approach #4 (This is for die-hard who think a wood-burning stove is rather snappy. This method will take a little longer and may be hard on your reputation, but it's worth it). Over a period of time manage to burn a few favorite dishes, jump up and down so your cake will certainly fall, see it that not everything finishes cooking at the same time. When the complaints begin coming in, you have him trapped. Throw yourself on his mercy and mention the new range with the built-in food guide which dials the right time and temperature for 82 main dishes!

If none of the above works, try a combination of several. If he continues to be unmoved, either give up, study the approach problem more closely, or be philosophical and congratulate yourself on having a mate who cannot be swayed by fire or food!

"Patience Plea" Puts Eisenhower In Middle

CLARKSDALE, Miss. — (AP) — President Eisenhower found himself caught between two fires last week—all because of his "patience" plea to Negro leaders at the recent summit meeting in Washington.

On one side are New York's Gov. Averell Harriman and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and on the other, a former U. S. minister to Albania and Thailand.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, an 11-state organization of Negro ministers headed by the Rev. Martin Luther King, discussed the President's statement and let it be
