DELAY NCC BOYCOTT

Rapist Strikes Twice

Students At Durham Vote For Boycott

DURHAM — Negro students at North Carolina College here voted at a mass meeting Monday night to boycott Durham merchants for what they termed "prejudicial treatment."

This meeting of some 400 students was in protest to the college's omission from welcoming activities extended to the students of Duke University (white) by the Merchants Association of the city.

Jerome Dudley of Asheville, president of the NCC Student Government Association, who called the meeting, said "we hope to work out a program that will show unmistakably that we resent being ignored in a community in which we spend nine months of the year."

"Our 1,800 students deserve at least a word of welcome," Dudley concluded.

A joint student-faculty committee was formed Tuesday at Wilson Loses Appeal; May Die In Oct.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. Jimmy Wilson lost a second appeal Thursday to the Alabama Supreme Court which took pains to emphasize that the condemned man was convicted of robbery and not the mere theft of $1.95.

The 55-year-old illiterate hardware merchant's petition for a re-hearing was turned down by the state's highest court which had upheld the death sentence last June 12. His once-postponed execution was set for October 24.

Wilson was convicted of robbing an 82-year-old white woman of $1.95 at her Marion, Ala. home, July 27, 1957. The widow told the jury at the trial that Wilson also choked her, tried to rape her and threatened to kill her.

In Alabama robbery is a capital offense, punishable by death in the electric chair. Wilson was not indicted for attempted rape, which carries a maximum prison sentence of 20 years.

The request for a re-hearing, barring an altogether new appeal, was Wilson's final chance to get a reversal of his conviction from the state's highest tribunal. But his life

Tank And Tear Gas Rout Family Of Ten; Three Are Believed Insane

BLADENBORO — Three members of a Negro family were held for mental tests Monday after the father, who held his eight children as hostages, surrendered to tank-protection sheriff's deputies.

The man, Sam Rhodes, had barricaded himself and his family in his rural frame house and threatened to "shoot everybody and put 'em in a pile" before leaving the house. He also threatened to kill any officer who approached him.

Sheriff John B. Allen said his men went to the house to serve an order requiring mental tests for Rhodes and his wife, Vinita. "We tried for a long time to get him to Allen. 'We could have killed him but we didn't want to do that.'"

The officers tried to shoot tear gas into the house, but the distance, out of range of Rhodes' shotgun, was too great for ac-

From information received from the police of Dunn, McLamb is alleged to have picked up both of the girls in Dunn

Walter Young Attacked By The Creeper

BY CHARLES R. JONES

Pvt. Walter Young, 32, a former Raleigh police officer, now employed by Precinct Two of the Washington, D. C. Police Force, is in "critical" condition at the Washington Hospital Center after being shot in the abdomen by an ex-convict, Sammie "The Creeper" Taylor, whom he was attempting to arrest as a vagrant, while working the 12 midnight to 8 a.m. shift Monday.

In a telephone interview with Lt. John E. Kinney, acting captain of the precinct, Wednesday, this reporter was informed that Pvt. Young was shot once at 7 a.m. while making a routine check of the Service Repair Shop in the rear of Washington's Embassy Dairy, 1626 First Street, N.W.

The bullet entered Young's abdomen, passed through his stomach, liver and kidneys and emerged through his back.

Taylor was charged with assault on a policeman with intent to kill. Municipal Judge George D. Neilson ordered him held for grand jury under a $75,000 bond. He has a lengthy police record here.

Pvt. Young spotted Taylor, 34, of 87 S. Street, N.W., sitting on a box in front of the repair shop. Young asked Taylor if he worked there and when Taylor replied "no," Pvt. Young asked him to move on.

Taylor, instead, walked into the shop. Young followed him.

FIRE FROM JOB AT SCHOOL — Mrs. Elsie O. Hundley, 42, is shown in the kitchen of her home at Alexandria, Va., last week after she was fired from her job as a cook in the Lyles Church School by the city school administration. Officials said she was dismissed because she was among the parents of 14 Negroes suing school officials who refused to admit the children to white schools. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Little Rock Schools Are Still Empty

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Governor Orval E. Faubus and officials of the federal government maneuvered secretly in Little Rock Monday and the city's four high schools, closed by the struggle over "mixing," were empty of students, deserted by spectators.

There were no disorders on what was to have been the opening day of the fall term.

