DEFENDS FOUR IN 'BOOZE' CASE HERE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) Pery was unable to definitely prove that the contents of a pitcher which he testified that he thought was full of whiskey, actually contained an alcoholic beverage.

Salizson seeking to tear down Pery's testimony, asked him whether he tasted the contents of the pitcher. Pery replied "no." He was then asked by the attorney whether he was a chemist, and he again answered in the negative. At this time the lawyer informed the court that the prosecution "doesn't have a leg to stand on" if this officer can't prove the pitcher contained whiskey.

The officer said he also entered the club on October 19, and found several patrons sitting around "drinking what appeared to be whiskey." This time, also he was unable to prove that whiskey was definitely in the cups on the table.

It was brought out in Pery's testimony that "one of his many visits to the Press Club, Miss Blundhew, who serves as a waitress, attempted to pour out something that looked like whiskey." As in his other attempts to establish definitely that there was whiskey in the business for the purpose of sale, Pery was again thwarted by Attorney Selizson.

The officer stated that Ly-tell had informed him that the pitcher in question contained alcohol, mixed with ammonia. Since the policeman failed to

of the outstanding musical artists of the day. Musical critics well as in countries on the European continent highly acclaim the "richness of her rare dramatic voice and style."

Previous to her debut with the American Metropolitan Opera, the young, Brooklyn-born soprano, appeared in European opera and at concert halls in Italy, France, and in several communities of North and South America as Belgium. Very recent European appearances have included festivals of Aix-en-Provence, Constance, Baden-Baden, Venice, and Ostend, Belgium. In June of 1953, she appeared on the British Broadcast Television program "Musie For You" and won such high rating that she was recalled for later performances in late summer programs.

Other overseas engagements include the world-premier presentation with the Baden-Baden Radio Orchestra at the famous Donaueschingen festival, the Berlin Philharmonic, the Verdi Requiem in Stuttgart, as well as opera in France and Italy throughout the annual concert seasons.

Miss Davy was the 1951-52 recipient of the Marion Anderson award through which she received training at the Julliard School of Music in New York City. Through awards from the National Music League, the artist was enabled to undertake study for Metropolitan opera mastery and other concert work abroad. The young and colorful artist is a native of Brooklyn, New York.

The Elizabeth City State Teachers College appearance is especially planned as a cultural contribution and means of influencing other youthful aspirants for similar artistic expression. "It is anticipated that the public in the community of Elizabeth City and neighboring communities will be delightfully benefited by attending this program." Miss Edna L. Davis is chairman of the College Lyceum Committee.

Other special features scheduled for the college cultural program this year include James Hall, bass, to be presented by the Graduate Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority on Friday, November 14, at 8:15 p. m. The Barter Theatre of Virginia on February 17, 1959 and the North Carolina Little Symphony in March.

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) three diocesan high schools which had been educating white pupils to integrate. While a handful of parents withdrew their children from the schools, most of them consented when the question was presented to them on the basis of justice and morality.

When asked what they thought contributed most to the success of integration at the Catholic Cathedral Latin High School, administrative officials said that the absence of publicity was the most influential.

"There was no commotion or confusion," said one administrator, "it simply happened."

Barbara, an average student, attends the morning Mass with her classmates in the cafeteria, and participates in such activities as the student council of which she is vice-president.

"My religion has given me a more tolerant attitude toward whites in the community who occasionally discriminate against me," says Barbara.

Exhibiting an extroverted outgoing life, Barbara sews after school, works in a theater on week ends, and often babysits. She has taken lessons in voice and the piano, and frequently she plays for her family's enjoyment.

FEW INTEGRATED

Only the schools in Charlotte, Greensboro, and Winston-Salem, North Carolina are integrated in the state. There are no desegregated schools in Raleigh although Joseph H. Hunt, Jr., through his efforts brought suit against the Raleigh School Board for denying him reassignment to the all-white Needham-Broughton High School near the Oberlin area.

Since resistance to integration dies slowly in the Deep South, the Catholic School has not proceeded with its program of desegregation as fast as might have been possible. The alternative was to proceed cautiously.

