RALEIGH—Police this week are investigating two brick-throwing incidents in which cars were severely broken. Ormand W. Fisher of 73 New Road reported to police that he was driving in the 300 block of South Bloodworth Street about 3:30 a. m. when three young Negroes threw bricks and rocks at his car. One brick struck and shattered his rear window, he reported to officers. Williams E. Curl of Campbell College reported that he found the rear window of his auto smashed with a brick found in West Street near Hillsboro about 6:30 a. m. Saturday.

KASPER SETS APPEAL OF JAIL TERM

The professional agitator would not tell newsmen where he would go or what he would be doing pending the appeal. "Political activity" was given by a friend of Kasper's as the thing which would occupy them.

While the jury was out, Kasper said he still intended to make a public speech in Memphis although he has been threatened with jail if he shows up there.

His conviction came after a week-long trial at which witnesses testified that Kasper said "Neshville would run in the streets" if Neshville's schools were integrated.

The defense counsel, however, contended that Kasper sought to maintain segregation only by peaceful means.

The theater manager was roughed up by the mob which protested the showing of the movie and also beat up several newsmen at the scene.

PARENTS ARE QUESTIONED ON NAACP SUITS

but the case is before the U.S. Supreme Court for review.

The state NAACP's executive secretary, W. Lester Banks, was to produce financial records of the organization, including vouchers of payment to attorneys and other expenses.

Both Banks and Oliver W. Hill of Richmond, an attorney for the NAACP, denied Monday they had become parties to any of the suits through other than proper channels.

Banks testified he had never specifically urged Negroes to file racial integration suits and only urged Negroes to fight for their constitutional rights.

He said the NAACP retained the attorneys involved only after the integration suits were instituted locally or only after counsel had been requested by plaintiffs who wished to file suit.

Hill said he was retained for a suit in Charlottesville by Negro parents working through their local NAACP branch and that stimulus for the suit did not come from the central NAACP office in Richmond.

ing to other inmates in his cell-block. He was verbally abusive to prison officials and assaulted Fred B. Briggs, captain of the guards, when he tried to transfer Bass from his regular cell to a cell removed from other inmates," Bailey said.

"In the ensuing struggle, Captain Briggs received two fractured ribs which made it necessary for him to remain away from duty for a period of seven days and under a doctor's care for three weeks," Bailey said.

Bass did suffer lacerations which Bailey said were treated immediately in the prison hospital. Later examinations showed Bass "in excellent physical condition," Bailey said.

Bass, convicted rapist, is under a death sentence. He was sentenced to death for raping Mrs. Sarah K. Mahler, a white woman, in a Raleigh office building last summer.

DEATHS LEAVE BLADEN COUNTY FAMILY STUNNED

inquest was held. He further stated that the sum of $892.09, in cash, was found in the pocket of the dead man, and turned over to the family.

The coroner told the CAROLINIAN that he empaneled a jury and an inquest was held on the scene. The jury reached a verdict that Washington died as the result of a blast from a gun held in the hands of Ed Fields, white farmer, who lived in the same community and had known Washington for a number of years.

According to further information given by the coroner, it was revealed that Fields was a member of a deer hunting party that was composed of four other white men and a Negro, Teddie McDonald. The dogs are said to have jumped a deer and Washington came running through the brush between the dogs and the deer. Fields aimed and fired. Washington fell mortally wounded. The sheriff spoke very highly of Washington and styled his death as one of the most lamented that ever occurred in the county. He said that he was so overcome he felt the wife of the dead man should not be subjected to the torture of attending the inquest and even though it was being held near the home, he suggested that she be escorted back home and this was done.

Members of the family gave the CAROLINIAN a little different version of the shooting, but were not able to substantiate rumors that have been floating around the county since the shooting. The members of the household were not able to understand why Teddie McDonald did not stop by and tell them that Arnie had been shot when he went to get the tractor-trailer to bring the body to the highway.

They also were not pleased over the fact that neither the sheriff nor Fields came to see them until Saturday afternoon. They did relate how Fields, accompanied by the sheriff, came to the house and said that he wanted to talk with them. It was then that John Hazel Washington began to show his resentment and it is alleged, was given some impassioned remarks by the sheriff. The sheriff, however, says that when he and Fields got to the house that members of the household became so furious that he decided that he would leave because he did not want any trouble. On the other hand members of the household are reported to have only asked questions about the shooting.

