Sunday School Lesson

BY REV. CLYDE B. WALTON

Pastor St. Amanda Baptist Church and McCullers Baptist Church

JESUS' MATCHLESS POWER

The general lesson is found in St. Mark 4: 35-41:43, and the printed text is found in St. Mark 5:1-13.

This lesson is concerned with a man in a miserable condition; he was under the power of an unclean spirit and was raving mad as he went among the tombs outside the city limit. He was so unclean that no man could build him and this was a terror and torment to himself and those about him.

When the man saw Christ afar off, coming ashore, he ran and worshipped Christ knowing that he was possessed with unclean spirits. Jesus commanded the spirits to come out of the man in order that the Holy Spirit could take possession of his heart and have dominion.

In our country and world today, many men are possessed with unclean spirits of hate, greed, and drunkenness which cause them to "live in a world to themselves and love people about them. No man can love his fellowmen or come out of the path of unclean or drunkenness without the Holy Spirit in his heart to guide him and have dominion because God does not dwell in any unclean temple.

The intention of all unclean spirits is to destroy mankind, body and soul. This lesson warns us to flee to that refuge which God has prepared for all of the believers in the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. Unconverted sinners are under a more fatal possession. Then that which destroys and distract men and destroy their health, because their souls are lost. If a man fails to save his soul from disease, then he suffers. But we are sure that Christ will save his soul if he so desires it. Not only will God save his soul but He will destroy his unclean spirits of hate, deceit, and drunkenness and give him a loving and peaceful heart toward all men.

Frequently, we see or hear of persons carried away by their own passions. Satan, the tempter, drives them into pollution and inquiry so that they dwell among those whose feet go down to death and whose steps take hold of hell. Neither fear, conscience, nor regard of interest and health, can restrain them. In this way man drives himself to penury, disease, prison, or death. In the meantime, he does not reproach their friends. He becomes the terror and nuisance of the community.

Yet if Jesus be pleased to exert his power, he can bring the most abandoned of them to fall down before Him. He will effect a blessing by changing character and conduct. Therefore it becomes our duty as Christians to so love and respect all mankind in order to help Christ destroy evil spirits of all kinds in the hearts of men. We must pray continuously that Christ may be pleased to exert his power to drive the unclean spirits of pride, malice, rivalry, discrimination, and drunkenness out of the hearts of men.

GOLDEN TEXT: Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great the Lord hath done for thee.