The Catholic Church feels that its leadership in North Carolina is outstanding because Catholics are a small minority with 10 per cent of the membership being Negroes while at the same time colored pupils make up 23 per cent of the State's population.

Cathedral Latin High School is conducted by the Dominican Sisters who have curtailed dances because of the stigma of unfavorable publicity. For obvious reasons, some athletic games with other white schools have been cancelled.

Although the Catholic school integration is frowned upon by segregationists, "It has won the acclaim of the Church."

Joye, acting as spokesman, asked that the youth march statement be delivered to the president. He said he and the others would wait half an hour for a reply. The statement was delivered to the office of Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerly.

Joye said the youth march leaders had attempted for several days to arrange an appointment with the President but had failed.

"We express our deep regret at the reception that we have received," Joye said.

Speakers at a rally at the Lincoln Memorial included Lillian Smith, a white author, and Mrs. Daisy Bates, president of the Arkansas branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A spokesman said the primary purpose of the march was to mobilize public opinion for integration.

ALMOND, TWO OTHERS ARE BEING SUED

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) The suit was filed in the county court by Judge Walter E. Hoffman, who handed the original desegregation order against Norfolk and supplemented it this summer. Hoffman gave no indication when he would hear the motion.

The six Norfolk schools, all the city's white junior and senior high schools, have been closed since Sept. 20 when a federal court injunction order became final. The state law then padlocked the six buildings for an indefinite period. One public school in Warren County and two in Charlottesville also are closed under state "massive re-

GETS FULL SCHOLARSHIP — Calvin B. Dixon, Littleton, a major in architectural engineering at A&T College, was last week awarded a full, all-expense scholarship given annually by Burlington Industries, a national textile manufacturer. One of two students under the grants, Dixon won the award by turning in the highest average during the freshman and sophomore years of engineering study. He is also pursuing study under the Air Force ROTC program and expects to be commissioned into the Air Force following graduation.

GETS APPOINTMENT — Miss Bernice Shoffner, Greensboro, a 1957 graduate in Institutional Management at A&T College, has recently been appointed as therapeutic dietitian at the U. S. City" contended through counsel that they are being barred from the James Walker Memorial Hospital solely because of their race.

Their lawyer told the appellate court that the physicians are entitled to courtesy staff privileges because the hospital is located on land owned by the City of Wilmington and derives some of its revenue from payments from public funds for indigent patients.

Lawyers for the hospital argued the hospital is not a public institution, but is operated by a private board of managers. Federal Judge Don Gilliam had dismissed the case last June at Wilmington after ruling the hospital was not a public institution.

Harlem Parents Drop Tutoring Session, Act To Sue The City

NEW YORK — (AP) — The parents of nine Negro children Wednesday abandoned private tutoring classes and took the first step toward suing the city for $1,000,000.

"They have been keeping their children out of school in a dispute over segregation."

In an order to force city officials to charge the parents with neglect, a lawyer for the group said "it seems as if the board (of education) has tried to obliterate the parents' claim by forgetting that these children are alive, we are trying to force their hand," he said.

The parents refused to send the nine to their assigned schools in Harlem, which are predominantly Negro. They asked the board to transfer the children to integrated schools outside the area, which they contend, provide better educational opportunities.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The basketball team of the U. S. Air Force will be the United States representative in the World's Championships at Santiago, Chile, between January 16 and 31. This announcement was made recently by G. Russell Lyons, Chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union Basketball Committee, upon receipt of word that General Emmet O'Donnell has authorized Colonel Ralph L. Stevenson to accept the invitation of the AAU on behalf of the U. S. Air Force to fill this important assignment.

The Air Force team includes such stars as:

Bob Jeannotard, who starred as a member of the U.S.A. team to Russia last April and in the Olympic Games of 1956; Dick Welsh, formerly University of Southern California and 1957 All-America guard; George Linn, ex-Phillips 66 ward and one-time Alabama star; Jim Coshaw and Ron Olsen who starred for the Buhan Bakers; Jerry Vayda, ex-Denver-Chicago Truckers; Lester Hohl and Dick White alternate guards on the USA team to Russia this year. # Student Installation Held At Fayetteville College

FAYETTEVILLE—The traditional installation services sponsored by the campus organizations of the Fayetteville State Teachers College was held at the Seabrook Auditorium, with President Rudolph Jones delivering the main address and installing the officers of the Student Council.

