At Shaw University:
Graveside Rites, Address Highlight Founder's Day

Shaw University's Ninety-third Founder's Day was observed on Friday, November 21, with the traditional graveside ceremony at the tomb of the Founder, Henry Martin Tupper. "Miss Shaw University," represented by Shirley Frances Parker, a senior of Newton Grove, and business education major, placed the wreath upon the grave of the founder.

Following this ceremony, the anniversary service was held in University Church. The principal speaker for the occasion was Dr. James L. Martin, physician of Philadelphia, and a 1906 graduate of the Shaw University Leonard Medical School.

In reviewing the history of the school, the speaker cited conditions which existed in 1855. He stated that there were about 2,000,000 ex-slaves who had been brainwashed for over 200 years, ignorant, irresponsible, illiterate and bewildered. The South, having lost the war had determined to completely annihilate the Negroes, by keeping them ignorant, poor, divided and suspicious of each other.

All of this, he claimed, had some degrees of success. Anyone who interfered with these plans was considered a rank enemy of the South. In this atmosphere and such adverse conditions, Henry Martin Tupper sought to improve the Negro when he founded Tupper Institute, which was the name given to the beginning of Shaw University.

Girl Cries "Rape" To Hide Acts

NEW ORLEANS — (ANP) — A youthful white girl reverted to the old days last week and tried to hide her wrongdoings by accusing four Negroes of committing a crime against her person.

She had police looking for the quartet, whom she claimed had assaulted and raped her.

However, later she admitted she had skipped school in order to spend the day in solitude with her boyfriend and claimed the rape to hide her escapade.

Many young Negroes had been taken in by police, and some claim to have been roughed up a bit. Years ago, this same thing caused the lynching of many innocent Negroes.

White Parents Suffer In School 'Mixing' Battle, T. Marshall Tells Newmen

BOSTON, Mass. — (ANP) — "White parents," Thurgood Marshall told reporters here, "suffer when their children are deprived of their rights to attend school."

The NAACP chief counsel held the press conference after debating with pro-segregationist Virginia editor, James J. Kilpatrick of the Richmond News Leader, on the school integration crisis in the South. The debate took place at Temple Mishkan Tefila in nearby Newton.

The NAACP counsel minced no words when he calmly pointed out that a "white murderer, if released, would be accepted in areas of the North where Marian Anderson and (Dr.) Ralph Bunche would be turned away."

"Jackie Robinson couldn't buy property because he was a Negro, but he did buy property elsewhere and it doubled in value, giving lie to statements property values depreciate where Negroes settle."

Mr. Marshall reminded his interviewers that the whole southern area of Texas was desegregated in 1956 and that there was not one bit of trouble. He declared a feeling of some people that they could remain "neutral" in the school integration crisis in the South.
