By "Skink" Browning

The DOUGLAS (Durham Rams owner) GORDONS of Durham are anticipating. It will be their first. MARTIN LUTHER KING (Montgomery boycott leader) picked up nineteenth honorary doctor degrees during the past year from colleges all over the country. He couldn't earn a doctor's degree from some of those colleges if he went there and studied the rest of his life "cause they ain't there." All honorary degrees from some colleges is like going through the motion of giving a guy fifty cents when you don't have one or something similar to a mock marriage. The admission should be at least twenty-five cents. . . Sgt. H. H. Bailey of Fort Bragg is thinking that way about Mrs. ALBERTA BRYANT WILKINS of Raleigh. She is a Horton High School faculty member in PITTSBORO. . . Pretty GLORIA JEAN SNIPES, the daughter of Mrs. Frances Tate Snipes of Raleigh is eyeing a sinking stage career. The teenager should be a hit. . . Fixtures and stock in the College Inn, near St. Augustine's College were sold at public auction Monday noon. A $300 refrigerator, a three-section sink and a $450 gas stove brought only $14. Three booths, with tables included, went for less than $12.

It cost one buyer more to cart his purchase away than he paid for it. . . CARL (Hillsdale Hi coach) Easterling, a former football great at Shaw University is summer-timing as tennis instructor for the Raleigh Recreation Department. He has developed a group of boys and girls into magnificent tennis performers—but was unable to develop his own son, he cares less than nothing for the game. HENRY PEACE, a railway mail clerk and CECIL FLAGG, a Raleigh mail carrier, were once high school principals. . . The great football and basketball coach A. S. "Jack" GAITHER, of Florida A&M College was a second stringer on the football team at Knoxville College and learned his basketball while coaching at Henderson Institute in Henderson, NC. . . CAL IRVIN, A&T College basketball coach, played second base for the ole Raleigh Grays before launching a teaching career in North Carolina. He is a New Jersey boy. . . Ditto for Len Hooker who operates a bar and grill in Newark, N. J. . . Sanford, NC product.

THE "HOLE" IS CLOSED
The famous "HOLE" will be missed in Raleigh as extensively as the Dodgers are missed in Brooklyn. Restaurant, Sportman and Athlete KENNY MASSENBURG closed the doors to the famous Paradise Cafe last week to take a long-needed rest. Behind him was left a bevy of happy, joyable and pleasant hours that will never fade from his memory. The "HOLE" was an adjacent dining room that was reserved for private parties and the like; but athletes, radio, screen, television and stage stars from all over the country took it for a "retreat" from the rest of the world, where a person could get anything from a college education to the "know how" on what it takes to become a star in any of the sports. In the hole, you could get the low-down on any worthwhile character in the country, and usually the information fell from the lips of one in the know. Many of the big events that now take place around the state are outgrowths from bull sessions in the hole.

Many fellows are now following careers whose course of study was setup in the hole. The hole showed no favors. If the high or the low messed up on his public or private post, the hole gave him h---. It was a place that you could find out anything you didn't know and it made no difference what avenue of life you were traveling. The "Hole" originated in the Old Paradise, when Kenny operated across the street when the fellows would use the main dining room to congregate in the backroom areas, from the kitchen. Two or three would sit down and twang would stand, in order to get into the jammed palace. When Kenny moved his fixtures to his new location, the fellows moved the same to his spacious private hideaway, and it was a part of the local athletes and wise guys daily routine to drop in on the "Hole" to find out what was happening before turning in for the night. Now, the Raleigh Institution is closed. So, I guess I'll buy the paper and go home.