Police patrol cars cruised around Central High School, scene of the riots in the fall of 1957, in the morning. But they only found some 50 photographers and reporters, and a few curious bystanders, watching the building quietly.

Central High School was scheduled to open September 15, but following an order by the U. S. Supreme Court that the school re-admit its seven Negro students to classes, Governor Faubus, empowered by a recent law by Arkansas' legislators, closed the three white high schools here and the one Negro high school.

Faubus told a news conference: "It is possible that the schools will stay closed until October 7, Ark. that time voters in the area are expected to voice their opinion on the closing of the city's schools."

Even less communicative after a long conference in the chambers of U. S. District Judge John E. Miller were federal officials.

"I didn't present anything to him in this integration matter," said an assistant U. S. district attorney, Malcolm Wilkey.

ASSUMES BANK DUTIES — J. J. Sansom of Winston-Salem, who was recently appointed vice-president and manager of the Raleigh branch of the Mechanics and Farmers Bank, assumed his duties on September 15. Mr. Sansom, who formerly managed the Third Street branch of the Wachovia Bank in the "Twin City" succeeds J. E. Strickland, who was promoted to senior vice-president. Mr. Sansom was at one time connected with the law faculty of North Carolina College at Durham.

Rev. King Makes Plans For Appeal Of Ga. Fine

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — (AP) — The 37-year-old Baptist minister and leader in the 1956 Negro boycott of segregated city buses, denied the publicity accusation. At that time King chose instead a 14-day jail term.

King said Monday "I understand that I can appeal on legal grounds even though my fine has been paid."

Front Royal, County Clerics Protest Closing Of School

FRONT ROYAL, Va. — The Front Royal-Warren County Ministerial Ass'n has issued a statement, saying Warren County should be allowed to solve its public school problems "without being required to conform to a state policy which ignores local conditions."

Warren County High School at Front Royal, the county's only secondary school, has been shut down by a state law that closes any integrated school. The school is under a federal court desegregation order.

The ministers called for the school to be kept open under county control "even if some changes in pupil assignment are necessary."

The statement said the issue was not whether the people of the rural Shenandoah Valley County agree with the desegregation order but rather how to keep Warren County High open.

The statement was prepared before Gov. J. Lindsay Almond issued an order Friday closing the

Dunn Riders Believed Dead Man "Drunk"

DUNN — Four Negroes told police Monday that a companion they thought was "dead drunk" was dead.

The men said they had been riding around for four hours with John McDouglad, 39, of Broadway, in the rear seat of the car. They said they thought he had "passed out" from liquor.

However, when he couldn't be revived, they took him to a doctor who pronounced McDouglad dead. Coroner R. L. Pate, Sr. had ordered an autopsy.

The man in the car with the dead man were David Kelly, Dewey Campbell and Charles Les Edward McDuffie.

Student Absent

COLUMBIA, S. C. — A Hungarian revolt refugee who was the only white student at the Negro Allen University here has failed to return for classes this semester.

Andre Toth, who held an art scholarship at the college, was not present Monday at the educational church-supported college.

It was reported that Toth planned to attend a college in New York state this year.

Three Blonde Youths Held For Murder

TARBORO — Three escapees from a reformatory, all white teenagers, described as "right tough boys," were charged with first degree murder Sunday in connection with the shotgun slaying of a man near Rocky Mount.

All are slated to face a preliminary hearing Wednesday or Thursday of this week before a magistrate at Tarboro.

The youths, Wayne Jenkins, 15, of Gastonia; Willie Ingram, 16, of Lenoir; and James Goodman, 14, of Concord, were lodged in the Edgecombe County Jail here. They were caught Saturday after an all-night manhunt in the area of Rocky Mount.

Edgecombe County Sheriff Tom I. Barden said Jenkins admitted firing the blast that killed 26-year-old Negro Clyde Farmer, who reportedly came upon the youths while they were in the process of trying to steal a pickup truck from in front of Farmer's home.

This account of the shooting was given by Barden after he pieced together the youths' statements.

The escapees were going up to the house and the dead man's father, Floyd Farmer, saw them. They made him halt, holding a shotgun on him and made him walk toward the house. They told him they were going to take the truck.

BLACK AND WHITE HARMONY — The game itself is not important, but the lesson this picture tells is very important—that Negro and white can live together—like these two children at Saxe-Grove School in the North Hill section of London, England. While strife is being stirred up by some in the area these youngsters have fun out of life. (UPI PHOTO).
