Press Luncheon Staged At A & T For Ambassador Daniel Chapman

By MARCUS H. BOULWARE

GREENSBORO — Freedom is not given, but it is won by battle or bought with a dear price was the keynote and set the tone at the A and T College press luncheon held in Murphy Hall's private dining room Monday at 12:30 p. m.

The honored guest was the Honorable Daniel A. Chapman, Ambassador from Ghana, who also delivered the 80th annual commencement address at the college.

Dr. Warmoth T. Gibbs, college president; Conrad Payson and Julian K. Morrison, Greensboro Daily News staff writers; Mrs. Daniel Chapman, and the Ambassador's secretary, John R. Larkins, consultant, N. C. Dept. of Public Welfare; Marcus H. Boulware, the Carolinian; President Gibbs' daughter, representatives from Negro newspapers in Winston-Salem and Greensboro were invited to the luncheon.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS, which included a brief biographical sketch of the Ambassador, were made by E. F. Corbett, director of public relations, A and T College. These served as springboards for questions which Mr. Chapman answered.

Ambassador Chapman began the group interviewed by briefing the newsmen on Ghana, its government and political system, and its plans for better water supply, good roads, number of schools and uses of natural resources.

When asked about Ghana's educational system and how it compares with America's philosophy, Ambassador Chapman began the group interviewed by briefing the newsmen on Ghana, its government and political system, and its plans for better water supply, good roads, number of schools and uses of natural resources.

However, students in the line waiting to register said King was carried bodily to the car before newsmen could talk to him.

At Oxford, Chancery Clerk J. B. Howell said he had drawn to a luncheon at the county sheriff's office who charged the ex-Alcorn professor must have been mentally unbalanced for trying to get into the university.

Thus, King's release awaits the report of psychiatrists. He will have to be examined by two physicians, said Howell, "and if they conclude his mind is a little off, they will send him to Whitefield state hospital for further psychiatric examination.

Earlier King had put an ad in the Gulfport Daily Herald asking five of the University of Mississippi alumni to back his application to enter the school. The white educational institutions require such endorsements. He reported that four had responded to his request, and that prospects for the fifth one doing so were good. He did not mention their names.

"We welcome help from any nation which offers it on a no strings-attached basis," added Ambassador Chapman.

WHEN ASKED IF ANY racial intolerance existed in Ghana and what restriction were imposed upon free speech, Mr. Chapman answered, "We can absolutely deny that our government restricts freedom of speech or the press, and the nation is free completely of racial segregation and intolerance.

The luncheon interview ended on a humorous note when participants engaged in small talk about such matters as Old Gold cigarettes and Mr. L. W. Harper, Vick's Salve, textile products and what-have-you.

Ambassador Chapman impressed this reporter as being witty, well-informed on world affairs, expert on matters relating to communism, tactful, eager and alert.

Propect Of Psychiatric Exams

JACKSON, Miss. (A. N. P.) — Though Prof. Glennon King managed to secure the assistance of four University of Mississippi alumni to vouch for him on his application to enter the all-white school, it came to naught last Thursday.

All the 37-year-old controversial former faculty member of Alcorn A&M college got for his hard work was a jail cell and the prospects of having to submit to a psychiatric examination.

According to King, interviewed in a cell on the top floor of highway patrol headquarters, he was standing in line waiting to register for summer school when he was invited into the administration building for a conference with Registrar Robert Ellis.

"Mr. Ellis told me it would be some time before they could process my application," King said. "Probably not until after the last day of registration."

Thinking the situation was hopeless, he started to leave the room, but was "forced out" another entrance and carried to a waiting car.

"I don't know what they are going to do," he said. "I would like to get one. I wouldn't bother it any more. I would leave it alone."

When he was taken out, he said he was told, "that if I came back on the campus, I would be arrested."

Tom Scarborough, public safety commissioner, said King was "escorted to a nearby car" when he refused to leave the building.

Molded salads are perfect for do-ahead meals . . . especially pretty for buffet suppers.

Rosalie Scott I like the creamy ones made with Carnation Evaporated Milk. They're always so delicious and easy to make . . . thanks to the better blending qualities of double-rich Carnation. Here is a favorite salad that goes well with cold cuts, roasts or chicken. Do serve it soon.

"DO AHEAD" VEGETABLE SALAD
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

- 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups well-drained cooked peas
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped celery
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated American cheese

Mix gelatine and water together in small bowl. Let stand until gelatine is softened. Set bowl in pan of hot water over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Slowly add Carnation to mayonnaise, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and dissolved gelatine. Fold in remaining ingredients. Blend well. Spoon into 1 1/2 quart mold. Chill until firm, about 2 hours. Unmold and serve on salad greens.

VACCINATE BEFORE TOO LATE!

ALUMINUM GARDEN CHAIRS — so light to move about — are also a breeze to clean with oval scouring pads. Give them a quick rub-down with a dampened soap-filled pad — see how shiny new they look!

GOOD PICK-UP for warm days spent digging in the garden . . . three heaping teaspoons of instant cocoa mix in a tall glass of milk. Then, to be different, add two drops of peppermint. Really refreshing.

GARDEN TOOLS need a quick going-over after use. An oval soap-filled pad helps remove rust and the tools will give you longer service.

TENDER ROOT VEGETABLES — new potatoes, carrots and beets — take naturally to the gentle cleaning of a plastic mesh ball, the handy helper to keep at the kitchen sink.

Gather summer eggs frequently and place them in the cooler or refrigerator right away.