THE CAPITOL CITY ACES
The greatest band in the state during the late twenties and early thirties was the CAPITOL CITY ACES, an aggregation of young musicians that rated along with the top bands in the country. Sportsman DAVE WEAVER, owned the outfit and had them traveling deluxe all over the state with two sets of uniforms purchased from the then famous "SMILING BILLY STEWARD" band of Sanford, Fla. When home, they always played to a packed house at the Masonic Temple. The vocalist, Leon Morrison, was hailed as a second Cab Calloway. At one time or another, such piano men as Red Cole, Loumel Morgan, Watson Fowler, John Paisley, Eddie Wilcox, and Charlie Harp tickled the ivories for the ACES. Ike Hunter, Herman "Humpy" Flintal, Jim Freeman, Tab Smith, E. McCaleb and Robert "Shiek" Jones composed the reed section. . . Tucker, Frank Flemmings, George Robinson, "Smitty" Smith, Jack Edwards and Frank Avant were brass experts and John Davis succeeded Charlie Dunn on the drums. Base Morgan and Jimmie Keck were the base fiddle players. . . Owner Dave Weaver says that the most versatile musician to join the band was the talented George Allen from High Point. Like any other band, musicians would come and go. Many of the great musicians around the country today belong to the alumni of the Capitol City Aces. Eddie Wilcox, a Berry O'Kelly high school product and a Method native, entered Fisk University and became one of the originals in the Jimmie Lunceford band. Loumel Morgan, a Shaw grad, organized his own combo in New York. Tab Smith did likewise. Flemmings wound up with Count Basie. Harp with Jimmie Cornman's band in Phila. Avant, a medic in Rocky Mount, Fowler, a dentist in Fayetteville, Paisley, a medic in North Wilkesboro, Keck, a business exec at Shaw, Hunter, a combo in Cleveland, Freeman, a Raleigh businessman, and Robinson with Lionel Hampton. Leon Morrison, became house vocalist in the Rainbow room in the Lincoln Hotel in New York City. Locations of a few of the old Aces are unknown and a few have left us forever.

Powell's Attorney Makes Plea To Discuss Tax Evasion Rap

NEW YORK (ANP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's attorney Tuesday asked that the income tax evasion charges against his client be dismissed because of "irregularities" described as "criminal in nature." Attorney Edward Bennett Williams charged that the indictment against Powell returned May 8 was backdated as the result of actions by former assistant U. S. Atty. Thomas A. Eolan and William F. Buckley Jr., editor of the National Review magazine. Eolan, who handled the case for the government until his resignation was accused by Powell's attorney of having supplied information to Buckley for "high inflammatory" articles that were mailed to members of the grand jury before the indictment was returned. Judge William B. Horlands returned decision in federal court on the motion made by Williams.

White Church Borrows $2,000 To Help Sepia Baptist Group

GREENVILLE, S. C. (ANP)—Members of the white Clear Springs Baptist Church secured a loan of $2,000 to help a fellow Baptist congregation recently. The fellow congregation is Negro. When members of the New Pilgrim (Negro) began work on a new church building, they ran into money difficulties. Clear Springs members learned of this, borrowed $2,000 and gave it to the Negro congregation. In addition, the white congregation put in many hours of work on the project. The Rev. W. P. Williams, Greenville, S. C., president of the National Dental Association's 45th Annual Convention, announces that Dr. Harold D. West, president of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee will address the dentists at their public meeting on August 4th.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

Probably never has there been such a concerted attempt to use public funds to destroy small business as that made recently in Minnesota. . . In that state, one Byron G. Allen, commissioner of agriculture, sent out a letter with a credit card enclosed to over 200,000 teachers, educators and state employees urging them to use the enclosed cards to patronize some 83 cooperative gasoline stations. . . In his letter, Commissioner Allen said: "Under the basic law creating our Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Food, we are charged with aiding, abetting and promoting the cooperative movement." . . . As a matter of fact, the state official took the stand that he has a sworn duty to promote cooperative business. . . Thus, a public official, paid by taxes, paid in part by independent gasoline station operators, uses his office to promote the ruin of those independent operators. . . This could very well be called economic cannibalism. . . As is well known, cooperatives enjoy huge tax advantages over their independent competitors due to the law that was set up to meet special circumstances. . . When federal and state laws were set up for cooperatives, it was the intent to help farmers through the vote of farm commodity speculators who bid up and down prices to suit their profits. By enabling farmers to enter into

Harris, New Pilgrim pastor, said, "When the pastor of Clear Springs came to help us, I thought he had come to tell us what to do, but he outwitted everybody." The Negroes raised $1,000 and borrowed $1,000 to match the gift. Donated labor has been estimated at $2,000. The building is valued at $18,452. A special service was held in the newly completed church with the Rev. L. W. Pace, pastor of Clear Springs, the deacons and their wives as special guests.