John Hazel, the son, who had been living in Newark, N. J., is reported to have fed the questions. It is reported that he was not satisfied and vowed to institute further investigation. He is said to have gone back to Newark to raise some money to finance an investigation. He was further reported that he was held up and killed in the New Jersey town.

Rumors have flown thick and fast but there has been no new evidence that the Bladen County shooting was anything but an accident. The coroner told the CAROLINIAN that if any new evidence was uncovered that he would reopen the case.

The Washington family has lived on the farm for more than twenty years and according to Mrs. Gilbert Bouse Jones, owner, have built an enviable reputation. Mrs. Jones was contacted in her Laurinburg home, where she now lives. Aside from his wife, he left four daughters and two sons.

ATTY. GEN. SEEKS TO HALT SUITS

mediately filed a memorandum with the court asking that Harrison's request be denied on grounds that the hearing was being done by 10,000 Norfolk white students whose public schools were closed to avoid integration.

The suit filed is scheduled for hearing Nov. 19 before the three-judge court.

Harrison said the Virginia Supreme Court was scheduled to hear a state-instigated test case of the state's "massive resistance" laws Nov. 21 and expected to give its decision shortly after that. He said it was customary for federal courts to withhold action on matters also pending in state courts.

The suit in the State Supreme Court was filed by Harrison against state comptroller Sidney C. Day, apparently in an effort to ward off the expected suit later filed by the Norfolk white parents.

Harrison's motion also said more time was needed for the state to prepare its case.

The suit filed by the white parents names Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, Harrison and Norfolk school officials as defendants and challenges the constitutionality of state laws which automatically close public schools when Negroes and whites are enrolled in the same school.

Shriners Present Philippa Schuyler In Concert At Raleigh November 20

Miss Schuyler, who is appearing under the auspices of the Kabala Temple No. 177 in its Shrine Charity and United Negro College Fund Benefit. She is yet in her twenties, but has already built an excellent career which is continuing to expand and grow in more resplendent fashion than any other concert artist.

At the age of four Miss Schuyler began the award winning that has marked her progress by receiving the gold medal from the City of New York and another from The National Piano Teachers Guild. A short time later she was the soloist for the Young People's Philharmonic Carnegie Hall concerts. She also received their gold medal award.

Two AME Zion Bishops Blast Gov. Timmerman

COLUMBIA S. C.—Two bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church, who closed conferences in the state last week, blasted Governor Timmerman and others, whom they termed as hate-mongers, for the part they have played in failing to integrate the schools of the commonwealth.

At Van Wyck, Bishop R. L. Jones told the members of the Pee Dee Conference, along with a crowd that packed White Oak A. M. E. Zion Church, Sunday, that every Negro in the state should not be content until every vestige of second-class citizenship had been removed. He warned them that it should not be done in a spirit of hate, but should be done with prayerful thinking and a humble heart.

The prelate told the audience that when they are asked about sending their children to so-called white schools that they should answer by saying, "I don't know what you mean by white schools, but I intend to send my child to the nearest school to my home." He also admonished them that the democratic way of life was a two-way street and that if they wanted first-class citizenship they would have to accept the responsibilities that go with that station in life.

He told them that first-class citizenship meant giving a full day's work for a full day's pay and saving all of the obligations that a first-class citizen was supposed to pay. He further said it meant that they should live decent lives and obey the laws as set out by the nation and the state. He called upon them to save their money, clean up their homes and bodies and to rear their children in the fear of the Lord and to respect the rights of others.

Bishop Herbert Bell Shaw, presiding over the Palmetto Conference, which was held in Wainsboro, told an overflowing crowd that he had just returned from a trip around the world and that both democracy and Christianity were on trial as to the way they were being followed in parts

All purchase slips should be submitted in the name of the church; and should be in the office of the CAROLINIAN the Monday following close of Bonus period.

It should a church of 200 or more members receive 1st Bonus Money after the first period, it would have to wait until the third Bonus period to be presented 1st award again, except where a church has 200 or less members, then it could win top Bonus awards consecutively. However, third awards cannot be sought consecutively. Consequently every church group has the opportunity to secure an award every period.
No purchase of over $50 from any one merchant during a week can be counted.
There is a ceiling of $35 per person a week for grocery purchases.
In the event of the same amount of purchases by more than one entry, the award will be divided.
