

Sinatra Discusses Race In A Magazine Article

CHICAGO — "You can't hate and live a wholesome life," says Frank Sinatra in an article appearing in the July issue of EBONY Magazine.

In a six page magazine article, "The Way I Look At Race," Sinatra tells EBONY's New York editor Allan Morrison, his feelings on the subject of race, and his belief that "segregation will be wiped out in our lifetime."

"Prejudice and good citizenship," says Sinatra, "just don't go together. Bigotry is un-American."

Sinatra, who is starring in "Kings Go Forth," a movie dealing with the subject of interracial love, has long been a champion of civil rights.

On the question of an entertainer expressing his views on national problems, Sinatra says: "I believe that an entertainer's function is to entertain. But he is also a responsible citizen with the same rights and obligations as the next man. When an entertainer shirks his duty as a citizen in a crisis he is as much to be criticized as anybody else."

Sinatra told EBONY editor Morrison of his friendships with Negroes, "My friendships were formed out of affection, mutual respect and a feeling of having something strong in common. These are eternal values that cannot be racially classified."

Sinatra calls bigotry a national disease that can be cured, and says, "I am extremely optimistic about the future of integration. More than many politicians, integration is inevitable and bigoted dimwits cannot prevent it."

Passport Ruling Proves Favorable To Robeson

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The decision of the Supreme Court last week which deprived the secretary of state of his authority to deny passports to American citizens who refused to sign non-Communist affidavits will assuredly have a favorable effect upon Paul Robeson's passport application. This fact was revealed by Joseph Forer, one of the attorneys in the Robeson passport case.

Robeson, a noted concert singer, was deprived of his passport in 1950 on the grounds that his travels abroad were not to the best interest of this country. When the State Department refused to renew his passport because he declined to sign affidavits denying present or recent membership in the Communist party, Robeson remarked that: "The right to travel is also an equal right." He further stated that the demand that he sign the affidavit was "an invasion of every constitutional liberty I have."

These sentiments were practically upheld by Justice Douglas' opinion when he stated that "the right to travel is a part of the liberty of which the citizen cannot be deprived without due process of law of the Fifth amendment. The majority opinion signed by five Justices further stated that "freedom of movement across frontiers in either direction, and inside frontiers as well was a part of our heritage." It said that travel abroad may be necessary for a livelihood and may be as close to the heart of the individual as the choice of what he eats, or wears, or reads.

In the case of Rockwell Kent, noted artist; Dr. Walter E. Biele, Los Angeles psychiatrist, and Dr. Weldon B. Dayton, cosmic ray scientist of Corning, N. Y. While Robeson's case was not included in the decision, it will no doubt be grouped in the same category since the issues are parallel.

In the 5-4 ruling the majority opinion declared that the Secretary of State do not have the authority which he exercised in these cases because "we are dealing here with citizens who have neither been accused of crime nor found guilty. They are being denied their freedom of movements solely because of their refusal to be subjected to inquiry into their beliefs and associations. . . ."

Douglas conceded that they "may or may not be Communists" but "they do not seek to escape the law nor to violate it."