Dr. Jones warned the students that merely seeking office was not sufficient, but that they should be always conscious of the great responsibility of serving as student leaders.

A candle-light ceremony followed the president's address, at which time James Smith, president of the Council read the charge and the duties of the officers. Some thirty social and other organizations participated in the service.

Officers elected were: James Smith, president; Harold Fields, vice-president; Minnie Hines, secretary; Dolores Burton, assistant secretary; Calvin McDonald, treasurer; Thomas Smalls, judge; Christine Williams, executive secretary and Roosevelt Ellis, business manager.

and to lead their children into "such Christian attitudes as will prevent prejudice and promote mutual trust."

It should be noted that in order to become an official document the statement of the House of Bishops must be accepted by the House of Deputies composed of 850 clerical and lay delegates.

Later, the Right Rev. Arthur C. Liebenberg, Bishop of Missouri, was elected presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

During his first press conference after being elected, Bishop Liebenberg indicated that the church "needs to be concerned with integration."

Episcopalians Urge Fight Against Bias

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP) — The House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church has called upon religious and civic groups to reject the "easy standards of local expediency" in matters of racial discrimination.

The leaders urged to provide creative and positive guidance so that all races might enjoy without discrimination and without separation all opportunities of church and civic life.

In the latter category the bishops included education, housing, employment, and public accommodations.

Episcopal families are particularly urged to foster a "Christian understanding of race relations."

South American Body Opposes U. S. Bigots

CIUDAD Trujillo—A group of business and civic officials in this Dominican Republic formed the Dominican-African Cultural Association for the express purpose of fighting racial and religious prejudices in the United States after reading of the riots in Little Rock, Arkansas, bombing of Jewish temples in Atlanta and other troubled areas in America's southland.

With Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, the honorary president of the new association, its president, Dr. Rogelio Lamarca de Soto, said that they would set up branches of the group in America and also England where recent riots against West Indian citizens have made headline news. Pointing out that the Dominican Association isn't limited to the defense of only one race in particular, Dr. Soto said:

"We will come to the defense of all free men in all parts of the earth, regardless of language, race or religion wherever they are victims of hatred and unjustified discriminations."

Stressing the liberal policies of Trujillo in this nation that is opposed to any type of discrimination, Dr. Soto said that since General Trujillo came to power, the country has opened the doors of the Republic to all displaced Spaniards, offered hospitality and new opportunities to Jewish and Japanese emigrants.

Aggie Homecoming Set For Oct. 31-Nov. 2

GREENSBORO — The annual Homecoming, set for A&T College on the weekend, October 31-November 2, is expected to draw the largest turnout of returning visitors and returning alumni in the long history of the event.

This is the firm conviction of Jimmie I. Barber, in charge of arrangements. He said this week that the college is being literally swamped with requests for reservations and information.

Three items stand out as the reasons for the unusual interest Barber said. The main event is the football game between the A&T College Aggies, reportedly one of the strongest aggregations fielded by the college in recent years, and the Morgan State College Bears. The game is set for Saturday, November 1 at 2:00 P. M.

Other popular events are reunions for the classes of 1928, 1933 and 1948 and the annual Homecoming Ball, featuring the music of Illinois Jaquet and his orchestra on Saturday evening in the Charles Moore Gymnasium.

The program also calls for a giant pep rally and bon fire on Friday evening, the annual meeting of the A&T College Aggie's Varsity Club on Friday night.

The detailed Saturday program lists: Alumni Coffee Hour, 10:00 A. M., Homecoming Parade, 11:00 A. M., reunion class dinners, 5:30 P. M., and ball beginning at 8:00 P. M.

The activities draw to a close following the annual alumni worship service set for Harrison Auditorium on Sunday beginning at 11:00 A. M.
