

Cleric Brandishes Shotgun To Thwart White Hoodlums

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Rev. Dr. Charles H. Mason, pastor of Bishop C. H. Mason, founder and present head of the Churches of God in Christ, threatened by whites to present a home in an all-white neighborhood, Sunday brandished a shotgun to deter them. The Rev. Mason, who lives in the exclusive Glenview area, was seen Sunday with a shotgun in his hand. He appeared on the porch with the gun just as dozen white youths were entering the weekly mark in the stone exterior of the house. He said they were caused by bullets fired at his house during a three-week period. Rev. Mason told the frustrated whites, "I will not be driven from my home by violence. If I choose to move out, it will be of my own free will." He bought his home two years ago. Mrs. Alice G. Rosebrough, who also lives on Glenview, a member of a group formed to drive the Negroes out of the area, said her group would continue to meet each Sunday through all kinds of weather until all Negroes move out of this community. Negroes own three homes on Glenview, and two white home owners have announced they would sell their homes to Negroes.

Wake Scout Leaders Plan Big Round-Up

The Wake Division Scout organization and Extension Committee met last week to make plans for the Fall Round-Up in Wake County. D. H. Keck, chairman, announced. The committee set a goal of 300 new scouts and 100 new Leaders for the fall program. The group is planning a big winter roast and football game on October 11th to climax the big effort. Every unit leader who recruits 6 or more new scouts will receive a fountain pen and unit round-up banner. Each scout that recruits another youth will receive a "round-up patch." These awards will be presented on October 11th in Clavis Park, prior to the football game.

Gets Prison Term For His Birthday

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Joseph Riley was in court on his 27th birthday last week, but it was not a happy occasion for him. His birthday present was a 1-to-20-year term in the Ohio Penitentiary. He was convicted of stealing $525 last month from a service plaza on the Ohio Turnpike and violating his probation on a burglary charge. Riley asked Common Pleas Judge Harvey G. Straub for leniency, but the judge said: "I wish you a happy birthday, but you'll have to go to the penitentiary."

Witchweed Infestation Is Climbing

Witchweed has spread to 422 additional farms in North Carolina since November 1957. J. W. Kelly II, state supervisor of the Plant Pest Control Division of USDA, reports that 2,185 Tar Heel farms are now infested with the dread parasite. "Reports of new infestations are still coming in every day," Kelly stated. "While July, August and September are considered the best months for locating witchweed, reports will continue until frost." Robeson County continues to be the geographical center of the infestation. That county now has 1,002 infested farms and according to Kelly the number is "climbing fast." On Aug. 28 the number of farms affected in other counties were: Bladen, 325; Columbus, 2598; Cumberland, 192; Sampson, 132; Hoke, 95; Scotland, 27; Harnett, 17; Duplin, 15; Pender 10; and Richmond, 1. Kelly did have one word of encouragement: witchweed has not been reported in any new counties this year. In addition to the North Carolina infestation, six South Carolina Counties are also affected. Kelly reports infestation in these counties is also rising, but not as fast as in North Carolina. Witchweed was not discovered in North Carolina until the summer of 1936. It is a native of India and South Africa, and just now it got
