LESSON XI — September 21
The subject for this week's lesson is "JUSTICE FOR THE NEEDY AND NEGLECTED" as found in Deuteronomy 15:7-11; 24:19-21; Isaiah 58:4-12; Matthew 9:35-36; Luke 4:14-22; Hebrews 13:1-3; I John 3:11-24.

Memory Verse: Whoso hath the world's good, and beholdeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how doth the love of God abide in him? I John 3:17.

New Testament day, beggars gathered around the gates of the temple, not around the entrance of a literary academy or school of philosophy.

This lesson emphasizes to helpless and lonely men that God extends compassion to them. God is one who will accept any man regardless of his state in life if he would allow the physician to heal him, if he will accept the Grace of God.

LESSON SETTING
Time — The addresses from Deuteronomy were given somewhere near 1400 B. C. This particular prophecy of Isaiah was uttered about 700 B. C. The words of Christ recorded in Matthew 9 were spoken in the winter of A. D. 29, and those taken from Luke's Gospel in April A. D. 28. The First Epistle of John was written about A. D. 96.

Place — Isaiah ministered in Jerusalem. The episode from Matthew's Gospel occurred in Galilee and that from Luke's Gospel, in Nazareth.

DR. G. F. MADKINS

LESSON PLAN
I. Principle of generosity to the poor. — Deut. 15:7-11; 24:19-21.
II. Kindness to the poor elicits the favor of God. — Isaiah 58:4-12.
III. The compassion of Christ for the Multitude. — Matthew 9:35, 36; Luke 4:14-22.
IV. Generosity in the teaching of the early church. — Hebrews 13:1-3; I John 3:11-24.

DISCUSSION
One is at once impressed with the humanitarian nature of the Hebrew laws. They reflect the mercy of God for the poor, the suffering, and the unfortunate. The Hebrews were taught to share with their unfortunate brothers, and in fact it was their duty to help them.

God teaches us that religious men should be generous. In other words, desolate men, lonely, helpless and broken in our great cities find immediate help in those institutions established by the church—rescue missions, volunteers of America, the Salvation Army. In the
