H. C. Taylor, Head Of A&T Art Department, Succumbs

GREENSBORO — H. Clinton Taylor, 60, chairman of the Art Department at A&T College since 1927 died here at a local hospital on Tuesday afternoon, December 2, following a brief illness.

Taylor came to the college as head of the art department and held the position up to his death.

A graduate of Syracuse University, he had also secured the master of arts degree from Columbia University. The deceased held memberships in a number of social and civic organizations in the city.

Born in Hertford, in 1898, Taylor later moved to Washington, D. C. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lella Taylor, a teacher in the local public schools; a daughter, Blanche, a student at Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn., and four brothers: Dr. W. E. Taylor and Robert Taylor of Washington.

NCC's Thespians Present "Hatful Of Rain" Dec. 11

DURHAM — North Carolina College Thespians will present Michael Gazzo's "A Hatful of Rain" in the B. N. Duke Auditorium on Thursday, December 11.

The play is realistic adult drama about a dope addict struggling to free himself of his addiction. Principals in the play are Cleveland Strickland of Raleigh, Cynthia McDonald, Southern Pines, Charles Lockhart, Wilmington, and Martin Golar of New York.

Three Durham students also have roles in the play. They are Carolyn Blue, Celia Brown and Theodore Gilliam.

Mary Bohannon is directing the play. Maris Uhaus is designing the sets.

Mathis Rocks 'Windy City' With Songs Of Christmas

CHICAGO (AP)—Sensational balladeer Johnny Mathis, freshly returned from a record-breaking series of engagements in Melbourne, Sidney and Brisbane, Australia, hit Chicago like a hurricane this week riding high on the crest of some new Christmas recordings that are topping the best seller lists.

Playing his fourth SRO engagement at the popular Black Orchid, squeezing in the engagement before returning to Hollywood to begin the filming of the story of his meteoric rise to fame in show business, cameras are set to start grinding early next year.

Significantly, a previous Mathis hit "Call Me" topped a record poll conducted by NBC deejay Daddy-O Dailey just a few days before the new Christmas songs were released, and is still getting a lot of spins. It was this number, incidentally, that was such a hit in the "Land Down Under" that more than 20,000 copies were sold immediately after Johnny's opening engagement in Melbourne.
